"I made a decision; I said, 'I'm not going to worry. My life belongs to the Lord. He has every day of my life in His hands,'" Bravatty says. "I remember when the doctor was telling me about the pancreatic cancer and then the ovarian cancer, I was in tears...I was just feeling devastated but God was holding my hand."

By making this decision to cling to Jesus no matter what the outcome was, discovering that God had answered her prayers and miraculously healed her was one of the greatest moments of her life.

"It was a great miracle," Bravatty says. "My doctors here at Northwestern told me we have never had this happen to us...I was declared cancer free.”

Bravatty points to the Lord’s goodness for extending her life and allowing her to still be alive today.

“I know the Lord extended my life with a purpose,” Bravatty says. “I know with the type of diagnosis that I had, with the history that I had, I was not supposed to be alive and healthy, but the Lord allowed me to that...to allow me to live and to share that there is nothing impossible for God, no matter the diagnosis, no matter the family history.”

In her feature article of Charisma Magazine Online, Bravatty also noted how it is through this time, this process of seeing God do a miracle, that she has since discovered how the Lord continues to show His glorious nature to her.

“I now understand that each day is a gift from God, who changed my heart through the process,” Bravatty writes. “I aim to live every day to the fullest!”

Bravatty’s story is a testament to unwavering faith and the transformative power of trusting God in the midst of life’s storms. Regardless of the challenges she faced, the presence of Jesus became the anchor that carried her through the entire healing process.

Testimony From Hell Reveals the Secret to Demon Possession

President and CEO of Behold Israel, Amir Tsarfati, just gave a striking update on cancelation and how the current conditions with Hezbollah could potentially affect the future of Israel.

“I don’t know if you know, but I just told everyone on social media, I was able to announce that I’m de-platformed from Wikipedia,” Tsarfati said. “Ever since October 7th people were watching my videos and they plotted how can they shut my mouth. I mean, they cannot touch Telegram, so they went to the easiest thing, which is complaining to Wikipedia that my page there is biased.”

Tsarfati says that contrary to what has just happened, he was originally approved to be on Wikipedia.

“There’s many more on that camp that wants to silence me,” Tsarfati said. “I was taken down from that’s the beginning.”

Besides his own personal struggles with cancelation, Tsarfati discussed the challenges happening in the Middle East especially in regards to Hezbollah and Hamas.

“Twice, there were UAVs that Hezbollah sent that were successfully were aiming at strategic and sensitive locations that are game changers if they would have been destroyed,” Tsarfati said. “If Hezbollah mission yesterday would have been successful, Beirut wouldn’t be standing here even today.”

Tsarfati also reported that what had happened was the Hezbollah liaison between Iran and Hamas was killed. He also described that Hamas is willing to agree with a two-state solution, but does not actually support what it means.

“A couple of days ago, Hamas leader in the diaspora, his name is Khaled Meshaal, was interviewed, and he was asked about a two-state solution,” Tsarfati said. “He said, ‘We may have to accept a two-state solution just as a way to survive, but we, Hamas, do not support a two-state solution.’”

Tsarfati also described how the support for the Palestinians is largely from people in America, not from other parts of the world.

“It’s the progressive liberals in the democratic party in America that continue to push for a solution that no one wants, neither in Israel nor even the Hamas,” Tsarfati said.

Tsarfati also makes a powerful observation that in Scripture we see mention of Israel, but there is not a mention of a Palestinian state. As tensions continue to rise in the Middle East, Tsarfati warns that 2024 will be full of hardships.

“2024 is going to be the most challenging year ever,” Tsarfati said. “But it’s beautiful if you really think about it. It’s beautiful because we don’t trust horses or chariots; we trust in the name of the Lord.”

For those of us near and far away from the ongoing crisis in the Middle East, let us remember to pray for the peace of Jerusalem as Scripture says, especially now as we inch closer each day to the return of Christ.

Are We Entering a Leviticus 26 Era?

While many just celebrated their championship of the pro-life cause, 2023 reigned in as at least the fifth consecutive year where abortion was the number one killer worldwide.

As The Christian Post reported, Worldometer statistics showed that 44.6 million abortions took place around the globe last year.

That's 44.6 million people who never had the opportunity to see the light of day. People who never had the chance to take a first look at the world around us, take their first steps or laugh in the company of family and friends.

While the pro-life cause has been carried and empowered by millions for years, especially after the reversal of Roe v. Wade, this is still a steep number to fathom. Abortion doesn't just affect lives in America. It affects lives all over the world.

