

Witches Admit Curses on Trump Aren't Working

In a recent interview with Charisma Media, former Satanist-turned-Christian evangelist John Ramirez weighed in on a viral Reddit post revealing that witches are casting spells on former President Donald Trump.

Despite their best efforts, the spells don't seem to work. Ramirez points to the power of prayer and the spiritual protection surrounding Trump, explaining that "the reason they can't touch Trump is because you can't penetrate the blood."

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

The Reddit post describes how witches are shifting focus away from Trump after their spells proved ineffective, citing what they referred to as "some kind of protection around him." Ramirez, now a leading advocate against witchcraft, attributes this protection to the prayers of believers. "I pray for Trump every other day because I understand God's plan and purpose for the earth," he says, noting that Christians around the world are interceding on behalf of the former president.

Ramirez explains that witchcraft, while often portrayed as harmless or even positive, is rooted in the devil's schemes.

Citing his own past in the occult, Ramirez makes it clear that witchcraft is anything but innocent. “I was ignorant for 25 years, right? And God saved me, so they deserve salvation, too,” he says, referring to those caught up in occult practices. He is adamant that salvation through Christ is available to all, including witches, but underscores the spiritual danger of practicing witchcraft.

Order John Ramirez's "Exposing the Devil's Playbook" on Amazon.com!

According to the Bible, witchcraft is condemned as evil. Galatians 5:19-21 lists sorcery as one of the “works of the flesh,” warning that “those who do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God.” Additionally, Deuteronomy 18:10-12 explicitly states that anyone who practices witchcraft is “detestable to the Lord.” The biblical warnings leave no doubt that witchcraft is a tool of the enemy, designed to lead people away from God.

Ramirez also shared his personal experience with spiritual warfare. He recalled a time when, as a satanist, he tried to curse a neighborhood but was unable to do so because the Christians there knew how to engage in spiritual warfare. "They chased me out of the region in the spirit," he says, noting that it was their prayers and understanding of spiritual authority that made the difference.

"You have believers that were armed and dangerous. They knew how to play, and they knew spiritual warfare," he adds.

In today's America, Ramirez believes the spiritual battle is intensifying. He warns Christians that as the country faces moral and spiritual decline, the church must rise up in prayer and spiritual warfare or risk letting satanic forces gain ground unchecked. "The kingdom of God will always reign," Ramirez declares, but only if believers stand firm in their faith and take action.

As America faces increasing spiritual warfare, Ramirez urges Christians to remember that "no weapon formed against you shall prosper," (Isa. 54:17). But victory requires active participation in the battle. "If you want to frustrate the devil, frustrate Satanists, frustrate the darkness, you need to expose the devil's playbook," Ramirez adds.

For believers, the stakes are clear: the spiritual battle is ongoing, and it's time for Christians to take their place on the front lines.

John MacArthur Reacts to the Steven Lawson Scandal

Recently, Pastor John MacArthur returned to Grace Community Church for the first time since undergoing a medical procedure that kept him sidelined from preaching. MacArthur sat down for a Q&A session led by Nathan Busenitz, executive vice president of The Master's Seminary and an elder at GCC, as reported by Church Leaders.

The conversation quickly turned to the topic of leadership failures within the church, most notably the downfall of Steven Lawson. Busenitz asked MacArthur how GCC should process the “adversity that comes from inside the church when people that we respect and trust turn out to be different than we thought they were.

“I know you’re talking about Steve Lawson, and I say that with the deepest agony in my soul,” MacArthur says. Lawson, a former leader at the church and a long-time friend of MacArthur, had recently been exposed for sexual misconduct with a younger woman. MacArthur was candid about the pain of the situation but emphasized that God’s hand is at work in exposing such behavior.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

“The first thing you have to understand is [that] God is blessing this church in many, many ways. And that is one of the ways He is blessing us: to expose someone who is in a position they have no right to be in to purify the church,” MacArthur explains. He adds, “It is fatal to a church to have that kind of behavior in leadership.”

MacArthur points out that God knew the hearts of the many pastors who have fallen into sin. "The Lord said, 'For Grace Church, that's enough. For the Master's Seminary, that's enough'."

MacArthur sees this painful experience as part of a larger divine plan to purify the church. "As we get closer to the end, I think the Lord is purifying His church, and I'm so thankful for that," he says. However, MacArthur expressed deep sorrow for his former colleague, saying, "My heart and soul aches for Steve, obviously, a friend."

