

Jonathan Cahn's Urgent Warning: Antisemitism Is Invading the Conservative Movement

In an emotionally raw video update, Mikhaila Peterson told viewers that her father, psychologist Jordan Peterson, has been gravely ill for nearly a year.

"Every day for the last year has been hell," she said. "I haven't been posting podcasts regularly because until a few days ago, I cried every single day." Alongside his illness, the family navigated the deaths of both of Jordan's parents and Mikhaila's own high-risk pregnancy – all at once.

Despite all of it, she is still leaning onto God.

"Thank God for faith," Peterson said. "If it weren't for my dad and our love for 're closer if anything now. Otherwise, this would have just crushed us."

What akathisia actually is

At the center of Jordan Peterson's suffering is a condition called akathisia – a neurological injury Mikhaila describes as "the worst thing I've ever seen anyone go through."

It is not mere restlessness. Akathisia produces an intolerable, unrelenting internal agitation that makes sufferers feel, in Mikhaila's words, like they want to "crawl out of their skin."

She described her own briefer episode as feeling like she was "falling into a volcano while being chased by a bear" – a stress response so intense it was “almost hallucinogenic.” Jordan’s symptoms, she said, have been more severe.

A neurological injury, not addiction

Mikhaila made it clear that her father has been off all psychiatric medications since January 2020. His current flare-up, which began last August, was not caused by new drugs. Mikhaila believes it was triggered by extreme stress – including the loss of both his parents – combined with mold exposure.

She is adamant that calling this an addiction is medically wrong. “He quit smoking and drinking when he was 27,” she said. “He just isn’t that.”

To order Don Colbert’s new book, Live Long and Strong, visit .

Instead, she argues, he represents a common and catastrophic pattern: a patient prescribed psychiatric medications long-term for a legitimate condition – in his case, severe, treatment-resistant depression – who sustains lasting neurological damage from those drugs even years after stopping them.

The spiritual battlefield

Mikhaila believes there is more than just a physical connection to everything happening. She believes this is also a spiritual battle.

“There’s a biological basis for what’s going on with dad and we finally know what it is,” she said. “But I do think there was a spiritual element or is... I do think our family has been attacked spiritually because I cannot understand the level of suffering that I've been through, let alone my dad's been through and my whole family without it making more sense through a spiritual lens. Thank God I'm a Christian."

The hidden epidemic of psych med injury

With roughly one in six Americans currently on a psychiatric medication, Mikhaila argues that psych med injuries should be treated as a national emergency. Long-term SSRI and benzodiazepine use, she says, is now linked to mitochondrial dysfunction – damage that can manifest as a sweeping neurological injury.

Crucially, withdrawal symptoms are almost universally misdiagnosed as a relapse of the original mental illness, leading doctors to prescribe additional medications that deepen the damage. "These poor people end up on two or three more medications to stabilize their worsening mental illness when it's really neurological damage from the medications themselves," she said.

Pharmaceutical companies, she added, mask the severity of side effects through minimizing language – labeling akathisia merely as "may cause restlessness."

A call to pray

Jordan Peterson has been a tremendous voice in a dark world for truth. Now is the time to pray for him. Pray specifically and boldly. Ask God for a true, miraculous healing: that every neurological wound would be restored, that the akathisia would lift completely, that Jordan would rise from this season not merely recovered but renewed, with a testimony that reaches farther than any lecture or book ever could.

Pray also for the whole Peterson family. The same God who raised Lazarus has not changed. This is the time to pray for God's miraculous power.

Abby Trivett is a writer and editor for Charisma Media and has a passion for sharing the gospel through the written word. She holds two degrees from Regent University, a B.A. in Communication with a concentration in Journalism and a Master of Arts in Journalism. She is the author of the upcoming book, The Power of Suddenly: Discover How God Can Change Everything in a Moment. For interviews and media inquiries, please contact media@.

Donald Trump Shares Franklin Graham's Bold Prayer Letter Stirring America

President Donald Trump shared a powerful image of a letter from the Rev. Franklin Graham, in which Graham said he was praying for him.

