

How Rabbi Schneider Is Redefining What It Means to Be a Chief Rabbi

Rabbi Kirt Schneider has spread the Gospel to millions all across the world, shedding light on the divine connection between Judaism and Jesus as the Messiah. His broadcast ministry, Discovering the Jewish Jesus, has inspired countless people in desperate need of Christ and his books have been a beacon of light.

However, not everyone in the Jewish community has particularly liked this.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Rabbi Tovia Singer spoke against Schneider for his faith in Jesus as the Messiah, calling him the “chief rabbi.” Yet, what may have been said as a tongue-in-cheek statement is actually a great compliment because of Schneider’s Christ-like resemblance of the ultimate rabbi, King Jesus Himself.

Schneider has made it clear that no one, not even the Jewish people, can save themselves from sin. Instead, we are all in need of a gracious and merciful God to come and rescue us from the grave.

“The Law’s true intent was to cause mankind to recognize that we are not in and ourselves capable of keeping the Law to perfection,” Schneider says. “At the end of the day, our heart is not true enough, it’s not pure enough, it’s not perfect enough to meet the demands of the Law, and recognizing that we are now prepared to receive God’s ultimate answer, which is the Messiah, King Jesus.”

Despite criticism and misunderstanding, Rabbi Kirt Schneider has stood firm in his faith with humility, grace, and unwavering conviction. His bold proclamation of Jesus as the Messiah is not driven by popularity or acceptance, but by a deep love for truth and a heart set ablaze by the revelation of God's redemptive plan through Yeshua.

Rabbi Schneider's life is a testament to what it means to follow in the footsteps of Jesus—full of truth, full of love and full of purpose. He continues to bridge the gap between the ancient truths of Judaism and the fulfillment found in Christ, lighting the way for others to follow.

A Historic Shift During Passover: Amanda Grace Warns of Prophetic Upheaval

Amanda Grace believes the current Passover season carries prophetic weight unlike any in recent years.

During a live broadcast, she emphasized that this moment is not only about remembering the Exodus, but about recognizing God's present-day confrontation with darkness. "This is not just a Passover where we remember—it is a Passover where God is going to confront," she said.

Grace compared this time to the biblical plagues in Egypt, explaining that just as God confronted Pharaoh, He is now confronting modern systems of oppression and deception. "The Lord thy God is drawing a line in the sand in this hour," she said. That line, she warned, is forcing believers and nations to make definitive spiritual choices.

Prophetic Timing Between Purim and Passover

Grace identified the period between Purim and Passover as a spiritually charged window when divine decisions and dramatic shifts occur. She likened it to the time of Esther, when God's intervention reversed the plans of Haman. "Purim was a time of decision, a time of exposure, a time of deliverance, and a time of judgement."

Now, she says, the church is standing in a similar "valley of decision" as described in Joel 3. With increasing global unrest and spiritual warfare intensifying, she urged believers to remain steadfast in their faith. "Choose this day whom you will serve," she quoted, referencing Joshua 24:15. She also warned parents: "If you do not raise your children in the Word, the world will raise them in perversion."

Economic and Global Shifts: Divine Disruption of Powers

Grace sees current economic headlines—like the U.S. imposing a 145% tariff on Chinese electric vehicles—as prophetic signs. She believes these shifts are part of God’s confrontation with global powers and corrupt systems. “Do not think this is not of spiritual significance,” she cautioned.

She referenced the story of Jesus casting out demons in Gadara, drawing a parallel between spiritual deliverance and economic disruption. According to Grace, the Lord is shaking the foundations of nations, and even the earth itself is testifying. “The fault lines are shifting and cracking open,” she said. These earthquakes and natural signs, she emphasized, are “aligned with My appointed times.”

A Jehu Moment for America and the Nations

Grace issued a sobering warning for America: the nation is under threat of being spiritually “clipped.” Drawing from Isaiah 46, she spoke of spiritual idols weighing down the land. “There is a burden in this nation right now of unrepentant sin, of bloodshed, of division,” she said.