Despite his disappointment, MacArthur continues to pray for Lawson, adding, "I pray constantly, in fact, I find myself almost every night praying for him in some point in the middle of the night."

The situation with Steve Lawson, and in churches around the world suffering from fallen leadership, is a sobering reminder of the biblical requirements for pastors and church leaders. According to 1 Timothy 3:2, a pastor "must be blameless, the husband of one wife, vigilant, sober, of good behavior, given to hospitality, able to teach." Leaders in the church are called to a high standard, and when they fall, the damage to the body of Christ is profound.

These reflections show the need for continuous prayer, not just for those in leadership but for all Christians. As more leaders fall into sin, it is crucial for believers to support their pastors in prayer, regardless of denomination. The spiritual war is real, and if the church does not stand firm, Satan's influence will grow unchecked. As MacArthur emphasizes, "We would be foolish to think that there wouldn't be an effort made by the enemy to plant in this church someone who could have a corrupting influence.”

The church must remain vigilant, praying for purity in leadership and trusting that God is at work in consecrating His people.

A Vision of Mark Cuban's Deception and Trump's Comeback

In a recent broadcast, prophetic minister Joseph Z shares a striking vision involving billionaire Mark Cuban and a spiritual revelation concerning the political futures of Benjamin Netanyahu, former President Donald Trump and President Joe Biden.

According to Z, he experienced a vision in which Cuban appears with what he describes as an “imposter spirit.” In the vision, Cuban, dressed in a lab coat, announces a technology meant to rival Elon Musk’s work. “He was trying to do a form of technology that was better than what Elon was bringing forward,” Z explains, adding that it had to do with robotics. He warns that Cuban’s actions may be part of a broader scheme to replicate Musk’s innovations. “I see a spirit of impostor syndrome, or a competing counterfeit narrative,” he says.

Shifting from technology to politics, Z discusses the prophetic parallel between Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and former U.S. President Donald Trump. He points to the recent assassination attempt on Netanyahu and believes it symbolizes Trump's potential return to power. "As it goes for Netanyahu, it will go for 45," he says, referring to Trump by his presidential number. The failed attempt on Netanyahu, according to Z, "means that 45 is likely going back in."

He extends this political prophecy to President Joe Biden, whom he refers to as "46." Z believes the current president could be removed from office, possibly allowing Vice President Kamala Harris to step in temporarily as "47." Despite this, he maintains that Trump will ultimately return as "48." However, he cautions that these outcomes are not guaranteed and urges Christians to pray fervently. "It is not just a done deal," he explains. "We've got to pray, we've got to believe God."

Z emphasizes the critical role of prayer in shaping the future of all nations, explaining the biblical command responsibility of the church to intercede. In these uncertain times a strong Christian presence is essential to maintaining stability. "It's still ours to lose," he declares.

The importance of a prayerful Christian population is evident in Scripture. Proverbs 14:34 reminds believers, "Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." A nation rooted in prayer and obedience to God's commandments has a far greater advantage of navigating the turbulent waters of the present than one beholden to the ways of Satan.

How to Detect False Teachers in Today's Church

Pastor Rick Renner, in a recent teaching uploaded to YouTube, delves into the book of Jude to address the danger of false teachers infiltrating the church.

Renner, using detailed Greek translations, warns that the epistle is as relevant today as it was in the first century, exposing leaders who “defile the flesh, despise authority, and speak evil of dignitaries.”

In Jude 8, Renner explains, these “filthy dreamers” justify their immoral actions and show utter disregard for spiritual authority. “They derogatorily speak debasing, nasty, shameful, ugly words toward those in authority who are worthy of honor and respect,” he says, highlighting how such teachers belittle and disrespect those in leadership positions, a practice that continues all too frequently today. Especially with the advent of social media.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Renner then contrasts this behavior with that of Michael the Archangel, described in Jude 9. In a fierce dispute with the devil over Moses’ body, Michael remains respectful and refrains from hurling insults. Instead, he simply declares, “The Lord rebuke you.” Renner emphasizes, “Even Michael... did not dare cross the line and get into judgment,” showing that true spiritual leaders must uphold respect for God’s authority, even in confrontation.