The second leading cause of death last year was from communicable diseases, with 12.9 million people losing their lives. While this number is still a lot, that's over 31 million people more who have suffered death before they could even grasp what life truly is.

For many, abortion is performed out of convenience, some out of fear and others by pressure. But what if there is a deeper, spiritual reason as to why abortions are performed?

It is in Scripture where we first see that God knits people together in the womb. There is frequently quoted Psalm 139:13 which reads, "You brought my inner parts into being; You wove me in my mother's womb."

There's also the passage in Jeremiah which shows that God knows us even before we are ever conceived.

"Before I formed you in the womb I knew you; and before you were born I sanctified you," (Jer. 1:5).

Human beings are, from the very beginning, known, seen and put together by the Lord. We are God's handiwork, created in Christ Jesus to do good works.

Because we are known and created so purposefully by the Lord, it is a great demise, a plan of the enemy to want to destroy us from the very beginning. The devil hates God, so why wouldn't he hate the very beings made in God's image?

So, abortion is one way to stomp on the very created beings that the Lord has called by name. Abortion is a tool to wipe us out from the very beginning, to remove us from the equation altogether. A human being who never has the chance to know the Lord and walk beside Him is much easier to take out than a human being who has tasted and seen the goodness of the Lord.

The enemy comes to steal, kill and destroy, but Jesus came that we may have life and life more abundantly. So, instead of allowing this enemy to come in and destroy precious, innocent lives, it is the job of the Christian to pray against this evil and reach out to those in need who may be considering abortion. If we are not praying for the unborn, then who is?

Lil Nas X Addresses Backlash Following Blasphemous Videos

In a post on X, Misty Edwards, one of the top worship leaders to come out of the International House of Prayer Kansas City ministry, is sharing an “Appeal and Protest Statement” collaborative by the suggested ‘Jane Does’ in the Mike Bickle misconduct investigation. Edwards says that there are ‘Janes Does’ who have been “wrongfully identified” by the advocate group in this case.

The statement from the group reads:

Jane Doe Appeal and Protest Statement (, 2024)

Many of us alleged Jane Does have been silent throughout the months of the three IHOPKC investigations and difficult ordeal. While other voices have chosen to clamor loudly and insistently, we have maintained our silence, desiring to retain whatever measure of privacy of life we could that was left after our lives were invaded by the violating behavior of those involved in a calculated “Jane Doe” campaign that is being done in the name of “love, transparency, justice, and advocacy.”

While a narrative has been presented of many female victims whom the “advocate” group is representing, the true story that has not come out is how many of those victims were involuntarily labelled that and had narratives constructed by others forced upon our lives, that we have been forced to defend ourselves from. This has been painful, humiliating, and traumatizing to all of us.

Some in the “advocate” group keep stating that “victims have been intimidated to come forward to talk to legal investigators.” This is untrue. We have engaged with the three investigative legal teams that IHOPKC has brought in. Though all the legal teams have been professional and respectful, the nature of the circumstances and its necessary questions have caused us to endure recurring humiliation, distress, trauma, and pain as we have had to have repeated conversations about humiliating topics concerning the insinuations and suggestions that others have projected onto our lives and workplace dynamics.

Behind the scenes we have been harassed, secretly recorded, had family members contacted, had our phone numbers given out, and been bullied and pressured to “admit” to being victims, and when we have refused such untruths, we have been gaslit, told that these people know the true stories of our lives better than we do, and had the narratives they have formed about our lives suggestively put in media articles and social media posts, or threatened to be put in public articles.

When we refuse to capitulate to the narratives being promoted about our lives by some of the “advocates” we have been threatened, called liars, Stockholm syndromed, accused of covering up, being mentally compromised, having memories repressed, being complicit, and even suicidal.

Now some in the “advocate” group are insisting on a fourth investigation, putting us through even further anguish and injustice, while they themselves have as of yet refused to be formally investigated even once by a legal team in context to their character, narratives, or the processes by which they have promoted various accusations against many of us.

We are exhausted, humiliated, and done. We appreciate the concern for others who express victimhood, but frankly, there is another group of victimized women here—the women, and former women, of this house who have been forced to engage in this horror show against our will for the sake of someone else’s agenda against Mike Bickle and IHOPKC.

