

Is the Board of Peace a Historic Breakthrough or Prophetic Sign? Why Trump Says It Has 'Unlimited Potential'

Are we about to witness something prophetic take place with the Board of Peace?

As President Trump's Board of Peace prepares for its first official meeting on Thursday, Feb. 19, he is announcing why this group has "unlimited potential."

In a post on Truth Social, the president wrote:

The Board of Peace has unlimited potential. Last October, I released a Plan for the permanent end to the Conflict in Gaza, and our Vision was unanimously adopted by the United Nations Security Council. Shortly thereafter, we facilitated Humanitarian Aid at record speed, and secured the release of every living and deceased Hostage. Just last month, two dozen distinguished Founding Members joined me in Davos, Switzerland, to celebrate its official formation, and present a bold Vision for the Civilians in Gaza, and then, ultimately, far beyond Gaza – WORLD PEACE!

Trump also announced that "Member States" have already donated $5 billion to the cause of rebuilding Gaza.

To order Troy Anderson's new book, Designated Disrupter, visit

.

On February 19th, 2026, I will again be joined by Board of Peace Members at the Donald J. Trump Institute of Peace in Washington, D.C., where we will announce that Member States have pledged more than $5 BILLION DOLLARS toward the Gaza Humanitarian and Reconstruction efforts, and have committed thousands of personnel to the International Stabilization Force and Local Police to maintain Security and Peace for Gazans. Very importantly, Hamas must uphold its commitment to Full and Immediate Demilitarization.

He concluded by acknowledging that he believes this board will have a significant impact on the future.

The Board of Peace will prove to be the most consequential International Body in History, and it is my honor to serve as its Chairman. PRESIDENT DONALD J. TRUMP Scripture speaks of a time when the world will pursue peace agreements. Passages such as 1 Thessalonians 5:3 warn that when people declare “peace and safety,” sudden change can follow. Likewise, prophetic books such as Daniel and Zechariah point to seasons when global leaders will seek to stabilize the region, making the Middle East a central stage for end-time fulfillment.

As nations work toward solutions in Israel, Gaza and the broader region, believers are called to remain anchored in biblical truth.

Abby Trivett is a writer and editor for Charisma Media and has a passion for sharing the gospel through the written word. She holds two degrees from Regent University, a B.A. in Communication with a concentration in Journalism and a Master of Arts in Journalism. She is the author of the upcoming book, The Power of Suddenly: Discover How God Can Change Everything in a Moment. For interviews and media inquiries, please contact media@.

Islamic Call to Prayer Echoes Across NYC Ahead of Ramadan Under Mamdani's Leadership

The infiltration of Islamic values in America isn't coming: it's already here.

Throughout New York City, residents are complaining about the fact that starting at 5 a.m., the call for Islamic prayer is playing on speakers throughout the city for Islam's ritual of praying five times a day.

In a post on X, Eric Daugherty of Right Line News shared RAIR Foundation's video of how New Yorkers are feeling after this takeover.

BREAKING: Many New Yorkers are furious after the Islamic call to prayer is BLASTING into people's homes as early as 5AM under Ugandan Mayor Mamdani

Multiple videos of this happening are now surfacing

You asked for this. Best of luck. You'll need it.

□ BREAKING: Many New Yorkers are furious after the Islamic call to prayer is BLASTING into people's homes as early as 5AM under Ugandan Mayor Mamdani

Multiple videos of this happening are now surfacing

You asked for this. Best of luck. You'll need

– Eric Daugherty (@EricLDaugh) February 16, 2026

Another video detailing an area of Manhattan depicts the reality of having these Islamic calls to prayer blast all over the city.

To order Jonathan Cahn's book, The Return of the Gods, visit .

Residents in this area of Manhattan, New York, are completely shocked to hear an Islamic call to prayer blasting on high-volume speakers as they walk down the street.

"I never thought in my life I'd hear this in the middle of New York."

Unbelievable.

Residents in this area of Manhattan, New York, are completely shocked to hear an Islamic call to prayer blasting on high-volume speakers as they walk down the street.

"I never thought in my life I'd hear this in the middle of New York."

– Vivid.👁️ (@VividProwess) February 15, 2026

Yet another post by Dr. Maalouf on X shows this call to prayer happening in Brooklyn as well.

Residents in this area of Brooklyn, New York, are complaining that they are forced to listen to the Islamic call to prayer blasting five times a day, starting at 5 a.m.

