

This One Key Will Finally Bring You Spiritual Breakthrough

Many people often feel they don't have enough time to spend with God amid the busyness of life, using this as a reason to skip daily moments of intimacy with Him. However, committing to even a short, focused time each day—15 or 30 minutes—can drastically change one's productivity and spiritual fruitfulness.

In a powerful video with Katie Souza and Chris Garcia, the two detailed the significance of how beginning the day by in God's presence opens the door for supernatural favor and efficiency.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

“If we want to be fruitful in our bodies, in our jobs, in our finances, in our families, in our relationships, we just need to choose to first live in union with Him and make that our priority,” says Souza.

Without this connection with Christ, our efforts in our work, relationships and personal growth lack lasting impact. Many things in life—whether distractions, worries or spiritual attacks—act like choking vines or thorns that hinder growth. But when we remain united with Jesus, the true source of life, we are empowered to flourish.

“The reality of the gospel is that in Christ, you are intricately in union with Jesus,” says Garcia. “So, He wants to vicariously live and be fruitful through your being as you cling to Him.”

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

It's important to realize that this union is not something to be earned or fought for. Scripture reveals that all things related to life and godliness have already been provided through Christ. Believers don't have to strive to enter God's presence—they are already in Him. The challenge is to awaken to that reality and live from that place of victory and abundance.

When believers cultivate intimacy with God in their spirit, it creates an overflow that renews the mind, aligns emotions and strengthens the will. This internal transformation manifests as peace, joy, self-control and other fruit of the Spirit.

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!

Ultimately, believers are invited to rest in what Christ has already accomplished. Healing, provision and spiritual authority are not distant promises—they have already been secured. Our role is to walk in faith, yielding to God and declaring the reality of His provision rather than striving or waiting passively.

Prioritizing daily communion with Jesus is essential, not optional. It is the source of true strength, breakthrough and lasting fruitfulness in every area of life.

Amanda Grace: How Ancient Biblical Cycles Are Shaping Modern America

Prophetic words from Amanda Grace are revealing a stirring narrative unfolding in America—one of long-hidden corruption, spiritual battles and divine timing coming together to bring exposure and breakthrough.

Starting in late 2022 and intensifying through 2024 and 2025, Grace's prophecies have spoken repeatedly of "vaults" within America's banking systems, courts and secretive three-letter agencies like the CIA. These vaults hold concealed capital and evidence buried for decades. As Grace prophesies the Lord is, "...revealing what was laid hidden for decades...[including] vaults of agencies that have three letters in your nation that have attempted to bury deep capital." This prophetic "great excavation" aims to expose deep-rooted corruption that was designed to undermine the nation.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

This uncovering is already happening. Investigative voices like Jesse Waters confirm how critical evidence hidden in CIA vaults reveal that the Russia collusion narrative is "an elaborate deception and charade" orchestrated to prevent President Trump's election. Prophecy aligns with these revelations, describing a divine unearthing that transcends borders and nations.

A key theme woven throughout these prophecies is a profound reversal of power: "The hunter shall become the hunted." First spoken by Grace in 2019 and reiterated multiple times, this phrase reflects how those who once sought to oppress and dismantle God's people are now being exposed and brought low. This sentiment was echoed in President Trump's own words: "I was the hunted and now I'm the hunter." Today, subpoenas and investigations are bearing witness to this shift, as former hunters face scrutiny for their own deeds.

**Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!**

Timing is pivotal in this prophetic drama. The current era echoes biblical cycles and celestial signs. Grace points to the two blood moons framing President Trump's second term beginning in 2025—mirroring the blood moons during Bill Clinton's first term in 1993. The 28-year span between Clinton's second term and Trump's second term aligns with the biblical reign of King Jehu, anointed to purge corruption in ancient Israel.

These interconnected timelines and symbolic events reveal a divine orchestration behind the current upheaval. Grace emphasizes that God is actively reversing wicked plots—symbolized by the "Hamans" from Esther's story—to protect and empower His people. The assurance is clear: "I am preparing a table before you in the presence of your enemies... you shall eat the meal of victory."

As America moves through this prophetic window, from 2025 through 2028, marked by eclipses and political upheaval, the unmasking of deception continues. The shift from oppression to victory signals that the spiritual and political tides are turning for the good.