She believes the Lord is raising up modern-day Jehus—leaders anointed to confront the spirit of Jezebel and call both the Church and the government back to righteousness. “The anointing of Jehu is being released to confront Jezebel—politically, spiritually and in leadership,” she declared.

Grace also prophesied instability in international alliances, saying of BRICS: “They’re going to lose some bricks.” She encouraged believers to “watch France, watch Germany, watch England,” predicting a wave of governmental and leadership changes initiated by angelic assignments.

The Remnant Must Rise

Despite the sobering tone of her message, Grace ended with a strong call to action for faithful believers—the remnant. This group, she said, must rise in boldness, faith, and truth. “The enemy is out for blood, but the blood of Jesus speaks a better word.”

She urged the church to take its place on the front lines of spiritual warfare. “This is not a season to play church,” she warned. “This is a season to stand under the covering of the blood of the Lamb.” As the world enters a time of shaking and divine confrontation, Grace emphasized that only those firmly rooted in covenant with the Lord will endure and lead.

As the world trembles and power structures shake, Amanda Grace reminds the church that this Passover is more than a commemoration—it is a call to arms. The dividing lines are being drawn, and the Lord is moving with precision and power. In this prophetic hour, the remnant must rise, stand firm in truth and align fully with God’s purposes.

5 Life-Altering Prophetic Insights to Supercharge Your Destiny

If God gives you a vision, what should you do with it?

In a recent time of prayer, Mike Thompson heard the Lord speak clearly in his spirit: “Run with the vision.” It was not a suggestion, but a divine command. As Thompson meditated on these words, the Holy Spirit led him to Habakkuk 2:2-3: “Write the vision and make it plain... that he may run who reads it.” Although the vision may tarry, Thompson emphasizes, “Wait for it—it will surely come.”

This vision is not based on imagination or fleshly ambition, but on supernatural revelation—visions, dreams and a stirring of the heart, along with Scriptures that leap off the page. These are communications from heaven, full of purpose and direction. The Holy Spirit is actively guiding believers into their spiritual inheritance—into new, promised land territory.

So, what should Christians do when God presents them with a vision?

1. Trust the Holy Spirit

The foundation of running with the vision God has placed in your heart is trust. Trusting the Holy Spirit means relying on His guidance, even when the path ahead seems unclear. The Holy Spirit is not only a comforter but also the divine helper who empowers believers to walk out their purpose. He will never lead you astray, and His guidance is always aligned with God’s will.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Trusting Him means surrendering your own understanding and recognizing that His wisdom far surpasses our own. As the Spirit leads, He will equip you with everything needed to fulfill your divine vision, including strength, wisdom and courage.

2. Make the Vision Your Assignment

When God reveals a vision to you, it's not just a dream or a nice idea—it is a heavenly assignment. That vision comes with divine purpose, and it's up to you to take ownership of it. Don't treat it as something distant or abstract; instead, make it your mission in life. Think of it as a magnetic north guiding all your decisions, actions and prayers.

If God has given you a vision, His anointing is upon it. He is already working behind the scenes to bring it to fruition, and now it's your job to align your life with that calling. When you make the vision your assignment, you will see God's power at work as He transforms your life and circumstances to fulfill His plan.

3. Pray Over It Daily

Prayer is the vital communication link between you and God. When you pray over the vision God has given you, you invite His will to be done and seek His supernatural intervention. Praying daily keeps the vision alive in your heart, and it allows the Holy Spirit to reveal deeper layers of understanding and guidance. Using your heavenly prayer language—praying in tongues—can unlock mysteries and divine strategies to manifest the vision.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings,

Charisma videos & more!

Prayer positions your heart to receive revelation and provides the spiritual fuel needed to keep pushing forward, even when challenges arise. Prayer helps you stay in alignment with God's plan and reminds you of the promises attached to the vision.

4. Act in Faith and Authority

Faith without works is dead, as James 2:26 teaches us. When you receive a vision from God, you must act on it. Don't wait for perfect conditions or for everything to line up just right—take steps in faith, trusting that the Holy Spirit will guide you as you move forward. This is where authority comes into play. God has given you authority through Jesus Christ to declare and decree His will on earth as it is in heaven.