This seems to be happening all over the city.

What should be done in this situation?

Residents in this area of Brooklyn, New York, are complaining that they are forced to listen to the Islamic call to prayer blasting five times a day, starting at 5 a.m.

This seems to be happening all over the city.

What should be done in this situation?

– Dr. Maalouf □ (@realMaalouf) February 16, 2026

Maybe no one thought that the persistent infiltration of Islam would happen under Zohran Mamdani's leadership. Yet, he never hid who he was from the world. He said he was a Muslim and a socialist. Why didn't anyone believe him?

This all begs a much deeper question: What spiritual component lies beneath it all? Is there a principality overtaking New York City, and when was it invited in?

When we think in terms of spiritual principalities and powers, New York City has long had dark ties to the demonic, including the historical ties between Freemasonry and the Statue of Liberty. Ringing in Muslim prayers across the city is the same as calling upon any other power or principality to come in and take over an area. When a culture celebrates autonomy from Jesus while opening itself to every spiritual influence without discernment, Scripture warns that unseen principalities seek legal ground.

The tragedy of the World Trade Center attacks shocked the world, and yet, New York City still has not found itself in repentance. Instead, it is starting to embrace the very ideologies that have tried to kill it. Where repentance is rejected, darkness does not retreat—it grows bolder.

What will happen in New York City next? That depends on either the city's acceptance or repentance from sin and darkness.

Abby Trivett is a writer and editor for Charisma Media and has a passion for sharing the gospel through the written word. She holds two degrees from Regent University, a B.A. in Communication with a concentration in Journalism and a Master of Arts in Journalism. She is the author of the upcoming book, The Power of Suddenly: Discover How God Can Change Everything in a Moment. For interviews and media inquiries, please contact media@.

Savannah Guthrie Issues New Emotional Plea to Mother's Captor: 'We Still Have Hope'

The United States is deploying 200 troops to Nigeria as violence linked to Islamist militant groups continues to devastate communities, including Christian populations across parts of the country.

According to Fox News, the troop deployment is set to help combat extremist groups responsible for deadly attacks. Fox states that American forces will assist Nigerian military operations targeting terror organizations including Boko Haram and ISIS-linked groups.

During the segment, President Donald Trump emphasized the severity of violence facing Christians in the region. "When Christians come under attack, they know they will be attacked violently and viciously,” Trump said. “I know it is not a nice thing to say but that’s the way it is.”

To order Travis Johnson’s new book, [Un]Embarrassed of Jesus, visit .

The move comes as extremist violence continues to hammer Christians in Nigeria. Congressman Riley Moore also described the severity of recent violence on the ground. “The folks I’m talking to on the ground have described what is happening in the Middle Belt in the north of Nigeria right now in the last ten days as a bloodbath,” Moore said. “Just wanton death and murder and destruction that continues.”

Fox further described how militants have carried out attacks targeting markets, villages and schools across the country. According to the report, more than 240 people have been killed so far this year in militant violence.

It is also believed that U.S. military will work alongside an existing smaller American footprint already operating in the region with the goal of supporting Nigerian forces in counterterrorism.

During this time of increased persecution, lift up the Nigerian Church in prayer, that they would be able to stand strong and keep their faith in Jesus no matter what comes their way.

Abby Trivett is a writer and editor for Charisma Media and has a passion for sharing the gospel through the written word. She holds two degrees from Regent University, a B.A. in Communication with a concentration in Journalism and a Master of Arts in Journalism. She is the author of the upcoming book, The Power of Suddenly: Discover How God Can Change Everything in a Moment. For interviews and media inquiries, please contact media@.

Is the Next Asbury Revival Here? Southeastern University Erupts in 30+ Hours of Nonstop Worship

As global tensions rise and headlines grow darker, Amanda Grace is urging believers to pay close attention to what they believe is a spiritually significant window of time leading into Purim and Passover.

Grace recently described the current moment as unusually intense, warning that world events appear to be accelerating as the calendar moves toward early March.

“This certainly is a February under fire,” she said. “We have nations... on the brink, including ours... we’re literally two and a half weeks from Purim... this is getting more and more intense the closer we get.”

Purim, which is rooted in the biblical book of Esther, commemorates the Jewish people’s deliverance from a decree of destruction issued by Haman.

According to Grace, the season represents not only remembrance but also a pattern of spiritual reversal.

“Purim has to do with the book of Esther... it has to do with a decree of destruction going out against the people of God and God bringing forth divine reversals,” she said. “Raising people up in order to destroy the plans of the wicked... and the people of God being delivered.”

