Prophetic Word: Look to the Next Three Months and Coming Regeneration

As we embark on the beginning of Jewish New Year 5783, God highlighted the three months of overlap between its beginning and the beginning of 2023 in the Gregorian calendar. Strong's Concordance's reference for 5783 (the Hebrew year beginning now) is the Hebrew word "ur", meaning "to be exposed or bare."

It's specifically used in regard to an act of preparation. This word shows up only in Habakkuk 3:9 in which he prays, "You (God) uncovered Your bow, You called for many arrows. You split the earth with rivers."

Beginning now, God is doing a deep work of "laying bare" and "exposing"—not as the enemy exposes (for evil purposes and accusation) but for purposes of truth and healing. On an individual level, this looks like deep inner healing or awakening of dormant callings. There will be freedom for those who are willing to sit with the Lord through the pain of the process and have Him walk them through redeeming their identities.

In my book "Uncommon Vessels," I share how God spoke to me about the image of a bow and arrows, with the bow being our identity...the unchanging truth of who we were called to be...and arrows being the purposes the Lord wants to partner with us in. As God exposes the "bow" of identity, with it will come to a quiver of "arrows of callings."

On a corporate level, this will look like exposing and awakening in the mountains of society. It's important to remember during this process to focus more on celebration and promotion of truth, than glorifying accusation because God already has justice worked out.

As we transition into 2023, Strong's correlates 2023 with the Greek “epichoregeo” meaning “I supply, provide lavishly or furnish.” The stripping down and laying bare is a preparation for this expression of abundance that we are moving into. On an individual level, this is operating fully in our callings as God lavishly supplies all we need to fulfill the visions He has given us.

This cannot happen without the deep healing that comes from the truths God is revealing these next few months both personally and corporately, so this is a call to spend extra time in prayer, receiving from the Lord both His truths about you as well as your role in His plans to bring truth to the nations.

I saw for the U.S. an image of DNA, and I asked the Lord what word this meant, and He said “regeneration.” I noticed inside the word regeneration is the word “gene.” In the natural, we are all designed with a unique gene pattern, and certain genes can be expressed (or not) based on a number of factors. We carry many genes that aren’t always expressed.

God is calling the U.S. back to its original identity. There are core things of God woven into its foundations that aren’t being fully expressed. The potential for this nation—and all nations—lies in its people’s ability to set the climate. We do so by pursuing our own individual alignment with the Lord in the secret place and pursuing our expression of His salvation in the marketplace (whether that’s your family, your job, your ministry, etc.). If we do this, we set the spiritual climate for the Lord to bring regeneration to the destiny of our nation.

Regeneration is defined by Webster as “spiritual renewal or revival”, “renewal or restoration of a body, bodily part or biological system (such as a forest) after injury or as a normal process,” and “utilization by special devices of heat or other products that would ordinarily be lost.” Hear the hope in that!

As we cooperate in setting the climate it is bringing revival, healing, restoration of the body and even renewal to certain systems like government or education that have been injured. It may be a couple of months of “heat” or “pressure” spiritually, but it is in order to save that which would have been lost. Don’t look to the process—look to the coming regeneration!

Prayer: Lord, we thank You that You see us and that You desire more wholeness and restoration for us. Thank you, Lord, for creating us so purposefully—help us to become reacquainted with who we are and where we are in Your process. Give us new arrows...new purposes to partner with You on. Bring regeneration to our nation and the church. Help me to do my part of bringing the personal regeneration You’re doing within me to the spheres You have placed me in externally. We pray for salvation, revival and regeneration for Your glory. In the name of Jesus. Amen.

Why God Cares About Your

Physical Health

God doesn't care if I am fat. He wants me to enjoy my life. He wants me to live, love and be happy. Food makes me happy so I'm just doing what He wants me to do.

That was just an excuse and at its core it is untrue.

God really doesn't care about our outward appearance. When I weighed over 430 pounds God still loved me, but He was very concerned about my health. I was going downhill fast.

Many I know have died of heart issues. A heart issue was the thing that caused the cardiac surgeon to stamp an expiration date on my body and that hurt really badly. He gave me five years to live if I didn't lose weight and keep it off.

That's the bad news. The good news is that was 22 years ago. By changing what I ate and still eat, I extended my life by 17 years and counting.