In the letter, Graham wrote:

Dear Mr. President,

I am praying for you today—for God to guide and direct your decisions. I know that millions of people, not only in our country, but all around the world are praying as well.

Thank you for your strong leadership.

Your Friend,

Franklin Graham

For years, prophetic voice Amanda Grace has been speaking words that many dismissed as too specific, too bold, and too geopolitically precise to be taken seriously.

Now, with the fall of Venezuela's Maduro, the death of Iran's Ayatollah Khamenei and military operations bearing names that eerily echo her exact prophetic language, the record is increasingly difficult to ignore.

In a recent interview with Katie Souza, Grace walked through several major prophetic fulfillments and warned about what is still to come.

The Venezuela Word: "January Is Marked"

On Dec. 11, 2023, Grace released a prophetic word that named Venezuela alongside Israel, America, France, and England, declaring that the "justice of Yahweh," which she says the Lord had revealed to her years prior as an acronym for JOY, would be written across these nations.

"And thus says the Lord," Grace read from the archived word, "this joy, which stands for the justice of Yahweh, shall be written in areas of the earth. There are areas of the earth marked for this joy. Oh Israel, Oh America, Oh France, Oh England, Oh Venezuela."

The word went on to declare, "January is marked, says the Lord." In January 2026, Nicolás Maduro was captured by U.S. military forces, the sixth nation on that list, fulfilling the exact month the word specified.

To order Amanda Grace's new book, Brace For Impact, visit .

"I don't think that's a coincidence," Grace stated. "I think we're watching within the earth the justice of Yahweh, the joy of the Lord right now go out into these nations.”

Iran and the “Ferocious February” Word

On Dec. 29, 2025, Grace released another prophetic word that has since drawn widespread attention. It read in part: “A January of justice, says the Lord, shall lead to a ferocious February, setting up for a roar in March.”

On Feb. 28, 2026 – the final day of February – the United States and Israel launched a joint military strike on Iran. The U.S. named its operation Epic Fury. Israel named its Operation Roaring Lion.

“A ferocious February, setting up for a roar in March,” Grace repeated during the interview, visibly moved. “Operation Epic Fury and Roaring Lion... This is prophetic. This is an appointed time.”

The strikes took place between the blood moons marking Purim 2025 and Purim 2026 – a timing Grace says is deeply rooted in the book of Esther, which is itself set in ancient Persia, modern-day Iran.

Seven Years Ago: “An Esther Coming Forth Out of Iran”

Perhaps the most striking fulfillment came when Grace pulled an archived prophecy from Dec. 8, 2019 – seven years before the Iranian strikes. The word began: “An Esther coming forth up out of Iran.”

It continued to describe a covert Israeli intelligence operation aimed at uncovering underground facilities, a “jaw-dropping” military operation to follow, and an ominous closing declaration: “The Ayatollah will be shaken – the Iranian government will be shaken down to the foundations, and there will be big falls.”

“This basically sums up the operation we’re seeing right now,” Grace said. “The underground facilities – they’ve been doing the bomb busters and blowing these underground facilities to smithereens. And the Ayatollah, his cabinet came down with him. Big falls.”

The Ayatollah Khamenei was killed on Feb. 28, 2026. On the Islamic calendar, that date fell on the 11th day of the 9th month, or 9/11.

Haman, Purim and the Pattern of Reversals

Grace sees a recurring spiritual pattern at work in these events, rooted in the biblical book of Esther. She pointed out that hidden within the name of Ayatollah Khamenei, one can spell “Haman” and “Amalek” – the biblical enemies of God’s people whose decrees of destruction were reversed upon themselves during Purim.

To order Katie Souza’s new book, Star Gods, visit .

“He fell two days before Purim,” she noted, “which has to do with the book of Esther, which was the one who had the decrees of destruction sent out against the people of God.”

She then turned to New York City, noting that newly elevated Mayor Zohran Mamdani’s name also contains the letters of “Haman” – and that he rose to power between the same two blood moons. “We’re watching as one Haman is falling, another is trying to rise,” she warned.