Allie Beth Stuckey: Are Labubu Dolls a Cultural Obsession or Spiritual Threat?

Labubu is the latest collectible doll craze sweeping the globe, especially on social media platforms like TikTok. But alongside the excitement, some have raised concerns – is this harmless plush monster actually connected to demonic forces?

What Is Labubu?

As Allie Beth Stuckey explains, Labubu is a “plush monster doll character” inspired by a Hong Kong author and artist Kasing Lung’s fantasy trilogy “The Monsters.” Stuckey describes Labubu as a “mischievous but kind-hearted elf” who causes playful chaos but ultimately has “good intentions.” The dolls became a viral sensation, helped along by celebrities like Dua Lipa and Rihanna, and have grown into a massive collectible trend with PopMart, the Chinese company behind them, raking in hundreds of millions of dollars.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

According to Stuckey, “Labubu has become this global collectible craze, with people so obsessed they attend Labubu fashion shows, raves and even Labubu pride events.” But she also notes, “these are adults, not kids – which says something about the cultural moment we’re in.”

The Demonic Allegations

Some critics online have linked Labubu to the ancient Mesopotamian demon Pazuzu due to “similar facial features such as the big eyes and mischievous grin.” Pazuzu was known as a “king of demons of the wind,” who could bring plagues or protection depending on how people invoked him. Stuckey points out that “while Pazuzu was considered evil, people still kept charms of him for protection – and Labubu, despite being innocent, is also a troublemaker in the stories.”

To order Jonathan Cahn's new book, The Avatar, visit Amazon.com.

There are even viral TikToks claiming the doll's eye color changes or that its smile grows larger, with some users attributing personal misfortunes to owning Labubu. One user “burned her Labubu, calling it cursed,” while another “threw the doll away after a near-death experience.” Yet Stuckey questions these stories: “Are these real spiritual encounters or just content designed for views? I don't know."

What Does the Bible Say?

Stuckey turns to Scripture for clarity. Citing 1 Corinthians 8:4-6, she says, "Paul makes it clear that idols and objects themselves have no power. 'An idol is nothing at all in the world,' and only God has real authority."

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

Stuckey warns against superstition, and encourages believers to focus on "worshiping the Creator rather than the creature," and to "discern cultural influences while standing firm in God's authority."

What Should Parents and Christians Do?

While Labubu itself is "not inherently demonic," Stuckey stresses the importance of cultural discernment. "The obsession with these dolls reflects larger cultural issues – perpetual adolescence, misplaced attachments and social media-fueled addictions." She advises parents, "It's your job to set boundaries and teach your kids to avoid these harmful obsessions."

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!

Above all, Stuckey urges believers to "know the power of God over evil, and not to fear objects but to exercise spiritual authority in Christ." Rather than fearing toys or symbols, she says, "We should focus on teaching biblical truth and protecting the vulnerable."

LA Marzulli: What JD Vance's UFO Interest Means for the Coming Great Deception

In recent months, the topic of UFOs—or unidentified aerial phenomena (UAPs)—has surged into mainstream political and cultural conversations. Among the voices taking a serious look at these mysteries is Vice President J.D. Vance, who has openly expressed his fascination and concern over the growing evidence of unexplained objects in our skies.

As L.A. Marzulli shared, Vance discussed UFOs candidly on the Ruthless Podcast, acknowledging the many puzzling videos and reports that have emerged in recent years. “I haven’t gotten to the bottom of it yet,” Vance admitted, “but we’re only six months into the administration.” His comments reflect a growing political interest in uncovering the truth behind these phenomena, especially as they continue to appear in military and civilian airspace.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Marzulli, a prominent researcher and host known for his work on the supernatural and UFO topics, highlights Vance’s involvement as a key moment in public awareness. Marzulli also issues a stark warning that goes beyond politics: UFOs represent what he calls the coming great deception, a spiritual and global event that many are not prepared for.

“The church won’t even address it,” Marzulli says. “Do we have a form of religion but deny its power?”

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

This silence, he argues, leaves many vulnerable when these mysterious crafts become impossible to ignore. Marzulli’s grim prediction is that when the Rapture occurs, these alien crafts will arrive openly. This convergence, he warns, will cause massive confusion and challenge believers’ faith in unprecedented ways.