God Never Called Me Fat

God never called me fat, even when I was extremely large. He always spoke to me in kind and loving ways. However, don't tell me God doesn't care if I am fat. He doesn't care what I look like but if someone is super morbidly obese like I was, He does care. He wants us to be healthy.

If we are Christians, His Holy Spirit lives inside of us. Our bodies are His temple, His dwelling place, His home. Paul tells us in 1 Corinthians 6:19-20 (TLB), "Haven't you yet learned that your body is the home of the Holy Spirit God gave you, and that He lives within you? Your own body does not belong to you. For God has bought you with a great price. So, use every part of your body to give glory back to God because He owns it."

For years I treated my body like it was a garbage dump. I ate fast food and sugary treats. That was my steady diet. It's no wonder when God told me to stop eating food made with sugar and flour, I thought He was crazy. That was all I ate. I thought I'd starve.

When God sees us, He sees our potential. He also sees the real probability for us to ruin our potential. I was doing a really good job of that. I'm not talking about a small amount of weight I had to lose. I'm talking about over 250 pounds that I needed to lose. It was too great of a number for me to even think about.

Small Successes Are Great Motivators

An Overcomers Academy member asked me if I had a specific amount of weight I wanted to lose when I started my transformation journey. I said, "I just wanted to lose the next pound. Any more was too much for me to think about." I really didn't think about the total amount of weight I had lost until God asked me to write my memoir, "Sweet Grace."

Then I counted and from the highest weight I knew I had weighed, which was when I weighed on a freight scale, to where I was right then was 250 pounds. I know I weighed more than that because I had gotten to the point where I couldn't weigh even on a 500-pound scale. When you are that large you don't want to know what you weigh. Focusing on the next pound I needed to lose was all I could do.

Small successes are great motivators. I counted every small success. Every pound counted. Every clothing size I went down counted. Every time I cleaned out my closet and put my fat clothes in the garage counted. Every time I passed up dessert even though I longed for it counted.

I was finally on God's side, which was really my side. He wanted me to stop eating foods made with sugar and flour because He knew they were killing me. More than that, He wanted me to lose that monstrous amount of weight and not be afraid to write and speak about it because He wants others to get this same message. God wants all of His children to be healthy because He has a purpose for every one of us.

Surrender Is More Than Necessary

In order to fulfill the purposes God has for us we must surrender our selfish desires to Him. If we don't, they will become more important to us than God. Jesus told us this in no uncertain terms in Matthew 6:21 (NLT): "Where your treasure is, there your heart will be also."

If we don't surrender to God, we will find ourselves surrendering to something that will wreak havoc in our lives. There are so many things on this earth that can take us under: money, sex, food, drugs, pornography, alcohol, job security, retirement funds, fame, glory, just to name a few.

Only following God will satisfy our deepest cravings for belonging. Not fame. Not excitement. Not glory. Not stuff. Not money. Not food. We must surrender to God anything we have allowed to be more important to us than Him.

God Loves Us

We surrender to God because He loves us. In Isaiah 43:4 (ESV) God says, "You are precious in My eyes, and honored, and I love you."

I can submit to a God like that. I can surrender the things I desire for what He knows will fulfill my longings. I can do that because I know He loves me and knows me better than I know myself. The same is true for you. He loves you. He really loves you.

Morning Rundown: Why God is Laughing at Their World Domination Plans

Here's a quick summary of the top stories on :

Why God is Laughing at Their World Domination Plans

They will make the greatest bid for world domination in history.

It is no longer just armies that threaten freedom—it is corporations and corrupt politicians. I believe that evil in all of its vile colors is even now rising to try to crush our freedom and our churches.

They wield astonishing power. They have mountains of money, unlimited connections and enormous influence. Will they destroy nations and borders? Will they drive the church underground? Is it possible that they can indeed plow under the entire moral foundation of America, and even the world?

God's Smuggler, Brother Andrew, Dies at 94

The man known to Christians around the world as Brother

Andrew, who was responsible for smuggling Bibles into communist countries, died Tuesday. He was 94.

His Dutch name was Andrew van der Bijl, an evangelical who became the founder of Open Doors . But on its website, the ministry described him this way:

“We often describe Brother Andrew as the founder of Open Doors. But referring to him as ‘the founder’ could lead people to picture him as a suit-wearing executive who delivers presentations in a boardroom. That image, however, couldn’t be further from the truth. In actuality, Brother Andrew is our chief adventurer and lead risk taker. He’s best known, in fact, for courageously putting his life on the line to smuggle Bibles behind the Iron Curtain at the height of the Cold War.”