The more you step out in faith, the clearer the path will become. Each step of obedience activates the manifestation of the vision. Whether it's in your ministry, relationships, career, or personal growth, every action in faith brings you closer to fulfilling God's vision for your life.

5. Be Patient and Keep Pressing In Patience is crucial when running with the vision God has given you. Habakkuk 2:3 tells us that "the vision is yet for an appointed time; though it tarries, wait for it." Sometimes, the manifestation of the vision takes time, and that can be challenging. But patience is not passive waiting—it's active endurance, staying focused on the vision even when progress seems slow. Keep pressing in, praying and acting in faith, even if the results don't come immediately.

Trust that God's timing is perfect and that He is orchestrating every detail of the process. Remember, the vision will come to pass in due season, and when it does, it will be a testimony of God's faithfulness.

This is a season for breakthrough, expansion, and supernatural fulfillment. The Lord is calling us to go to new heights with Him. The question is: Will you follow?

Pastor Todd Mullins Reveals How Christians Can Turn Doubt Into Deeper Faith

In a powerful message on LIFE Today, Christ Fellowship's Todd Mullins shares how seasons of doubt can become divine invitations to deeper faith.

In a recent appearance on LIFE Today with James and Betty Robison, Pastor Todd Mullins of Christ Fellowship Church opened up about a struggle many Christians face but few talk about—doubt.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

“There are people that walk through pain or suffering and they're wondering where is God in this?” Mullins said. “If we're honest, all of us have gone through times where we've asked those questions.”

Drawing from his new book, “Don't Let Doubt Take You Out,” Mullins shared how doubt—whether in oneself, in others, or even in God—can lead to breakthrough if handled the right way.

“We begin to have self-doubt, like I don’t know if I can do this,” he said. “We can begin to doubt God—God, where are You in this situation? Why aren’t You answering my prayers the way I’m asking them? Then you begin to doubt others around you.”

Instead of running from God, Mullins asks that Christians choose to run toward Him.

“When you look in the Bible, you see that some of the greatest leaders that we look up to battled with some of the deepest doubts,” he said. “We think doubt is a disqualifier. But when you look at Scripture, it’s actually a doorway that if you take that to God, God actually uses it to bring you into deeper faith.”

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

He pointed to biblical examples like David, Job, and John the Baptist, who all questioned God in moments of crisis. “John, who said, ‘Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world,’ is now sitting in prison asking, ‘Are You really the one?’”

Mullins’ message to believers is clear: “You can bring your pain, your sorrow, your struggle. He’s not afraid of our questions. He’s not afraid of our emotions. He actually invites us in.”

In a world that often equates faith with certainty, Todd Mullins brings a refreshing and freeing reminder: doubt does not disqualify you—it can deepen you. When brought to God, questions become conversations, and struggles become stepping stones.

His message is clear: believers don't have to hide their doubts or pretend they have it all together. Instead, they can bring every fear, every question, every moment of weakness to the God who welcomes them with open arms.

God isn't waiting for perfect faith—He's drawing near to the honest heart. And in that place of raw trust, He does His deepest, most transformational work.

“We decree the abundant life, the blessed life, for the month of April,” he declares, referencing God’s promise to give life and life more abundantly.

To order John Eckhardt’s book, Prayers That Rout Demons, visit Amazon.com.

He led believers in committing their plans, desires and ministries to the Lord, quoting Proverbs 16 and Isaiah 42:9 as Scriptural foundations for divine direction and revelation.

“Lord, establish our thoughts according to Your will for the month of April,” he prays.

Eckhardt prophesied an increase in dreams, visions and spiritual insight, declaring that new things would be birthed and that the Word of God would be preached with boldness, love and power. He also declared that this month would be marked by supernatural deliverance, healing, financial breakthroughs and favor. “Let mega grace and mega favor be released,” he proclaims, believing for abundant harvests and the cancellation of debts.

As April ushers in the second quarter of the year, Eckhardt assured listeners that the foundation has been laid and that what has been decreed in past seasons will now begin to manifest swiftly.

“This is a month of launching. A month of momentum. A month of answered prayers.”