Marzulli laments that the church remains largely silent, failing to prepare its people for what he calls a “mega lever” – a game-changing event that will alter paradigms globally in an instant.

Marzulli points out recent sightings of mysterious drones over the United States, which the government claims pose no threat. He speculates these drones could be searching for hidden “dirty bombs” with radioactive material, a theory that underscores the layers of danger beyond just the UFO phenomenon itself.

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!

Vance’s public interest signals that UFOs are no longer fringe topics but urgent questions for governments and the public alike. Meanwhile, voices like Marzulli are urging the church to awaken and prepare, because the coming great deception is not just about technology or politics—it’s a challenge to faith itself.

After Red Heifer Setback, Can Third Temple Preparations Stay on Track?

New developments surrounding Israel's red heifer program have stirred discussion among prophecy watchers and those following preparations for the Third Temple.

As Charisma recently reported, the Temple Institute announced that all of the red heifers were disqualified from being used for upcoming sacrifice that many have been awaiting patiently for. Now, Mondo Gonzales of Prophecy Watchers is also sharing his viewpoint on the topic.

"About two weeks ago, Byron had posted a video of a ceremony that took place, which was clearly not on the Mount of Olives. It was in Samaria," Gonzales explained. The brief video showed a red heifer burning ceremony lasting only a few seconds.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Shortly after, the Temple Institute announced a surprising update: the five red heifers brought to Israel on September 15, 2022, "were no longer qualified." Gonzales noted, "These cows are almost four years old now... There's no upper age limit, so a lot of people wonder, did maybe these cows get disqualified because of too many non-red hairs?"

The Temple Institute's Facebook post also admitted, "They can't always be fully transparent," a statement Gonzales said matched his early suspicions about the vulnerability of these animals: "How can you have these red heifers out in Shiloh where they're accessible to be harmed? That was always a question."

**Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!**

Despite this disqualification, Byron Stinson released a longer video of a July 1 ceremony in Samaria, which he described as a legitimate ritual: "It was done with a Cohen, a priest, and a very qualified red heifer... It followed all of the biblical commands." However, Gonzales pointed out, "It just doesn't follow all of the oral traditions of the rabbinic traditions." Stinson himself acknowledged, "Will it be accepted by everybody? No... Will there be another one on the Mount of Olives? Probably."

Looking ahead, Gonzales stressed that the red heifer issue "is not going away." The four remaining heifers will be "put into the breeding program within Israel" to preserve their valuable genetic material, which is "99% pure." He added, "The rabbis I don't believe for one second will allow a non-Mount of Olives ceremony to take place. It's in the Mishna, which they consider to be oral tradition and authoritative."

Beyond the red heifers, Gonzales noted a significant shift on the Temple Mount itself: "You had Itamar Ben-Gvir go up on Tisha B'Av to the Temple Mount dancing and singing and praying. That was extremely unusual." He observed this as part of a "shift of the status quo of the Temple Mount" accelerating over the past six to eight months.

**Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!**

In summary, while the Temple Institute's announcement about disqualifying the original red heifers may seem like a setback, the broader picture shows ongoing activity and momentum: "The third temple is in movement," Gonzales affirmed. "These five are going to be put into the breeding program... There were at least a dozen more in the wings."

For those following the prophetic timetable, the message is clear: the quest for the red heifer—and the preparations for the Third Temple—are far from over.

Dinesh D'Souza: The Truth About the Russia Hoax and Elite Corruption

Conservative commentator and filmmaker Dinesh D'Souza used one of his latest podcast episodes to call out what he sees as deep double standards in American politics, media and culture – from redistricting battles in Texas to the political leanings of Ivy League institutions and late-night television hosts.

D'Souza opened with a discussion on the recent Texas redistricting controversy, accusing Democrats of weaponizing the process to maintain power while criticizing Republicans for doing the same. He argued that partisan outrage is often selective, depending on which side benefits from the changes. "The media pretends to be concerned about fairness," D'Souza said, "but what they really mean is fairness that favors their

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

The conversation then shifted to higher education. D’Souza claimed elite universities such as Harvard, Columbia and Dartmouth have engaged in behind-the-scenes maneuvering to protect their influence, even while publicly posturing as critics of Republican leadership. He accused these institutions of quietly cooperating with the Trump administration on certain issues, despite presenting themselves as staunch opponents.