The Real Truth About the Marriage of Politics and Faith

As I look back, I realize that God has given me a career path with some rather unique experiences. I have built bridges at the intersection of faith and government my whole life, and I have learned that serving people through a role in government can be just as important as serving them through a role in the church.

To be involved in our communities is also to be involved in the political processes that impact them. Is it not better to prevent tragedy before we must race in and help heal it? The tragedy of corruption and betrayal of the people is happening every day in our modern system, and we do have the power to do something about it!

Many Christians have quite simply forgotten our enormous collective power.

The United States has the largest Christian population in the world and, more specifically, the largest Protestant population globally, with more than 200 million Christians.

Some simply do not believe that politics is something Jesus would call them to do, so they take no action other than prayer. But the truth is, He has given us the authority and ability to govern. The truth is that the government is designed for moral people to run it.

I am reminded of Matthew 7:3–5, “Why do you look at the speck of sawdust in your brother’s eye and pay no attention to the plank in your own eye? How can you say to your brother, 'Let me take the speck out of your eye,' when all the time there is a plank in your own eye? You hypocrite, first take the plank out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to remove the speck from your brother's eye."

It is time to get the plank out of your eye when it comes to political involvement. Before you complain about the problems you see with the government, ask yourself, "What am I doing to get involved and make a difference?" Everyone can do something. To have a moral, efficiently running political system is as important as having clean water and healthy food.

Christians understand the concept of tithing, but they seem to be totally disconnected from the fact that just as money is needed to run a church and feed orphans, money is needed to run campaigns to elect the right kind of people to office.

I have seen firsthand that people of faith can make an incredible difference in the needs of suffering communities here at home and all over the world. I have witnessed them fighting problems such as homelessness, youth violence, drug addiction, HIV/AIDS and malaria. I have seen them respond to disasters, provide education, deliver food assistance, and so much more. That degree of caring, commitment, and organization can also work toward strengthening our democracy and governance.

First and foremost, we must humble ourselves and pray, for this should always be where we start. "If my people, who are called by my name, will humble themselves and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, and I will forgive their sin and will heal their land" (2 Chron. 7:14, emphasis added).

It doesn't stop there however. Saying to our leadership, "I'm going to pray for you," and then going on about our lives just isn't enough. To restore the country and preserve our freedoms, including our religious freedoms, you are going to have to get involved.

What would have happened if Elisha stopped with prayer in 2 Kings 4:32–35? “When Elisha reached the house, there was the boy lying dead on his couch. He went in, shut the door on the two of them, and prayed to the Lord. Then he got on the bed and lay on the boy, mouth to mouth, eyes to eyes, hands to hands. As Elisha stretched himself out on him, the boy’s body grew warm. Elisha turned away and walked back and forth in the room and then got on the bed and stretched out on him once more. The boy sneezed seven times and opened his eyes.” Prayer was just the start of the miracle that was performed through Elisha!

We pray first that we are guided to make the right choices at the polls. Too often we blindly vote for the career politician because we recognize their name. Are we biased just because we’ve heard about them for years, sometimes most of our lives?

But what do we really know about them? Are they serving the people who sent them there? Many of these folks are good at getting elected, but they are not very good at serving their constituents. Perhaps you feel like God has been nudging you to get more involved politically or to even consider running for office.

Are you concerned about what you see happening around you but don’t know what to do? Thinking differently about how you approach the arena of government may be what God is encouraging you to do.

Christian School Under Fire Due to Homework Asking for Pictures 'In the Bathtub'

Read time: 4 minutes 56 seconds

In today's world, discernment is a critical tool for parents raising their children. This includes when dealing with schools that claim to be Christian. A parent or guardian needs to be diligent and discerning in all matters concerning their child or children.

This was the case for Misty Dunham when she observed an unusual homework assignment her 8-year-old daughter was given by her teacher. The assignment was to take a picture while reading in the bathtub, and this did not sit well with Misty.

Dunham reached out to the teacher saying, "I emailed the teacher [to say] 'Hey, you may want to explain that. Send something out to the parents. Let them know what the intentions are.'" This just does not sound ok."