Even if the first part of this month has been slow for seeing true, transformative breakthrough, there’s absolutely nothing too difficult for the Lord to do. As the body of Christ steps into this prophetic season, we must align our hearts, words and faith with what heaven is declaring.

God is a promise-keeping God. Are you ready to see all that He will do through your life?

Kim Clement’s Daughter Received this Stunning Prophecy After His Death!

Prophetic voice Kim Clement was known for the accuracy of his prophecies, many of which did not come to pass until after his death. Now, his daughter, Donné Clement Petruska, is sharing the remarkable word she received after he passed away.

In a recent livestream, Petruska discussed how her father was prophesied over by Roger Teal when he was a young worship leader in South Africa. Petruska says Teal gave a specific word to her father about where he would live, and even that he would have his final days on earth on the West Coast of the U.S. Now, she is sharing the prophetic word that she received from Teal upon her father's passing.

"[Kim Clement] was hungry. He was hungry for the Word of the Lord, wanted to be used by God, extremely talented and as a result, God took that...and God used him significantly," Teal says.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Teal noted that Clement was sovereignly chosen by God to be used as a prophet, unlike many today who have raised themselves up as prophets. Teal also told Petruska that there is a special anointing upon her life to continue to share these remarkable words of her father's with the world.

"Your father is no longer here, and your endeavors to share the love, the words, counsel all that you know of him...that anointing that's on your life is the sovereign purpose of God. That God's Word will be extended and spoken through your lips," Teal says to Petruska.

"I was not expecting him to say that," Petruska recounts.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

"So where does that place you?" Teal says in the video. "It places you at the time in the days in which we live today where there is seriously a famine for a true word from the Lord.”

How true Teal’s statements are. In a time when many voices clamor for attention and countless individuals declare themselves prophets, the legacy of Kim Clement stands as a sobering reminder of what it means to carry a true, God-ordained prophetic mantle. His life and ministry were marked by accuracy, humility and a relentless hunger for the Word of the Lord. Now, as his daughter steps forward to carry the flame, the prophetic words entrusted to her affirm a divine continuation—not of personal ambition, but of a calling rooted in truth and accountability.

In this spiritual drought, the importance of credible, Spirit-led prophecy cannot be overstated. It is not enough to have a platform; the prophetic voice must be anchored in divine commissioning and truth. The weight of such a calling is not inherited lightly, but through obedience and surrender to God’s purpose.

God is still speaking—and He is raising up those who will speak His Word with integrity, humility and faithfulness.

Passover Secrets That Could

Transform Everything for Your Walk with God!

Passover just may provide the keys to having a more fulfilled walk with God than we could ever imagine.

In a Passover message, Messianic Rabbi Jonathan Cahn led his congregation through a prophetic Passover Seder, unveiling how the ancient feast foreshadows the redemptive work of Jesus as the Messiah.

“Passover is the Gospel,” Cahn says. “We were slaves in Egypt. God sent the Redeemer. God sent the Lamb. By the blood of the Lamb, we are set free.”

Quoting the words of Jesus at the Last Supper, Cahn reminded the congregation, “I have earnestly desired to celebrate this Passover with you.” He noted that Jesus was not only observing the Seder but also fulfilling it.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

The celebration began with the ancient Hebrew blessing: “Blessed are You, Lord God, King of the Universe, who has preserved us alive, sustained us and brought us to this day.”

Holding up the matzoh, the unleavened bread used during the meal, Cahn pointed out, “This is unleavened bread. This is the bread of affliction. It has no leaven. That’s without sin. It’s pierced. It’s striped. It’s broken. This is Messiah, the Bread of Life.”

Cahn’s explanation also touches on the deeper meaning behind each element of the Passover meal, which is rich with symbolism that points to Christ. The unleavened bread, for instance, is not just an ancient custom—it represents Jesus’ sinless body, broken for the forgiveness of humanity's sins.

He continued to draw parallels between the symbols of the Seder and the life, death and Resurrection of Jesus.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

Holding up the bitter herbs, Cahn declared, "This is the bitterness. This is what it was before we knew God. Without God it's bitter. That's the bitterness of bondage, of slavery, of sin, of Egypt, of Pharaoh, of Satan. Messiah is the Bread that takes it away."