While some in this group, comprised primarily of what would be considered righteous men of God, have clamored loudly and insistently and forcefully that they are “advocates” of a series of abused women, the truth is that in reality our lives have been bullied and abused by them. They profess an adamant knowledge of our victimization and credible evidence that suffices it. These are all based upon second-hand stories and hearsay. Not one of them has ever spoken to any of us except Jane Doe #3, only to have the testimony of her own personal life story refuted to her face and overridden by their insistence that they knew her life story better than she. May Jesus strengthen her in this hour.

Meanwhile, some of these men continue to boldly declare to the world that they are the “advocates” of multiple victimized women, all while having their foot on our necks in full refutation of the actual narrative of our lives. They are determined that their narrative of our lives will be established as the “truth” about our lives. Our voices mean nothing to them.

The idea that all the men in this group and some of those closely working with them are “advocates” of abused women is self-righteous posturing that is better defined as “this group are advocates of women who agree with their narrative.” If you don’t agree with their narrative, you become just as abused by their hands as the women they claim to represent.

As a result, our names, our life narratives, and our spiritual family have been forcibly smeared. The damage done has been devastating and cruel. We are simple, quiet people who just wanted to worship Jesus and pray for the nations. We wait for the throne room judgment of Jesus Christ when all true things will be laid bare and vindication will be eternal.

Our appeal is that they STOP harassing, bullying, and shaming us in public and private. Our appeal is that we not be forced to endure the trauma and humiliation related to another round of investigations by a fourth professional team as some in the “advocate” group are insisting upon. In grief, painful endurance, and unified agreement,

The accord of at least five “Jane Does” (as identified by the “advocates” and some of those associated with them)

Previously Edwards posted on Facebook that she was not one of the women who had experienced abuse by Bickle. Another potential ‘Jane Doe,’ April Rose from IHOPKC had also previously reported that she had not experienced abuse from Bickle either.

This investigation is currently underway, and it is important for Christians to pray for all parties involved.

Dr. Colbert Unveils the Power Foods to Help Your Brain and Gut Health

After seeing the past year surge with witchcraft, paganism, the occult and the extreme gender ideologies being pushed on young children, Rabbi Jonathan Cahn provided a warning about the coming end times, how these signs are playing out right in front of our eyes and what we can do to persevere through the coming storms.

“Be careful how you walk. Not as unwise people, but as wise. Make the most of your time because the days are evil,” Cahn said. “Therefore, do not be foolish but understand what the will of the Lord is. The time is late. No matter what age you live in, you got to make the most of your time. Your days on earth are numbered, so no matter when you live you got to apply this....but on top of it, the time is late because we live in the latter days.”

The fact that time is continuing to race closer toward the return of Christ means we must also definitively choose to make Jesus the firm foundation our life is built upon so we can stand tall for His righteousness.

“Everything you do for God means more. Every stand you take for God means more," Cahn said.

The only way that we will survive and grow in the year to come is to completely stand for Christ, no matter what may come.

"We live in dramatic times; we live in radical times. We have to live radically for God in this year to come," Cahn said.

"I've said this before, I believe this year will be a dramatic one," Cahn added. "One with warfare. And you who are born again are born again spiritual Israelites. You are also spiritual Israelis. Let me give you a spoiler alert; in the Bible, the word Israelite is Israeli. Same word. The Bible says you are spiritual Israelites, you're a spiritual Israeli. And so, you must fight."

It doesn't matter what political, societal or economic turmoil may cross our paths or make us want to step aside from the fight of faith. If we have been adopted into the family of God, we must take up our cross and follow Him. There are only two options: either to fight alongside the Lord, or to work on the opposing side with the enemy.

"This year you must fight the good fight. That means you don't let the enemy have his way anymore. That means you don't let the enemy intimidate you, ensnare you, hinder you, entangle you anymore. That means you don't care what the world says or what the polls say or what the media says; it doesn't matter," Cahn said.

While 2024 may or may not have started off exactly as you've planned, God's plan is still bigger, and when you choose to chase after Him and stick with His purposes, He will undoubtedly be with you. The greatest thing that any of us could have in this new year is a chance to know and to run alongside of Christ. We may encounter ups and downs, but by choosing to stand with God above all else, the heavenly victory will be even greater than anything that can be known here during this lifetime.

"Take back what is yours. This year, fight the good fight of faith. Fight the good fight of righteousness. Fight for your calling. Fight for your ministry. Fight for your peace Fight for your blessing. Fight for your family. Fight for your victory. Fight the good fight. This year, be strong in the Lord and in the power of His might. This year, be strong and of good courage, and everywhere the soles of your feet shall tread, if you walk, it shall be given to you. Fight the good fight. Fight the good war in 2024," Cahn said.