To order Jonathan Cahn's new book, The Avatar, visit Amazon.com.

From academia, D’Souza moved to the enduring Russia-collusion narrative. He argued that despite the collapse of Special Counsel Robert Mueller’s investigation into alleged collusion between Donald Trump’s 2016 campaign and Russia, many in media and politics still treat the story as if it were proven fact. “They won’t let it go because it’s useful,” D’Souza said, contending that the narrative has become a political weapon rather than an evidence-based claim.

In the second half of the program, D'Souza welcomed political commentator Raheem Kassam for a candid discussion on hypocrisy in the political and cultural arenas. Kassam, a frequent critic of the mainstream press, echoed D'Souza's assessment of media bias. He said journalists and political operatives often work hand-in-hand to frame stories in ways that damage conservatives while shielding progressives from similar scrutiny.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

The pair also turned their attention to the entertainment industry, particularly the evolution of late-night television. Once a space for broad, apolitical humor, D'Souza and Kassam argued it has transformed into an echo chamber for left-leaning political commentary. They singled out hosts who have embraced openly partisan messaging, suggesting it alienates large portions of the American audience.

Kassam pointed to the decline in ratings for some of these shows as evidence that viewers are growing weary of what he called "the lecture circuit in disguise." D'Souza agreed, noting that the cultural influence of late-night TV may be waning as audiences seek alternatives online and through independent platforms.

Throughout the episode, D'Souza framed these issues as interconnected examples of a broader cultural imbalance. He maintained that whether in politics, education or entertainment, the same small group of elites controls the narrative, leveraging institutions to preserve influence while claiming moral high ground.

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!

Closing the episode, D'Souza encouraged listeners to be vigilant in questioning media framing, political rhetoric and cultural messaging. "If we don't challenge the hypocrisy," he warned, "it becomes the accepted truth – and that's when it's most dangerous."

Jenny Weaver Warns Against Being 'Illegal in the Spirit'

God has given us His authority through the name of Jesus and empowered by the Holy Spirit. However, as prophetic voice Jenny Weaver warns, there are some who are trying to operate in the spiritual realm without doing things the Lord's way.

"The Lord had began to talk to me about illegals in the spirit," says Weaver. "When I heard, 'they're illegal in the spirit,' the Lord was speaking to me about certain things...we are accessing things that we have no business accessing. We are breaking laws of the Spirit of Life that we have no business breaking."

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. *Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Weaver noted that right now, the body of Christ is in a season of pruning to be made right with God before His return.

"This is the cutting season," says Weaver. "And there is strong spiritual circumcision that is happening. Cutting and correction...the Lord corrects those He loves. So, if you're not getting corrected, you're not getting loved on."

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

Weaver believes that this is the time to stop treating long-time Christians as infants, and to start expecting greater spiritual maturity from them.

To order Jenny Weaver's new book, The Wicked World of Witchcraft, visit Amazon.com.

"We're all committed to come up higher," she says. "You can learn to walk in the Spirit the easy way. You can go willingly. You can submit. You can get your spirit under control. You can get the works of the flesh out. You can get out of that carnal mind. You can come out of delusion, and you can walk in the Spirit the easy way, or He'll teach you the hard way."

In this critical hour, the call to spiritual maturity is louder than ever. God is inviting His people to walk in true authority—aligned with His Word, led by His Spirit and rooted in righteousness.

**Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!**

As the church undergoes a season of pruning and correction, believers must choose obedience over convenience and authenticity over appearance. The path forward demands a deeper surrender, a higher standard and a willingness to be refined for His purposes.

Supernatural Sightings or AI? Eyewitnesses Stunned by Walking Figure in the Sky

Are the increased miraculous signs in the sky from the Lord or our adversary?