Grace also pointed to celestial signs, noting that recent and upcoming blood moons are spiritual markers.

“Last Purim was marked by a blood moon... and now this Purim 2026... also marked by a blood moon,” Grace said. “There’s a reason for that... it’s no surprise that these things are unfolding at the rapid pace that they are.”

Watching Global Violence and Instability

Referencing recent tragedies, including a deadly Canadian school shooting, Grace emphasized the importance of spiritual vigilance during times of chaos.

“This is a tragedy what happened,” she said. “But there is way, way more to this than meets the eye for the time that we’re in.”

To order Amanda Grace’s new book, Brace For Impact, visit .

She framed this scenario through the lens of spiritual warfare, warning that believers should remain alert.

“We are very close to Purim... decrees of destruction have gone out,” Grace said. “And we are watching this [happen] in real time.”

Border Tensions and National Security Concerns

Grace also referenced reports of cartel drones breaching U.S. airspace near Texas, calling it a potential escalation point.

“The fact this is happening now... should signal to all of us that there is about to be an escalation in the war going on at the border,” she said. “That this is going to go to a heightened level of warfare.”

Linking these events to past prophetic statements, Grace cited earlier warnings they believe are now unfolding.

“A violation of airspace... shall trigger events,” she quoted from a prior prophetic word. “The ports are about to be battled for... strategic global ports.”

As the world enters into a spiritually significant season, believers are called not to fear but to stand watchful and rooted in faith. In times of shaking, God is raising up voices, still exposing darkness and still working all things toward His ultimate purpose.

Abby Trivett is a writer and editor for Charisma Media and has a passion for sharing the gospel through the written word. She holds two degrees from Regent University, a B.A. in Communication with a concentration in Journalism and a Master of Arts in Journalism. She is the author of the upcoming book, The Power of Suddenly: Discover How God Can Change Everything in a Moment. For interviews and media inquiries, please contact media@.

Historic Break: Church of England Moves Away From LGBTQ Agenda

In a surprising move from its increasingly leftist ideologies, the Church of England has decided to take a step away from its promotion of LGBTQ agendas and lifestyles.

According to The Guardian, the Church of England’s General Synod decided to support a document that noted that the liberal and conservative camps could not reach a consensus.

As the report further noted, current Synod members “backed a proposal by bishops on Thursday to halt all work on a process known as Living in Love and Faith (LLF) by 252 votes to 132, with 21 abstentions.”

So, what does this mean?

The allowance of clergy members to give same-sex couples blessings will no longer be in effect. The Guardian also says, “The prohibition on clergy being married in a civil ceremony to same sex partners will stay in place.”

To order Zaire Willis and Reginald Robinson’s new book, Born Gay, Born Again, visit .

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Sarah Mullally, stated that the LLF “left us wounded as individuals and a church.”

The Synod further stated that they would “recognize and lament the distress and pain many have suffered during the LLF process, especially LGBTQI+ people,” according to the Independent.

As Christians, we know that the biblical definition of marriage has remained consistent from Genesis to Revelation. In Genesis 2:24, God established marriage as the covenant union between one man and one woman, a design later affirmed by Jesus in Matthew 19 when He declared, “What God has joined together, let no one separate.”

What is happening right now with the Church of England is not simply about policy or denominational decisions—it is about a journey they hopefully take that returns to the unchanging truth of God’s design for family, covenant and holiness.

Abby Trivett is a writer and editor for Charisma Media and has a passion for sharing the gospel through the written word. She holds two degrees from Regent University, a B.A. in Communication with a concentration in Journalism and a Master of Arts in Journalism. She is the author of the upcoming book, The Power of Suddenly: Discover How God Can Change Everything in a Moment. For interviews and media inquiries, please contact media@.

End Times Prophecy in the Making? Israel Officially Joins Trump's Board of Peace

In an unprecedented move, Israel has taken the step to join Donald Trump's Board of Peace.

In a post on X, the Board of Peace announced, "The Board of Peace welcomes Israel as a founding member of our growing international organization."

The Board of Peace welcomes Israel as a founding member of our growing international organization.

– Board of Peace (@BoardOfPeace) February 12, 2026

In a statement on X, Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu shared the news.

Met with U.S. Secretary of State @marcorubio at Blair House in Washington.

Ahead of my meeting at the White House with President Trump,

I signed Israel's accession as a member of the "Board of Peace."