Moving to Jude 10, Renner explains how false teachers arrogantly speak about things they do not understand. He draws attention to the Greek term “blasfemo,” which means slander or speaking with the intent to harm someone’s reputation. These leaders act on natural, base instincts, which Renner likens to animals, saying they “do not belong in the pulpit—they belong behind the bars in a zoo.”

Renner’s teaching includes an analysis of Jude 11, where he notes that these individuals, like Cain, have abandoned the truth for greed. “They’ve given themselves fully to the error of Balaam,” Renner states, adding that they are morally adrift and corrupted by their pursuit of financial gain. He issues a dire warning to believers saying that embracing error leads to total spiritual ruin. “Those that embrace error don’t stop with one little error,” he says, “they go to the next level... until they lose their bearings completely.”

Christians today must be equipped with biblical discernment to recognize and guard against false teachers who distort the truth for personal gain. By staying rooted in Scripture, we can detect teachings that stray from God’s Word and hold fast to sound doctrine. As Renner warns, these leaders may appear spiritual but are driven by greed and immorality, making it crucial for Christians to test everything against Scripture.

The Bible instructs us clearly in the matter, “Beloved, do not believe every spirit, but test the spirits to see whether they are from God, because many false prophets have gone out into the world,” (1 John 4:1).

By relying on God’s Word and the guidance of the Holy Spirit, we can protect ourselves from deception and remain steadfast in truth.

Ezekiel’s Prophecy: Signs of

Fulfillment in Today's World

In a recent appearance on Daystar's "Joni Table Talk," best-selling author Rabbi Jonathan Cahn reveals the startling connections between biblical prophecies and today's escalating tensions in the Middle East, particularly concerning Israel.

Cahn dives deep into Ezekiel's Old Testament prophecies, focusing on the imminent threat of an invasion of Israel. "Ezekiel speaks of a time when nations will come against Israel," he says. "What we are witnessing today, especially with the recent events involving Turkey and its calls for Arab unity against Israel, is a direct fulfillment of these prophecies."

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Cahn, stressing the importance of recognizing the spiritual underpinnings of these geopolitical events, issues a warning believers must take to heart. "When you see a nation like Turkey rallying other Arab nations, it's not just a political move; it's a prophetic alignment," he explains. "We are witnessing the rise of the nations mentioned in Ezekiel—specifically in chapters 38 and 39—where God foretells a coalition against His people."

Order Jonathan Cahn's "The Dragon's Prophecy" on Amazon.com!

He paints a vivid picture of the spiritual warfare at play, emphasizing the significance of Michael the Archangel in this battle. "While there are demonic forces, like 'Sar Paras,' working against Israel, God has positioned Michael as the guardian," Cahn says. "The spiritual realm is intricately connected to what we see unfolding in the physical world."

Cahn's analysis doesn't stop at ancient prophecies; he also makes compelling connections to contemporary events. "Just as the Iranian president's death sent shockwaves through the region, the timing of these events points to something greater at work," he remarks. "We must recognize that every occurrence, from the Temple Mount tensions to the turmoil in the streets, is rooted in a cosmic battle foretold in Scripture."

Emphasizing the need for Christians to unite and stand firm in their faith, Cahn issues a dire call to action for the church. “This is a wake-up call for believers,” Cahn declares. “We can’t afford to be passive. Just as Israel faces opposition, so too does the body of Christ. We are called to be strong, to hold fast to our beliefs, and to recognize that we are part of this grand narrative.”

Cahn’s message is one that resonates with urgency: “The prophecies are unfolding before our eyes. It’s time for the church to awaken and prepare for the days ahead.” In these tumultuous times, Cahn implores fellow believers to look beyond the surface and seek the prophetic patterns woven into the fabric of current events.

Breaking Free from New Age Beliefs: My Journey to Deliverance through Jesus

Tamara Mitchell’s journey into deliverance ministry is a testament to the power of faith, healing and redemption.

In a recent interview with Charisma Media, Mitchell recounts her harrowing experience of being attacked by a demonic force while she slept. “I felt something crawling across my bed,” she says, explaining that the presence lifted her a foot into the air. In that moment of terror, she remembered her grandmother's advice: plead the blood of Jesus. "I just started pleading the blood of Jesus three or four times, and it dropped me," she says.

Mitchell, who was raised in both Baptist and Pentecostal churches, admits that she strayed from her Christian upbringing during her teenage years. In her search for answers, she explored New Age practices, despite knowing deep down that it was wrong.