Mrs. Dunham was not satisfied with the teacher's response. "She did send out a message saying, 'you should be in pajamas, be in your uniform, have fun with it.' But it didn't sit right," Dunham explained. "A bathtub is not appropriate for a child to take a picture."

Misty is correct, in this day and age a parent cannot be too careful when it comes to the safety of their children. Too many breeches of trust have given parents a cause for concern even in potentially innocent situations with teachers, sitters, troop leaders or any adult in a position of authority over their children.

Dunham decided to bring this to the attention of the school's administration. The response came back much more defensive and combative than one would expect.

The school told her, "We have been sending this homework assignment for years, and you're the only one complaining about it. Just cover your child in pillows or pajamas," according to the Jacksonville Sheriff's police report.

This response should trigger a warning for any parent in this situation. The combativeness, rudeness and deflection within the response does not in any way demonstrate a Christian heart or attitude.

Parents have rights when it comes to their children, and asking for clarification of an assignment is well within those rights.

The president of Victory Christian Academy, Pastor Jesse Latta, defended the school's stance on the assignment by issuing a written response saying the assignment, "was taken out of an online teacher resource and has been used in many schools."

Neither of those arguments justifies the use of a potentially inappropriate assignment. "Other people use it" is an excuse a child would give an adult who has been caught red-handed doing something they know is wrong, and offers no logic-based reason for that particular assignment to be utilized in the classroom.

The next step the school took was to administratively withdraw Misty Dunham's daughter, McKenzie from the school. They first requested the parents voluntarily withdraw their daughter, and then removed her upon the parents' refusal to do so.

"She did something right by telling mom and dad that she wasn't comfortable with something, and now she's no longer in school," said McKenzie's father Christopher Dunham.

The school then appeared to cover its tracks, and shield itself from any potential problems in the future by removing the assignment altogether:

"While the assignment was completely innocent, out of an abundance of caution and for there to be no misunderstandings, our administration has removed this particular assignment for any future use," claimed Latta. "We value our children, and their safety is our top priority. We will continue to serve the children and families in which the Lord has graciously allowed us to have a part in their lives."

Pastor Latta refused to confirm or deny that the school had exacted revenge on the Dunham's for bringing their complaint forward by having their daughter removed.

Blaze TV guest, Matthew Marsden, addressed this situation during a show with host Sara Gonzalez:

"Just because they say it's a Christian academy doesn't mean that it is," Marsden said. "You don't do this ... the internet is forever. You take a picture like that, it's out there forever. This is just so weird ... it's just a head-scratcher. Is this where we are in America? This is, it's evil," he claimed.

Mr. Marsden is correct, just because a person or place claim to be one thing, does not mean that they are in fact what they claim to be. Using discernment and the knowledge contained within the Word of God will equip and enable parents to understand situations that could potentially become dangerous for their children. {eoa}

New Christian Film 'Paul's Promise' Highlights Little Rock Nine in Civil Rights Movement

Read Time: 2 minutes 5 seconds

New Hollywood film 'Paul's Promise' is an inspiring true story taking place during the 1960's Civil Rights movement. As more and more Christian films start to dominate the Hollywood scene, the industry is waking up to the evangelical audience looking for Spirit-led movies.

"We are squarely standing on the shoulders of those who have come before us in this genre," says actor Ryan O'Quinn. Quinn has been in the film and television industry for 27 years. He's worked tirelessly to bring the gospel to Hollywood through his production company Damascus Road.

O'Quinn says that since 'Passion of the Christ', which was the top rated R film in the industry, Hollywood executives have been more apt to help Christian content. Now, with their new movie, 'Paul's Promise,' they are hoping the audience will find a story that is "something bigger than them."

For the secular community that comes out to see the film during its Oct. 21 release date, O'Quinn is believing they will find eternal salvation through the riveting true story. "We can argue with someone's we most likely aren't going to change someone's mind," O'Quinn says in a Charisma News podcast interview that you can listen to here.

O'Quinn plays the main character in the movie, Paul Holderfield, who was a former racist firefighter that was radically touched by God during his mother's journey with health problems. In the movie you watch his path of becoming a pastor who started one of the first integrated churches in the South.

"As I read the screenplay, it was so fascinating in that Paul's story very much paralleled my fathers story and the relationship with his mother," O'Quinn says.

