

DOJ Report Reveals Widespread Anti-Christian Bias During Biden Administration

The Department of Justice (DOJ) has uncovered a large range of “anti-Christian” actions that took place under the Biden administration.

According to Fox News, the Biden administration “weaponized the full weight of the federal government against Christians,” reporting that there were “numerous instances” where bias against Christians was exercised by the administration.

The DOJ task force working on the case has set out to make sure that “any unlawful and improper conduct, policies, or practices that target Christians are identified, terminated, and rectified.”

In the DOJ findings shared by Fox News, some of the examples of bias under the Biden administration included less government help to Christians demographics, such as: “limited humanitarian relief to Christians relative to other populations and offered muted responses to attacks on Christians compared to other groups.”

Another element that the Biden administration got rid of included the Department of Labor (DOL)'s "Office of Faith Based Initiatives" which was replaced instead with a "Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Office." The Department of Housing spent time discriminating against Christian holidays through their marketing efforts compared to other notable celebrations, while the Department of State (DOS) treated non-Christian employees in a higher regard than those who hold a Christian faith.

The DOJ's findings make it clear just how close we came to seeing our Christian freedoms completely eroded. We were not merely observing unfair policies—we were witnessing a tangible threat to the ability of Christians to practice their faith freely without institutional disadvantage or discrimination.

Now is not the time to sit back or assume that the threat has passed. Protecting our freedoms requires active engagement through prayer, advocacy and a commitment to shaping culture in alignment with Christian values. By remaining vigilant, speaking out against bias and fostering a culture that honors God, we can ensure that future generations inherit a society where Christian freedoms are not just preserved but strengthened.

Skeletons, UFOs and the

Nephilim: LA Marzulli Reveals Hidden History

In a powerful interview with Pastor Mike Signorelli, Rabbi Kirt Schneider is sharing how modern culture has changed many of the ways that Christians present themselves to the world. Some of it, as Schneider describes, is not for the best.

“Oftentimes, we hear a greasy grace and a sloppy agape that God loves us, but we don’t really know how to walk before Him in holiness,” Schneider explains.

The Torah, far from being outdated, is God’s self-revelation. As Schneider notes, “We are not under the letter of the law, but the Torah is God’s self-revelation...Paul said it’s helpful for training in righteousness.”

In his book, Decoding the Torah, Schneider walks through over a hundred of these laws, explaining both their original context and how believers—Jew and Gentile alike—can apply them today. He highlights practical lessons even in areas that may seem obscure, such as the clothing of priests. Exodus 20:26 instructs priests to ascend ramps rather than steps so that “their nakedness will not be exposed,” teaching believers that holiness includes modesty. At the same time, God desires beauty and glory: “You shall make holy garments...garments for glory and for beauty.” God calls His people to dress in ways that honor Him, without drawing attention to the flesh.

The Torah also addresses moral courage and resisting cultural compromise. Exodus 23:2 warns, "You shall not follow the masses in doing evil." Schneider reminds Christians, "Few are willing to be rejected for the Lord...because we want to be accepted and loved, we compromise and yield to the pressure of what the Scripture calls the evil majority."

Schneider further explains that the Torah teaches believers how to handle fear. Deuteronomy 20:8 instructs that those who are afraid should step aside so their fear doesn't affect others. Schneider emphasizes, "The command to not be afraid is the most repeated command in the Bible...When we learn how to fear God alone and no one else, you're going to rise up like a lion." In a world filled with uncertainty and anxiety, fear can be overcome by choosing to fear God above all else.

From modesty to courage, the Torah offers timeless wisdom. This is the moment that Christians are being invited to walk in holiness, fear God alone and live in alignment with His eternal design.

'The Conjuring' Sparks Fear

as Audience Receives Holy Water Amid Possession Claims

There is a reason that we are supposed to focus on the things that are good, noble, holy and pure.

Videos circulating online showcase that the latest film from “The Conjuring” series is doing much more than scaring people, but rather is enabling demonic possessions to occur in real time.

According to Prime Timer, during a showing of “The Conjuring: Last Rites” a man began to convulse and wail during the screening of the film in South Texas. One online commentator said that while he thought this act could have been for promotional purposes, we can’t be too sure that it was not an actual possession. People reportedly attempted to help the man, with others leaving the theater.

However, this is just the beginning. Videos online show people getting blessed by a priest before going into watch the film.

Standing next to a sign that says “prayers and blessings,” in the entrance of the theater a priest waited for movie goers where he then prayed over them and blessed them with a small vile of holy water. The sign has an upside down cross on it, which is known in Satanism and occultism.

This is happening as the famous “Annabelle doll” from the movie series has been traveling on the “Devil’s on the Run tour,” during which Dan Rivera, who was hosting the tour, unexpectedly died. Now, comedian Matt Rife has taken guardianship of the doll, along with an occult museum, hundreds of haunted items and Matt and Lorraine Warren’s home. As Charisma previously reported, revivalist Isaiah Saldivar gave a warning to Rife about the dangers of taking ownership of these items that could open him up to attacks from the demonic realm.

Back in 2013 when the first film released warning signs were placed in theaters that read, “The film you are about to see is psychologically and emotionally disturbing. People who have attended early screenings of the film have complained about many unusual circumstances that they have experienced after seeing the film.”

