

Franklin Graham: Without This, There Is No Hope for America

Without God, there is no hope—for us, for our families, for our future.

So says evangelist Franklin Graham, who will launch his Decision America Tour in the new year.

“If the church of Jesus Christ would take a stand, then I believe we have hope for America,” Graham says in a new video promo.

As the election approaches, Graham is advocating action.

“I want to challenge Christians to pray, to get out and vote for candidates who support biblical values, and to get involved by running for office at all levels—school board, city council, mayor, state representative, and more,” Graham says. “This could be the most important election in our nation’s history. America has got some decisions to make—decisions that will affect our children and our grandchildren!”

Will you stand with him?

//