It wasn't his original plan to play Paul in the movie, but as he sought God and found his own family falling within the storyline, it quickly became evident that it was God's plan.

The movie highlights the 1950's Little Rock Central High School crisis, where a local high school in Little Rock, Arkansas gained national media attention for desegregating the school on Sept. 3, 1957.

The historic Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka Supreme Court case in 1954 paved the way for the Little Rock Nine to fight back against the unconstitutional segregation in public schools. The Little Rock Nine were the first nine African American students to register to attend Central High School in Arkansas.

The nine students were stopped by Arkansas National Guard from entering the school's premises despite the Supreme Court decision. President Dwight D. Eisenhower later sent in federal troops to escort the students into the public school.

This was a historic moment for the civil rights movement. O'Quinn believes that as the world comes together to watch this true story unfold in the theaters that they will see what God did in the lives of the characters to cause a cultural change.

Pastor Mark Driscoll Suspended from TikTok for Conservative Post

Read Time: 1 minute 53 seconds

Another conservative thinker has been suspended from social media after posting that men can't have babies. Pastor Mark Driscoll from Trinity Church in Scottsdale, Arizona was temporarily suspended from TikTok on Sept. 17 for posting part of his sermon on the app.

Driscoll took to Twitter to share his suspension which has since been lifted. In his post he says, "What happens on TikTok when you say that men can't have babies." Driscoll posted Romans 1:18 which says, "The wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who suppress the truth through unrighteousness."

What happens on TikTok when you say that men can't have babies.

"For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who by their unrighteousness suppress the truth."

Romans 1:18

– Pastor Mark Driscoll (@PastorMark) September 17, 2022

In his 'Act Like a Man' sermon series, Driscoll tells his congregation that the problem America is facing today is the lack of solid male leadership. He says, "The problem in our day is not toxic masculinity it's the complete lack of masculinity from the White House to the out house."

Read Time: 1 minute

The world needs courageous male leadership that isn't afraid to speak the truth in love and fight for biblical values. The world will always fight against what the Bible says because the enemy is prowling around like a lion looking to steal, kill and destroy.

"My goal is not to save America, but to see Americans saved," Driscoll says.

Driscoll isn't the first and certainly won't be the last person to be suspended from social media for posting something related to transgenderism or conservative thought.

In Jan. 2021 Twitter banned President Donald Trump from twitter and numerous conservatives since then. The Babylon Bee, a satirical group was locked out of their Twitter account for the last couple months for honoring Biden Administrations Dr. Rachel Levine as its "Man of the Year."

Now the Bee says their internal email provider 'Front' has canceled their account. In a statement CEO Seth Dillon says,

“It probably comes as no surprise that Front is run by a group of woke, left-wing tech elitists. They simply can’t abide by satire that dares to mock their left-wing orthodoxy.”

Dillion continued saying, “So they orchestrated their attack to do the most damage they could possibly do.”

The power that these tech giants hold is tremendous and their censorship over conservative thought goes against everything this nation was founded on. Christians across the nation should pray that the gospel will go forth in American and the world and the truth will prevail. {eoa}

Larry Tomczak: The Democrats’ Diabolical 10-Point Plan to Destroy America, Part 2

Read Time: 2 Minutes, 35 Seconds

This is the second part of a commentary exposing the Democrat Party’s masterplan to bring about the destruction of America as we know it.

Previously, I shared the first five points of the plan. Here are points 6-10:

6. Democratic activists and climate change/global warming zealots persist to foster a complete disruption of our gas supply and what was energy independence. They promote a radical Green New Deal agenda amidst hysterical fears of our planet ending in 10 years. Cutting the XL pipeline and harsh restrictions for our energy industry set in motion the catastrophic escalation of gas prices, shortages and over 9% inflation!

7. Promote nationwide, radical and lax “reforms” in criminal justice with “defund the police,” prisoner release, no bail and few prosecutions to enflame unprecedented deadly crime waves across America primarily in liberal, Democrat run localities. The narrative pushed is that America is “racist” and most lawbreakers are “victims”. Marxist billionaire George Soros has spent $40 million on campaigns to elect leftist district attorneys and “anti-incarceration” administrators letting criminals loose and facilitating the collapse of our cities.

