

Satanic Temple to Open Abortion Telehealth Center to Honor Trump's Birthday

Not all birthday gifts are pleasant and welcoming.

The Satanic Temple has something disgusting planned for President Trump's birthday: the opening of a telehealth abortion center which would offer women prescriptions so they can carry out an "abortion ritual."

According to the Christian Post, this facility is set to open on Saturday as part of TST Health with the intention of a free clinic with the exception of the charge to their pharmacy partner, Honeybee Health, which provides the abortion prescription.

The center is to be located in Maine and will be called "The President's Yuge Most Beautiful Satanic Abortion Clinic."

Providing a statement to the Post, the TST executive director Erin Helian said, "We know just how much our President appreciates freedom and the fundamental right to hope he receives this clinic's distinguished title as the magnificent, regal birthday present it is intended to be."

This so-called “gift” is not just an affront to President Trump, but a spiritual provocation cloaked in mockery. Christians must not be lulled into apathy by political rhetoric or surface-level gestures of support for religious freedom.

In this hour, discernment is not optional—it is essential. The very use of satire and parody to celebrate the destruction of life under the guise of “choice” should shake the church awake. We are not battling flesh and blood but principalities and powers (Eph. 6:12), and we must not be deceived by the enemy’s cunning use of culture and controversy. Let this stand as a biblical warning: no matter how it’s packaged, any celebration of death is not of God—and the church must not participate in the deception.

Urgent Prophecy for California: Coming 5-Year Spiritual Battle and Victory

God is calling His people to get out of the boat.

In her June prophetic message, Katie Souza delivers a powerful call to action for the church: it’s time to get out of the pews and into the streets.

According to Souza, the Lord is not looking for people to grow their ministries by holding microphones or curating Instagram feeds. Instead, God is seeking those who are willing to sacrifice their own platforms to serve another's vision—and to pursue the hurting, the addicted and the trafficked in the highways and byways of life.

Souza emphasizes that God is now compelling the body of Christ to move outward. Referencing Matthew 9:38, she explains that the Greek word for “send out” actually means to force out—to thrust laborers into the harvest. This speaks of urgency and divine pressure. If the church won't go willingly, God will apply pressure through conviction, circumstances or even discomfort, to get His people moving.

Souza believes many remain inside the church out of fear—fear of confrontation, danger or spiritual warfare. She likens this to the cowardly lion in The Wizard of Oz, saying that courage already exists within believers but is often buried under timidity and fear. She shares from personal experience, recounting her involvement in the Mayday event, which brought ministry days to the streets of major U.S. cities like Times Square, Miami and Hollywood. Despite threats, riots and opposition, she now testifies to the supernatural protection and peace she experienced in those high-risk settings.

A key part of Souza's message is the necessity of unity and partnership in ministry. Citing Luke 10:1, where Jesus sent out the disciples two-by-two, she notes that we are not meant to go alone. Ministry in this season requires collaboration, mutual service and the courage to walk together into the hardest places—prisons, homeless camps, drug-ridden neighborhoods and even riot zones.

She draws a profound spiritual insight from Ezekiel 47, which describes healing waters flowing from the temple. The further the waters travel from the sanctuary, the deeper and more powerful they become. To Souza, this symbolizes that the church's true power—its miracles, healing and provision—is released when believers move away from the safety of the building and into the broken places of the world. There, God's glory intensifies.

Souza's message is clear—those who step out will find supernatural provision, fruitfulness and anointing. Financial needs will be met, spiritual authority will increase and the lost will be reached. But it all begins with one act of obedience—stepping outside the sanctuary and into the streets where Jesus is ready to move.

Baptist Revival? SBC Fails to Pass Motion Against Female

Pastors

In a shocking move from the latest Southern Baptist Convention, a motion to ban female pastors from working in the denomination has failed.

Previously, churches have been ousted from the SBC because they employed female pastors. Now, their attempt to rid females in ministry once-and-for-all appears to have ended.

As the Christian Post reported, this motion, which would have kept women from being employed in any ministerial role within an SBC church has failed, this following the failure of a Law Amendment to the denomination regarding a similar situation last year.

The motion would have altered the denomination's constitution to read that "only men as any kind of pastor or elder as qualified by Scripture."

The motion needed to pass a two-thirds majority: % of the ballots were in favor of this shift, while 38.9% were not, just missing the mark.

Pastor Juan Sanchez of High Pointe Baptist Church in Austin, Texas, who proposed the motion, rejected the belief that this statement would have taken women out of other leadership roles. He says that his congregation includes both male and female deacons.

This narrow miss may actually be a sign of something deeper stirring within the Southern Baptist Convention—something prophetic. While the motion to constitutionally ban female pastors failed to meet the supermajority threshold, its very failure points to a potential move of the Holy Spirit that transcends denominational boundaries and traditions.