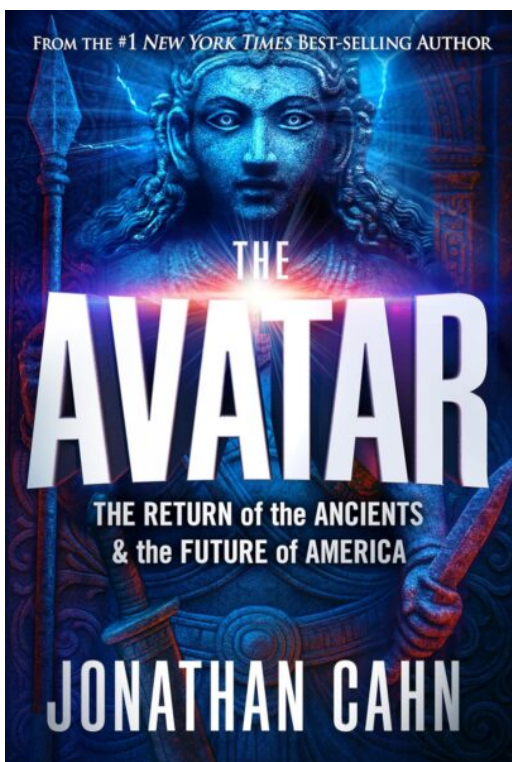

In a reaction video by Gabe Poirot, the Christian commentator broke down some of the most viral clips circulating social media of supernatural sightings taking place in the sky. While some may very well be valid, there is also a skepticism we should have about what may or may not be AI-generated.

Poirot first pointed to a video that went viral of a large, seemingly glowing image of Christ floating in the air outside of a church. First captured in Alabama on July 12, 2025, the footage sparked immediate awe.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Poirot was initially skeptical of these sightings, believing it was nothing more than artificial intelligence or video manipulation. But after investigating further, including reaching out to eyewitnesses and trusted sources, he came to a startling realization: this wasn't an isolated case. Sightings of similar figures in the sky have been reported across the U.S.—from Texas to Kentucky—and even internationally, including a recent video out of the Philippines. These events, often accompanied by people singing praises or praying, are occurring near churches but not limited to any specific denomination or region.

To order Jonathan Cahn's new book, The Avatar, visit Amazon.com.

In one video in particular, someone caught on camera what appears to be a person walking on the clouds.

“What is that?” a woman asks in the video. “That’s a person...we're not supposed to see that."

Other videos capture radiant rainbow and golden hues breaking through the clouds. These awe-inspiring visuals have left many wondering whether these are heavenly signs or something else entirely.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

While many believe they are witnessing the glory of God, Poirot urges caution. "Just because something happens in the sky doesn't automatically mean it's from God," he warns. Drawing from Romans 1:20, he reminds viewers that creation reveals God's eternal power and divine nature, but also stresses the importance of using Scripture to discern the source of supernatural phenomena.

"Not every angel is one you want to follow," he says, referencing 2 Corinthians 11:14, which describes Satan masquerading as an angel of light. As the veil between the spiritual and physical realms continues to thin, Poirot cautions believers to be discerning and anchored in the Word of God.

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!

As sightings increase and interpretations vary, one truth remains central to the Poirot's message: discernment is critical in these times. Signs in the sky may be awe-inspiring, but only the Word of God offers the lens through which to interpret them rightly.

Daniel Kolenda: The Church Must Return to the Fire of God

In a powerful message by Evangelist Daniel Kolenda through Daystar, he reminded Christians of the importance of living a life desperate for the glory of God the same way that Moses sought the presence of the Lord.

Kolenda pointed to Moses' heartfelt prayer recorded in Scripture: "If Your presence does not go with us, do not bring us up from here" (Ex. 33:15). Moses understood something the modern Church often forgets – that the Promised Land, the blessings, the breakthroughs and the success of ministry mean nothing without the manifest presence of God. The essence of revival and true spiritual power is not programs, music styles, or large crowds, but the undeniable presence of God moving among His people.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Moses also questioned how anyone would recognize God's people as distinct if His presence was not among them. "How will anyone know we are Yours unless Your presence goes with us?" This challenge still echoes today. Kolenda emphasized that what sets believers apart is not outward appearances or methods, but the reality of God's presence flowing through the Church.

To order Daniel Kolenda's new book, Furious, visit Amazon.com.