The reality of what it means to play with darkness was literally right in front of people. The rest of the sign read: “Due to our concern for your well-being, we have invited Father Perez to be here. He will be available after the film to provide spiritual support and/or conduct a personal blessing should you feel the need. Please do not hesitate to seek help. Ask a representative where you can sign up for a session with our priest.”

These events are not purely coincidental. Instead, they are part of a grander scheme of the enemy to steal, kill and destroy anything and everything he can. “The Conjuring” franchise just simply comes with one of the most explicit labels of spiritual darkness around.

We must recognize that the enemy uses open doors to gain influence, and horror films rooted in the occult are one of the clearest entry points. The Bible reminds us to set our minds on what is holy and pure, not to entertain darkness masquerading as entertainment.

Christians are called to guard their hearts and minds from anything that glorifies evil, and “The Conjuring” franchise is a direct glorification of the demonic realm. What we watch and allow into our homes matters, and this film series is not something to be toyed with. Instead of feeding fear and darkness, we should cling to the light of Christ, pursue what is good and close every door to the enemy.

53 Christians Publicly Accused of Espionage Amid Rising Religious Persecution

As the world continues to grow colder and colder to Christianity, persecution is ramping up unlike ever before.

According to the Christian Post, 53 Christians were accused of both espionage and “anti-security activities” by Iran’s Ministry of Intelligence. In fact, the Iranian state television programming aired footage of the Christians who have been detained with the Bibles and other faith-based literature pieces that were reportedly smuggled into the country.

As Article 18 News reported, the Christians were forced to confess that they traveled outside of the nation to gain religious teaching. It is believed that some of the other items the Christians had with them included copies of the New Testament and Alcoholics Anonymous handbooks.

The Christian Post also noted that broadcasting forced confessionals is a rarity, even for Iranian authorities.

The recent events in Iran are a stark reminder that Christians around the world continue to face unimaginable challenges simply for their faith. These acts of persecution highlight the urgent need for global awareness and solidarity within the body of Christ, as these brothers and sisters endure suffering that many of us cannot imagine.

As followers of Christ, we are called to lift up our persecuted brothers and sisters in prayer, asking God to grant them courage, protection and strength in the face of oppression. We must pray not only for their physical safety but also for their spiritual perseverance, that their faith would remain unshaken even in the most harrowing circumstances.

Pastor Jack Hibbs Explains the 3 Rules of Heaven's Government

As the Jewish calendar approaches Rosh Hashanah 5786, beginning Sept. 22, 2025, prophetic voice Amanda Grace is sounding the alarm about the times we are entering.

As she points out, the Hebrew calendar, biblical patterns and unfolding world events all point toward a sobering reality: the enemy is attempting to hook the church, the nation and even global leadership into deception as preparation for what lies ahead in 2026 and beyond.

The Year of the Hook (5786)

Grace notes that the Hebrew year 5786 corresponds to the sixth letter of the Hebrew alphabet, Vav, which means “hook” or “tent peg.” In Scripture, Vav often connects heaven and earth, symbolizing attachment and joining. Yet just as a hook can connect, it can also ensnare.

“Vav means hook, and a hook is designed to latch on,” Grace declared. “When a fish is hooked, it doesn’t go willingly. It is dragged where it doesn’t want to go.” In this season, the enemy seeks to drag both individuals and nations toward compromise.

This ties directly to the sixth day of creation, when God made man. Because of this, the number six represents mankind. But Satan seeks to corrupt this by twisting it into 666—the number of the Antichrist. The “hook” becomes a picture of how the Antichrist spirit lures the world, attaching leaders and systems to darkness.

Brokenness and Peace

Interestingly, in the Torah the Hebrew word shalom (peace) is written with a broken Vav. This points to Messiah, whose body was broken to bring reconciliation. “The peace of God came because Messiah was broken,” Grace explained. “But the enemy wants to break man in such a way that there’s no coming back—hooked, trapped and destroyed.”

The Enemy’s Bait

Hooks only work when bait is placed on them. In this year, seducing spirits are baiting God’s people with shiny lures—false ideologies, shallow distractions and offenses.

“There is a cooperation of spirits—Amalek, Ishtar, Baal—working to weaken the church,” Grace warned. By dividing God’s people and dulling spiritual discernment, the firewall of protection is lowered, leaving both church and nation vulnerable to infiltration.

Just as Israel opened a spiritual door before the Oct. 7, 2023 attacks by holding its largest pride parade, so too can America invite judgment if it violates God's covenant or turns against Israel.

A Prophetic Timeline

Grace further gave a breakdown of a timeline of what we can expect to see happen in the coming years regarding the Hebrew calendar.

- 5785 (2024–2025): “Grace on both sides, sword in the middle”—a year of battle bracketed by mercy.
- 5786 (2025–2026): The year of the hook, marked by seduction and deception.
- 5787 (2026–2027): Beginning on Sept. 11, 2026, this Rosh Hashanah becomes a prophetic 9/11 wake-up call.
- 5788 (2028–2029): A Shemitah year, ushering in another shaking as America faces a pivotal election.

Grace's word is clear: “The turning of a nation is not up to politicians. It's up to God's people.” As 2 Chronicles 7:14 reminds us, if believers humble themselves, pray, seek His face and turn from their wicked ways, then the Lord will hear, forgive and heal the land.