What's Coming: Double Purim, Shemitah and 2028

Grace says the prophetic calendar only intensifies from here.

In 2027, a Jewish leap year – what she calls a “pregnant year” – will produce a double Purim, meaning two sets of decrees of destruction will be set in motion spiritually, demanding double intercession from the church.

“You go from Purim and blood moon, Purim and blood moon, to now double Purims,” she explained. “Which means double decrees of destruction are going to attempt to go out.”

Then 2028 arrives with a Shemitah year, an election year and the 20-year cyclical mirror of 2008 – the year of the global banking crisis and the rise of Barack Obama.

“What’s coming in 2028?” Grace asked. “Shemitah year. Election year. The Ishmaelites are going to try to cycle and rise.”

Her charge to believers is urgent and practical: “When you have this information, you are now responsible for this information.”

She urges daily study of Scripture, strategic intercession and the discipline of seeking God before the events arrive – not after.

Now the real question is this: Are we prepared for what’s going to take place?

Abby Trivett is a writer and editor for Charisma Media and has a passion for sharing the gospel through the written word. She holds two degrees from Regent University, a B.A. in Communication with a concentration in Journalism and a Master of Arts in Journalism. She is the author of the upcoming book, The Power of Suddenly: Discover How God Can Change Everything in a Moment. For interviews and media inquiries, please contact media@.

Shocking 911 Call: Pastor's Husband Sought God After Fatally Shooting Her

Pastor Tammy McCollum was killed on Monday, April 6, but what happened following her murder is chilling.

As Charisma previously reported, McCollum's husband, Eddie McCollum, has been charged with first-degree murder for fatally shooting her.

Now, in an update from The Christian Post, it was noted that McCollum called 911 and confessed to the killing of his wife, seeking God's divine intervention.

An article by Queen City News released the conversation between Eddie McCollum and a police dispatcher.

"Hello. I need everything. Um. I shot by wife," McCollum said before becoming more and more unraveled in disbelief.

"We were arguing. And I told her, I said..." he said before trailing off. "Why? Oh God. My kids and grandkids. Oh my God."

To order your copy of the MEV Spiritual Warfare Bible, visit .

As dispatchers tried to speak to McCollum, they prompted him to help her to which he said, "I can't help her, she's dead."

"Do you think she's beyond any help?" The dispatcher asked.

"I can't tell you, don't make me tell you," he said.

The dispatch reassured McCollum that paramedics were on their way and asked for him to go outside with his hands up.

"Come on, man, don't do this," McCollum argued. "I killed my wife. I'm done."

He further said, "I'm not leaving her," when prompted to head outside.

"Oh God. Lord, help me," McCollum said.

The Well Worship Center, where Tammy McCollum ministered, shared a post on Facebook detailing her memorial service. It will be held on Saturday, April 18, with the viewing at 11 a.m. and the celebration of life at 12 p.m.

As that darkness presses in, I pray—for Pope Leo XIV, that he may continue to lead as a shepherd of light and peace for the Church Christ established.□And I pray for our President, and for all leaders entrusted with decisions that carry the weight of life and death—that they may be guided by the Holy Spirit in wisdom, courage, and prudence.

These are burdens few can truly comprehend.□To bear them well requires extraordinary discernment—and grace; that gift given to us as a result of the supreme sacrifice of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Tonight, let us pray for them both; may the Sacred Heart of Jesus guide each and every decision they make.□For wisdom. For peace...and most especially, for the protection of the innocent.

God be with them.□And God help us all.

Amen.

This comes as the Rev. Franklin Graham is calling for the pope and the president to meet.

Abby Trivett is a writer and editor for Charisma Media and has a passion for sharing the gospel through the written word. She holds two degrees from Regent University, a B.A. in Communication with a concentration in Journalism and a Master of Arts in Journalism. She is the author of the upcoming book, The Power of Suddenly: Discover How God Can Change Everything in a Moment. For interviews and media inquiries, please contact media@.