Central to this presence is the blood of Jesus, Kolenda explained. The blood is the bridge that allows believers to boldly approach God's throne and experience His power. Kolenda declared, "It's the blood of Jesus that sets people free. It's the blood of Jesus that heals the sick. It's the blood of Jesus that raises the dead. It's the blood of Jesus that drives out devils." This is not merely theology but witnessed reality – the very foundation of every true miracle and conversion.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

He challenged the Church to stop relying on flashy techniques, urging believers instead to return to the raw power of the cross. The blood of Jesus remains potent, capable of cleansing, delivering, healing and transforming lives. It is through the blood that the Church can experience the revival Moses longed for and that the world desperately needs.

Kolenda's message serves as a reminder that revival begins in the house of God, and it begins with a desperate cry for His presence – just as Moses prayed centuries ago.

**Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!**

As the Church stands at a crossroads, Kolenda's call is clear: we must refuse to settle for anything less than the full, fiery presence of God. Only then will the Church rise up in power, marked not by programs or personalities, but by the unmistakable glory of God's presence shining like Moses' radiant face.

Entire Muslim Family Experiences Supernatural Dream of Jesus

In countries where Christianity is illegal and Bibles are banned, God is still reaching hearts in miraculous ways—even through dreams.

That's exactly what happened in southwest Iran, where an entire Muslim family had the same supernatural encounter with Jesus on the same night, forever changing the trajectory of their lives.

The testimony, which was recently shared online by Kap Chatfield, recounts the story of a 17-year-old Iranian boy who became disillusioned with Islamic ritualism and began questioning why he had to pray in Arabic to a God who supposedly understood all languages.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

“I said, ‘God, if You are alive, show Yourself to me,’” he recalled.

Seven days after he prayed that bold prayer, something incredible happened.

“I had a dream of Jesus Christ,” he said. “But not only me—my mother and sister had the same dream on the same night.”

In the dream, Jesus approached their mother, calling her “Mary,” and handed her two white papers, instructing her to pass them to her children. She did, and when she turned back to Jesus, the dream ended. The entire family awoke shaken and in tears, not yet knowing what it meant—but knowing it was real.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

They had no prior knowledge of Christianity. In Iran, Bibles are forbidden and difficult to find. But just five hours after the dream, a friend knocked on their door carrying a Persian Bible. He had known the family for five years, but never once shared his faith—until that morning, when he heard the voice of Jesus tell him, “Take My word to Amin’s house. They are ready.”

To order Kap Chatfield's new book, The Power to Prosper, visit Amazon.com.

As the friend placed the Bible on the table and began to share the gospel, the mother interrupted him. “Why didn’t you tell us before?” she asked. “We all had the same dream of Jesus last night.”

Shocked, the friend broke down and wept. The timing, the dreams the message—none of it could be explained away. This same friend heard Jesus speak to him early that morning and tell him it was time for them to hear about the gospel.

This isn’t an isolated story. Reports of Muslims encountering Jesus in dreams are emerging from across the Middle East, Africa and Asia. Often, the dream is so vivid and spiritually charged that it leads individuals—and sometimes entire families—to seek out Christians, bibles or underground churches.

But is it biblical?

Scripture affirms that God can and does speak through dreams. In Matthew 1:20, Joseph was visited by “an angel of the Lord” in a dream. In 1 Kings 3:5, Solomon encountered God at night, where He told him, “Ask what shall I give you?” In Daniel 2:1, King Nebuchadnezzar’s dream disturbed him so deeply that he called upon Daniel to interpret what he instinctively knew was a divine message.

**Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!**

Dreams in the Bible weren’t just symbols—they were often real encounters with God or His messengers.

As Chatfield put it, “Dreams are more than just your subconscious. I believe it’s like a portal into the spirit realm.” And in places where Scripture is not accessible, it seems that Jesus Himself is showing up.

This testimony is not only a call to wonder at God’s supernatural reach—it’s also a wake-up call for believers in free nations.

In the U.S., Bibles are readily available—yet many sit untouched on shelves, gathering dust. Meanwhile, in nations like Iran, people are risking everything just to hear the name of Jesus.

“Lord, give us a hunger for Your Word,” Chatfield prayed. “Help us realize what a privilege it is to open the Bible without fear.”

The message is clear: If Jesus is appearing in dreams where His name is banned, how much more should we be proclaiming Him where He is freely known?
