

Midyear Prophetic Shift: God Is Doing a New Thing Starting This July

As Brewer pointed out in an interview with Charisma Media, Kerrville is the unique crossing point of two recent solar eclipses—one on Oct. 14, 2023, and another on Apr. 8, 2024. This geographic “X” over the region isn’t just coincidence to Brewer; it points directly to a towering monument called The Empty Cross, a 77-foot, 7-inch sculpture designed to represent the resurrection of Jesus Christ. “The shadow pointed exactly to where we needed to look,” Brewer said. “And now, we’re looking at Kerrville. And if you look at Kerrville, you’ve got to look at the cross—and see that it’s empty.”

The flood occurred on America’s birthday—July 4—which Brewer says is also significant. He believes God is using these events to call the nation back to Him. “It’s not just a word for Texas. It’s a word for all of the United States,” he emphasized.

Beyond the symbolism, the devastation is very real. Torrential rains caused the Guadalupe River to rise between 20 to 40 feet within an hour—so fast and so far that even camps located far from the riverbanks were consumed. Many victims were asleep when the floodwaters hit, their RVs swept away in the dark without warning.

In a moment of divine encouragement, Brewer shared that exactly 888 people have been officially rescued from the water—a number that matches the Greek numerical value for the name “Jesus.” For him, this is a reminder that even in the midst of loss, God is present.

But while reflecting on the supernatural, Brewer also called for practical action. Rather than sending more volunteers into an already chaotic rescue effort, he urged believers to be strategic. “Rescue the rescuers,” he said, encouraging churches to support those already on the frontlines with supplies, meals and prayer.

Above all, Brewer calls the Church to rise and respond—not just with relief, but with resurrection power. “This is not the government’s role,” he declared. “It’s the role of the people of Jesus. Christ in us is the hope of glory.”

As the nation mourns with Kerrville, Brewer says this moment demands more than sympathy—it calls for spiritual awakening. “Only the church can turn tragedy into testimony. The Lord is with us. He is resurrected from the dead. And He is the only hope America has.”

Silver Cord, Tornadoes and Witchcraft: Exposing the Enemy's Hidden Agenda

A series of prophetic words from Amanda Grace dating back as far as 2019 are converging in real time, pointing to Texas as a central battleground in both the spiritual and natural realms.

The devastation that we saw happen in Kerrville, Texas, on Independence Day may have marked more than a national holiday—it potentially served as a prophetic symbol of what's to come for the rest of the year.

“This is a prophetic foreshadowing of what we are going to endure the rest of the year,” Grace declared. The warning is not just for the political left or right—but for the church as well. A divine adjustment of heart posture is being called for in every camp.

Key prophetic words from 2019 and 2020 referenced Texas and the unusual events that would confound people, even predicting humanitarian crises and divine purging akin to the days of Noah. These words now seem to echo loudly in light of the July 4, 2025, floods that struck Texas.

A significant prophetic dream from October 29, 2021, offered vivid imagery: fire on the left and flood on the right. These symbols are now seen as representing liberal-dominated areas like Los Angeles, which burned in wildfires on Jan. 7, and conservative areas like Texas, which flooded on July 4. Together, these dates—January 7 and July 4—point to the number 47, tied directly to President Trump as the 47th president of the United States. "I don't think that's an accident," Grace stated.

A July 7, 2021 word from the Lord foretold boiling points, political clashes and strategic attacks against Texas leadership. "Watch Texas in this hour," Grace declared. "For there is pressure building in Texas." The word warned of attempts to target Texas leaders due to the state's pivotal role in coming elections and audits.

Now, in 2025, President Trump is scheduled to visit flood-ravaged Texas during the 25th week of the year, a prophetic link that Grace believes is tied to a word from November 2024 warning of a "Kennedy in Texas" type of crisis. Trump, who released the JFK assassination files earlier this year, is stepping directly into the center of that prophetic puzzle.

Prophetic insight also connects Texas to deeper spiritual conflicts. There are warnings of Islamic infiltration, jihadist threats and chemical fog reported across the state and others in Jan. 2025. Words from April and June tie the Texas flooding to eclipse paths from 2023 and 2024—events that passed directly over towns like Kerrville and Eagle Pass, where the disaster struck.