This historical act of salvation carries much greater significance in the Christian faith when viewed through the lens of Jesus Christ, the Lamb of God. Jesus, during His Last Supper with His disciples, included the symbols of the Passover, revealing Himself as the ultimate fulfillment of that ancient act of redemption. The bread, representing the body of Christ, and the wine, representing His blood, are not just ritualistic elements; they are markers of the new covenant and the freedom He offers to all who believe.

When it came time for the dipping of the bread—referenced in the Gospel accounts of the Last Supper—Cahn explained its significance.

"That's the sign when He dipped the matzoh and gave it to Judas. That's when He said, 'Nobody takes my life. I give it up freely.'"

The traditional reading of the Haggadah was also part of the evening: "This is the bread of affliction which our ancestors in Egypt partook. Let all who are hungry come and eat."

As the service progressed, Cahn invited participants to personally encounter the Messiah's fulfillment of the Passover. "You were a slave, you were in bondage, but He brought you from sorrow to joy, from mourning to rejoicing," he says.

Just as the Israelites' freedom was made possible through the blood of the lamb, so too is eternal freedom offered to all through Christ's sacrificial death. As believers partake in the spiritual inheritance of Passover, they are reminded of the profound cost of their freedom and the everlasting joy of being redeemed by the Lamb.

"Passover literally means the Lamb," Cahn emphasizes. "The Lamb is central. In Hebrew, the word for Passover—Pesach—is the Lamb."

The service culminated with the breaking of the afikoman, a hidden piece of matzah that is traditionally wrapped, buried and brought back at the end of the meal. "He was wrapped, buried and came back," Cahn says. "That's the Gospel."

The blood of the Lamb, both in Egypt and on the cross, is the thread that binds every believer to the promise of redemption. Passover reveals God's unwavering faithfulness to deliver His people, not just from physical bondage, but from the deepest spiritual chains. In the death and Resurrection of Jesus, we see the fulfillment of God's eternal plan, the victory over sin and death.

As we reflect on the significance of Passover, may we be reminded that through the blood of the Lamb, we are not only set free from our past but invited into a new life of hope, purpose and joy.

Snake Cut in Half? Kathryn Krick Shares Miraculous Moment That Left Her in Awe

God truly has given us the authority to trample snakes and scorpions, both in the spiritual and natural realm.

What began for Apostle Kathryn Krick as a normal jog on a nature trail turned into a powerful prophetic moment after an unexpected up-close-and-personal encounter with a snake.

“I’m literally running down the trail and I trample on a snake,” Krick said. “Oh my gosh, I literally was running and I literally trampled on a scorpion. Are You kidding me, Jesus? Whoa!

“This is half of a snake. This is literally half of a snake. It’s literally cut in half. This is insane. I am in awe,” Krick said. And in a miraculous way, it provided the confirmation about what the Bible says in regards to our authority over these beasts.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Krick described how the moment unfolded in real time: “I was running and I trampled on a snake, like it was slithering across, before I had time to slow down and I trampled on it. Half of it slithered off somewhere somehow. Oh my Jesus.”

In the middle of this encounter, she had been worshiping. “I was singing this song out loud so loudly... ‘Oh my goodness, you’re a good, good God.’ I’m literally like singing my lungs out, jogging and I trample on a scorpion. This is insane. Never in my life did I think this would happen.”

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

What seemed like a shocking coincidence quickly became spiritual revelation. “Day number two in a row that God has completely shocked me. God, You are amazing.”

Krick pointed to the authority Jesus gives believers: “I have given you all authority over every demonic power. You shall trample over snakes and scorpions and no power of the enemy shall overcome you.”

Krick continued, “No power, no evil scheme of the devil, no evil strategy of the devil to try to stop you, to try to stop the work of God, to try to stop the casting out of demons and God’s people to be free—nothing can stop you.”she declared.”

Her message? We have been given all power and dominion over the enemy at all times.

“Those snakes will come by you and try to bite you as you’re running and you will trample on them. Jesus, Jesus, the devil’s defeated. The devil’s under our feet.”