We will continue strengthening the unbreakable alliance between Israel and the United States.

Met with U.S. Secretary of State @marcorubio at Blair House in Washington.

Ahead of my meeting at the White House with President Trump, I signed Israel's accession as a member of the "Board of Peace."

We will continue strengthening the unbreakable alliance between Israel and...

– Benjamin Netanyahu – [REDACTED] (@netanyahu) February 11, 2026

After much debate about whether or not Israel would join the Board of Peace, the decision is the next marker in the Gaza rebuilding plan and Trump's wider goal of bringing peace around the world.

To order Troy Anderson's new book, Designated Disrupter, visit .

Through a prophetic lens, moments like this should prompt believers to pause and ask deeper questions about the times we live in. Scripture repeatedly speaks of a future moment when Israel will stand increasingly isolated on the world stage, with the nations ultimately turning against her.

As more Middle Eastern nations take seats on this same peace board, could we see the stage being set for the world to turn its back against Israel?

Whether this proves to be a step toward that prophesied global alignment or not, we will just have to wait and see.

Abby Trivett is a writer and editor for Charisma Media and has a passion for sharing the gospel through the written word. She holds two degrees from Regent University, a B.A. in Communication with a concentration in Journalism and a Master of Arts in Journalism. She is the author of the upcoming book, The Power of Suddenly: Discover How God Can Change Everything in a Moment. For interviews and media inquiries, please contact media@.

Enoch and the Nephilim Mystery: What Ancient Texts Reveal About the Supernatural Realm

Across the landscape of modern biblical discussion, few topics generate as much fascination—and debate—as the mysterious world of the Nephilim, the Book of Enoch and the origins of demonic forces.

In a recent interview with Shawn Ryan, apologist and biblical scholar Wes Huff addressed these difficult topics with intellectual honesty and spiritual caution, offering Christians a framework for navigating areas where Scripture is not fully explicit.

The discussion begins in Genesis 6, one of the most mysterious passages in the Bible. The text describes how the “sons of God saw that the daughters of men were beautiful,” leading to the birth of the Nephilim—figures later associated with giants.

Some ancient Jewish traditions, particularly those reflected in writings connected to First Enoch and preserved among the Dead Sea Scrolls, expanded on this narrative. These writings suggested the Nephilim were the offspring of fallen angels and human women and that demons may be the disembodied spirits of these beings.

Huff acknowledged these ancient traditions while emphasizing caution when moving beyond the clear teaching of Scripture. As he said, “On things that Scripture whispers about, I don’t want to yell too loudly.” That statement reflects a growing movement among serious Bible scholars and teachers who seek to respect both historical context and biblical authority.

The idea that demons are the spirits of the Nephilim has circulated in certain strands of ancient Judaism. According to Huff, these hybrid beings were neither fully spiritual nor fully human, leaving their spirits without a proper place in the afterlife. According to Huff’s theory, this could explain why demons seek embodiment and possession.

Huff’s approach reminds believers that while extra-biblical texts can provide historical insight, they do not carry the same authority as Scripture. For Christians, doctrine must ultimately rest on the canonical Bible rather than ancient speculation or cultural tradition.

The conversation also moved into deeper philosophical and theological territory—specifically, the nature of good and evil. Huff noted that humanity’s universal recognition of evil points toward a higher moral standard. “I think the fact that we understand that evil is something speaks to the fact that there is an objective evil... to be outbalanced by an objective good,” he said. This is true: if evil is real, then objective goodness must also exist, ultimately pointing to God as the moral lawgiver.

The discussion also reinforced core gospel theology. Huff referenced the biblical concept of Jesus as the “second Adam,” explaining that humanity is ultimately found either in the fallen nature of the first Adam or in the redemptive covering of Christ. As he emphasized, “We’re not saved by our works, but we’re saved for works.”

In an era when fascination with the supernatural continues to grow, Huff’s perspective offers a needed reminder: curiosity about spiritual mysteries must never overshadow the central truth of Christianity—the saving work of Jesus Christ and the call to live transformed lives for His glory.

Abby Trivett is a writer and editor for Charisma Media and has a passion for sharing the gospel through the written word. She holds two degrees from Regent University, a B.A. in Communication with a concentration in Journalism and a Master of Arts in Journalism. She is the author of the upcoming book, The Power of Suddenly: Discover How God Can Change Everything in a Moment. For interviews and media inquiries, please contact media@.