With Nineveh, Texas falling directly in the path of the Apr. 8, 2024, solar eclipse, the message is clear: judgment and mercy are both in motion. Just as Jonah warned ancient Nineveh to repent within 40 days, this modern-day Nineveh may also be receiving divine warnings.

As the signs multiply and prophetic timelines converge, intercession has become urgent. “Something is up, and we need to pray,” Grace urged. “Let any sinister plot be exposed and thwarted in Jesus’ name before it ever has a chance to unfold.”

Jonathan Cahn’s Bold Message for the Modern Church

The apostle Paul said, “For I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day.” The “whom” he is talking about is, of course, the Lord Jesus Christ. You received salvation by believing in your heart and confessing with your mouth what He did for you on the cross. You believed Him then, so believe Him now and keep right on doing so. If your faith is in Christ, then you know that you know that you know you are ready to meet the Lord; there is absolutely no debate.

Swaggart also pointed out that when we commit our soul and spirit to the Lord, then we can find our trust alone in Christ to be the One we will see at the very end.

Paul said he was persuaded—that means he couldn't be budged from believing anything other than, "He is able to keep that which I have committed unto him." And what you committed to Him is your soul and your spirit. We must know in whom we have believed, because when the final curtain is about to come down, it had better be Christ and Christ alone in whom you place your trust.

Swaggart's powerful words are a reminder that as Christians, whether we live or die, it is for Christ and His glory.

This announcement comes after Daniel Floyd became Gateway’s lead pastor at the end of May. Floyd and his wife, Tammy, pastored Lifepoint Church in Fredericksburg, Virginia, before accepting the position with Gateway.

““For us, this isn’t just a new assignment. It’s a sacred calling. 20 years ago, we had the privilege of planting Lifepoint Church... and it’s been the honor of our lives to shepherd that community. So, when we say this next season is a calling we don’t take that lightly, and we mean it with all of our hearts,” Floyd previously said.

Amanda Grace Sounds the Alarm: Major Spiritual Warfare Planned for Mid-July in America

With August just a few weeks away, prophetic voice Alwyn Uys is sharing a new message he received for next month. Opening with a heartfelt prayer, Uys declares, "Lord, I pray that they may look back and realize that Your hand was upon them all this time. Father, that You have kept them. You have protected them."

For more than two weeks, Uys was surrounded by constant rain and gloom. "It has been pouring down where I'm at right now. And it's almost like there just hasn't been a break from the bad weather." But amidst the bleak skies, something unexpected happened. "Every so often, there was a break in the weather. There was a break in the dark cloud... the sun would burst through... and you would see this rainbow."

It was in that brief moment of light that the Lord began to speak to him. "No matter how dark and ominous and you know how depressing a situation might be... ever so often there is a break of light where the sun is shining through, where a glimmer of hope is showing itself." Uys continues, "This breakthrough, this break in the sun, this cloud opening up—that He will do it for you as well."

Recalling a painful season from the past, Uys shares, "One in particular happened 11 years ago when I had my car accident... one of the worst times in my life. And I never want to relive that ever again." During that dark period, a word his sister left a lasting impression: "Nothing is forever. Everything comes to an end at some point or another. The tide must change."

Uys continues, "The state of mind that I was in at that moment, guys, I didn't want to live anymore. I thought it would be better if I just not be here. If I just take my life and end it right now." But making it through this season, Uys has a powerful testimony that is clear: "Coming to where I am right now and [having] gone through those seasons—that is true. Nothing lasts forever."

In prayer, Uys heard the Holy Spirit say, "You will see my light break through the darkness that has been hanging like a cloud over your head. You will see my light." He believes this word is for right now: "This is something for the month of August... that you will see things shift, that you will see things change in your situation."

The verse he stands on is Malachi 4:2: "But to you who fear my name, the son of righteousness shall arise with healing in his wings." He adds, "There are so many people probably like myself that have been trusting the Lord for so long for your healing... there just hasn't been any breakthrough. You don't see a way out."

However, the Word of God does not change, and it never fails. "God sees your situation. God sees your need for healing... your need for provision... your need for a change." And the message for August is simple yet powerful: "Nothing lasts forever."

As August unfolds, this word serves as a divine reminder that no season of darkness lasts forever. Even when the storm feels relentless and breakthrough seems distant, God is working behind the scenes.

He sees every tear, every prayer and every step of endurance. This is not the end—it's the turning point. Hold fast, because the light is about to break through.