According to the prophet Joel, in the last days God will pour out His Spirit on all flesh, and “your sons and your daughters shall prophesy” (Joel 2:28). What if this moment is not simply about church governance, but about making room for revival? A revival that recognizes the callings God places on both men and women to preach, teach and prophesy under the anointing of the Holy Spirit. Rather than division, this could be the beginning of deeper unity through obedience to the Spirit’s leading—something that may very well reshape the future of the Baptist church and spark a fresh outpouring of God’s power in unexpected places.

Jonathan Cahn Warns: Antichrist Civilization Has

Begun

There just may be a greater spiritual implication behind the number 333 than you previously thought.

In a recent video, prophetic voice Alwyn Uys shared a vision of a farmer plowing a field—turning the soil upside down so it can breathe and receive new life. This is a metaphor for what he believes God is doing in believers' hearts: a deep, sometimes painful spiritual plowing or "heart surgery" to prepare them for what God has in store next.

Uys explains that although this process feels uncomfortable and disorienting, it's necessary so that God can release the gifts and purposes hidden inside us. He urges believers not to focus only inwardly but to realize that God is preparing to work through them to impact others.

He references Jeremiah 33:3, "Call to me and I will answer you and tell you great and mighty things you do not know," as a promise of the revelations to come after this preparation.

Uys then shares a spiritual insight he received: "You have to increase your weight"—meaning believers must build up their spiritual strength and capacity to carry what God is about to release.

He acknowledges the trials, persecutions and wilderness wanderings believers have endured were purposeful and part of this strengthening. The person we were months or years ago won't suffice for the new season ahead. Ultimately, what God is about to reveal will be worth every hardship to receive their phenomenal, Spirit-led breakthrough.

This season of deep transformation is not by accident—it is a divine preparation for the powerful purpose God has placed within you. The plowing, the trials, and the unseen work in your spirit are all crafting a foundation strong enough to bring you into your destiny. Though the process may feel uncomfortable or even painful, it is leading you into a breakthrough that will impact not only your life but the lives of many around you.

Crucifixion Secret Hiding in Plain Sight—What Every Believer Needs to Know

Have territorial spirits been unleashed upon America's cities?

In a powerful prophetic word by Amanda Grace, a warning has gone forth about the rise of the Absalom spirit in America and its connection to figures like Elon Musk, President Trump and the ongoing unrest in cities like Los Angeles.

Referencing 2 Samuel 15, Grace draws striking parallels between Absalom's rebellion against King David and the current political and spiritual climate. Absalom, in his quest for the throne, positioned himself as a voice for justice, strategically placed men before him, and orchestrated a coup from within the kingdom. "Absalom would say, 'Oh that I were made judge in the land... then I would give him justice,'" Grace quotes, warning that this ancient playbook of rebellion is being repeated now.

Prophetically, this "clash for the kingdom" is said to be manifesting again, and notably, during the 50-day window between Passover and Pentecost—a time frame Grace calls "fiery." Just as Absalom placed 50 men before him, a symbolic connection is drawn to the political and spiritual turbulence that emerged during this same season this year.

The prophetic word also suggests that hidden in the phrase "Absalom reigns" is the name "Elon Rams." The idea is not linguistic coincidence but a spiritual code: Elon Musk, referred to as a modern-day "ram," is said to be vying for dominance in a battle that parallels Absalom's coup attempt. "The unaltered rams," said Grace on Mar. 12, "have gotten into position to vie for dominance... and in the spring, the clash."

While acknowledging that Elon Musk made sacrifices to support Trump, Grace asserts he is still "bound to an altar" that destabilizes his life, making him vulnerable to the same instability that plagued Absalom. Her prophetic message claims that Musk's personal instability—his relationships and his public rifts—are part of a broader spiritual influence seeking to divide and conquer.

In a separate word dated June 8, 2024, the Lord warned Grace of the spiritual forces at play that would boil within the month of June. That word was given exactly one year before the National Guard was deployed to Los Angeles—an act seen as fulfillment of the prophecy.

She warns that the same demonic powers behind the unrest in California are preparing to move next in New York City. “California and New York are the bookends of the nation,” Grace explains, “and they’re connected in the realm of the spirit.”

The word Grace received on May 29, 2025, declares that a multi-headed beast is seeking to exalt itself in the “city of angels”—Los Angeles. Its heads will fall through scandal and exposure. “Their money laundering shall be exposed... Some wounds shall be so great, the heads shall be no more,” says Grace.

With June marked as a month of spiritual clash and judgment, Grace’s prophetic message calls believers to “gird up their loins” and prepare for battle—not in the flesh, but in the spirit, through prayer and intercession, to bring down the altar of pride and prevent the fall of a nation.