8. Continue so-called “voting reform” tactics with mail-in ballots, drop boxes, ballot harvesting, no voter ID and minimal if any surveillance. Under the guise of “voter integrity” unscrupulous individuals work to bring our democratic voting system down to achieve their intentions in elections at the federal, state and local level. Recall the last presidential election?

9. Support the increasingly growing “police state” with sophisticated surveillance to repress our freedoms and put the totalitarian government in place. For six years Donald Trump has been at the forefront fighting the Russian collusion hoax, Ukraine deception, January 6 commission and most recently the unprecedented FBI raid on his Mar-a-Lago home. On a regular basis we hear of how the FBI, Department of Justice, IRS (87,000 new agents) and other government agencies have been weaponized and politicized along with the corrupt media while continuing to ignore Hillary’s and Hunter’s lawbreaking.

10. Keep hammering initiatives to remove our constitutional Second Amendment right to bear arms for our safety and the protection of our personal lives, property and families. How ironic and yet hypocritical that the very Democrat politicians who want to take away our guns all have private armed security guards, justified of course by the argument that they are “elite.”

Here’s the Deal: Everything presented here is based on fact-based analysis from a biblical worldview. On a regular basis Biden, Harris, Pelosi, Karine Jean Pierre (White House Spokesperson) and Democrat politicians who have no moral code lie to us. The situation is urgent. May God awaken us into praying, voting for righteous candidates and cleaning house in the upcoming midterm election. The clock is ticking and our future in America hangs in the balance.

“There is a thin line in society between food and anarchy, freedom and repression, liberty and tyranny, safety and street violence. It’s thinner than we want to admit and it’s being pushed to its limits on purpose by ideologues [radicalized Democrats–globalists, Marxists, socialists and anarchists] who want to deconstruct our society. Tearing down society is a dangerous game.”–William Jacobson {eoa}

Christian Graduate Overcomes University’s Attempt to Ruin His Life

Read time: 2 minutes 43 seconds

The woke, anti-life movement is not unique to the United States. It is a problem that Christians everywhere have to deal with. A spirit of death, lies and transformation that is infecting every nation on the Earth.

A graduate in psychology and faithful believer, Christian Cortez Perez found this out first hand. The university's School of Medicine and Psychology at The Autonomous University of Baja California in Mexicali, Mexico, attempted to strip Perez of his diploma and awards that he had earned as a student.

His crime? To give a pro-life, pro-family speech as the top graduate of his class, which he earned through hard work, dedication and a commitment to Godly principles and values.

While there was nothing a rational person would describe as hateful in Perez's speech, his professors and university staff labeled it "hate speech" and several walked out with students who disagreed with his stance on life and family.

In the targeted speech, Perez shared, "Today we are deep into a real anthropological struggle to redefine the human being, the human person, man, through the implementation of ideologies and fashions of thought that always end up undermining dignity and freedom."

Quoting the English writer and theologian G.K. Chesterton he continued, "'People do not know what they are doing; because they do not know what they are undoing.' To attack life and the family is to self-destruct, it is an attack on civilization itself. You have to love; no one seeks the good of the other if he does not love him."

This situation describes perfectly the prophetic words of Paul in 2 Timothy 3:1-5 and 4:2-3. Perez is rebuking the worldly phenomenon of redefining gender, and the practice of child sacrifice which is abortion.

But his words fell on deaf ears. These are lovers of themselves who have accepted false doctrine of the world, not of God. As 2 Timothy 4:3-4 says, "For the time will come when people will not endure sound doctrine, but they will gather to themselves teachers in accordance with their own desires, having itchy ears, and they will turn their ears away from the truth and turn to myths.”

Perez displayed graciousness when the university dismissed the call to have his license to practice psychology and degree withdrawn. “I am overjoyed that the university has recognized that I committed no wrong in exercising my free speech rights to speak about issues of profound moral concern from the graduation podium,” he shared.

His legal counsel echoed this sentiment, but also called to light the importance of free speech not only on a university level, but on all levels of social interaction.

“While it is very unfortunate that Christian had to go through this completely inappropriate ordeal, let this be a clear signal to all that students have the right to voice their views in a public university. Free speech is fundamental for flourishing intellectual life both in and beyond school,” declared Carlos Ramirez, Perez’s lead lawyer.

This trend will only continue for Christians as time moves forward. But being strong and courageous, as the Lord commands, will see believers worldwide claim the victory in Christ. {eoa}