Getting Free and Staying Free Isn’t Complicated! Learn more here!

Krick closed with a bold declaration: “I declare that every scheme against the work of God, against God's people being free, against this book 'Unlock Your Deliverance' from reaching all the people who need it—I declare that these schemes must be destroyed like this snake was in Jesus' name.

“I trample on them in the spiritual realm and I declare that they are under my feet. They're under our feet. And Jesus has the victory in Jesus' name.”

Kathryn Krick's unexpected encounter on the trail is a vivid reminder of the spiritual authority believers carry through Christ. What appeared to be a startling accident was, for her, a divine confirmation of victory over the enemy and a prophetic symbol of breakthrough. With bold faith and unwavering worship, she turned a moment of shock into a declaration of triumph, reinforcing the truth that no scheme of the enemy can stop the advancing work of God.

Here's the #1 Prayer Mistake Most Christians Make—How You Fix It Now

Have you been praying the wrong way this whole time?

In a powerful video, Lisa and Christian Bevere look at the topic of prayer and the missing piece that many Christians have not yet included in their time of intercession: boldness.

Prayer isn't reserved for the spiritually elite—it's the right and privilege of every believer. Through the blood of Jesus, we have been granted access to the very throne room of God. Unlike worldly leaders who may limit access or require appointments, God invites us to come boldly at any time. It's not about the eloquence of our words but the position of our hearts. Whether in weakness or strength, joy or sorrow, we can approach Him confidently, knowing we are heard and loved.

Understanding the Types of Prayer

Prayer is multi-faceted, and recognizing the different types helps us engage with God more fully.

Intercessory prayer allows us to stand in the gap for others, partnering with heaven for breakthrough in their lives. Petition brings our needs before the Father, who delights in caring for His children.

Consecration prayer invites us to surrender, saying, "Not my will, but Yours be done."

Protection prayers are vital in today's world, asking for God's covering over our lives.

Meditative and contemplative prayers draw us into stillness, where His voice becomes clearer.

Adoration and thanksgiving shift our focus from problems to the greatness of God.

Confession clears the way for intimacy, and supplication teaches us humility as we ask with reverence and trust.

God Still Speaks

Not only should we know what kinds of prayers can be offered up to God, but we should confidently recognize that God is not silent.

He speaks through His Word, through creation through moments of worship, and through the quiet whisper in our spirit. But to hear Him, we must be willing to slow down and listen. Too often, we approach prayer with pre-formed outcomes, telling God how to fix our problems. But faith calls us to trust that His plans exceed our own, even when they unfold differently than expected. When we stay in the Word and cultivate an ear to hear, we become more attuned to His voice and more confident in His direction.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

Confidence Through Relationship

Confidence in prayer grows out of relationship. As we remain in Christ, aligning our hearts with His truth, we find freedom to ask boldly. We don't need to shrink back in fear or uncertainty. Even when the answer is "no" or "not yet," we can rest in knowing that God's ways are higher and His love is constant.

Every response from God is filtered through His wisdom and goodness. When we trust His heart, we can pray with boldness, believing He hears and answers according to His perfect will.

Surrendering Our Desires

Desires are not bad in themselves—many are placed in our hearts by God. But it's crucial to hold them loosely. When we cling too tightly, we risk turning those desires into idols. Surrender is not giving up; it's giving over. It means saying, "Lord, this is what I want—but I trust You to give what's best."

Sometimes, what we release in prayer, God returns in a better form than we imagined. Other times, He redirects us entirely. Either way, surrendered prayer draws us closer to His heart and deepens our trust.

Prayer and Discernment

True spiritual growth involves both Word and Spirit. Prayer isn't just about speaking—it's about discerning. As we grow in our relationship with God, our prayers become more aligned with His will. We stop praying from a place of anxiety or fleshly desire, and instead, we pray from a place of faith and understanding. Discernment sharpens through time in Scripture, sensitivity to the Holy Spirit, and a willingness to be corrected.

When prayer becomes our lifestyle—not just a discipline—we walk in greater wisdom, clarity and peace.