"I started studying New Age... things I wasn't supposed to be dilly-dallying in," she says. The Bible clearly warns against engaging in such practices, with Deuteronomy 18:10-12 stating:

There must not be found among you anyone who makes his son or his daughter pass through the fire, or who uses divination, or uses witchcraft, or an interpreter of omens, or a sorcerer, or one who casts spells, or a spiritualist, or an occultist, or a necromancer. For all that do these things are an abomination to the Lord, and because of these abominations the Lord your God will drive them out from before you.

Her life began to spiral after the murder of a close friend, which led to severe anxiety, depression and a return of the spiritual visions she had seen as a child. "I started seeing spirits again... like I am looking at you," Mitchell recalls during the interview. The intensity of these encounters ultimately led her to seek help from a pastor, where she experienced deliverance from this demonic oppression and committed her life to Christ.

Now an active leader in deliverance ministry, Mitchell emphasizes the importance of spiritual healing and the reality of the supernatural realm. "It was the most extreme experience I've ever experienced. When it comes to demons crawling across your bed or trying to enter you, ...it just really jolted me," she warns. Her ministry now involves praying for healing, deliverance and leading others out of spiritual bondage.

Mitchell implores fellow Christians to guard themselves against the very real dangers of New Age practices and encourages others to embrace the truth of Scripture. "I was avoiding it for a long time... but I knew at that moment that God had a plan for me."

Today, she continues to help others break free from spiritual oppression through faith in Jesus Christ.

Confronting Evil: One Man's Fight Against Demonic Forces

In an interview with Charisma Media, Pastor Chris Garcia of Father's Glory International shares his powerful testimony of encountering demonic forces and finding freedom through the

gospel.

Growing up in a family with roots in Puerto Rico, Garcia explains that both sides of his family practiced spiritualism, witchcraft and voodoo, especially on his father's side. His great-grandfather, described as a healer, would invoke spirits for curses and false healings. Looking back on his family's background, Garcia notes, "Satan is a great counterfeit."

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Although his mother shielded him from these practices, Garcia recounts seeing altars dedicated to deities in family members' homes, particularly tied to Santeria, a blend of African spiritualism and Roman Catholicism.

"As a kid, I would ask questions, and my family members would tell me about those things," he shares. However, these experiences always left him feeling uneasy. "It felt off to me, almost like a very scary feeling would come over me," Garcia recalls, describing the strange sensation he often felt in these environments.

The turning point in Garcia's life came on Mar. 3, 2006. After being introduced to the gospel and invited to a church service, Garcia faced a relentless spiritual attack. "Before going there, for seven days I was attacked by spirits," he reveals. "Anytime I would try to go near, towards, the things of God, I would get attacked."

These encounters were terrifying, including moments of attack by demonic figures.

He recalls, "It was what I could describe as a very tall, spiritual entity that went through the window and began to straddle me, and had its legs between my ribs right here, and I couldn't move my body.

“I just didn’t know what it was. And this thing comes out of the the window. And the best way I could describe it is, like, it was like an invisible form. I can tell it was very tall. I can tell it was very big, and I can tell it had its feet right here, across my chest, next to my rib cage.

“And finally, just out of sheer desperation, the last name that I thought to mention, I said, ‘Oh, Jesus.’ And before I even said ‘Jesus,’ I didn’t even finish saying the name. It was like a reverberation in the air, like something was shaking, and there was like a boom, like whatever that was there fled as soon as I said, ‘Jesus,’ and it let me go,” he explains.

Order Chris Garcia’s book “Fresh Oil” on Amazon.com!

Despite these terrifying episodes, Garcia turned to prayer and ultimately found freedom from this demonic oppression.

In response to this newfound freedom, God began giving him visions as a means of warning.

One particularly intense encounter occurred when Garcia and his wife prayed early in the morning. "I saw a specific person all dressed in white, and he fled in terror when I exposed it in prayer with my wife," he shares. This vision confirmed to him that there was an attack of witchcraft against his church. After calling his pastor, Garcia discovered that there were indeed signs of witchcraft happening nearby, including dead animal sacrifices. "My pastor told me, 'You're seeing correctly,'" he says, confirming the accuracy of his visions.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

Since breaking free from demonic oppression, Garcia has continued to engage in spiritual warfare and lead others in prayer for their own victories over the devil. His testimony serves as a powerful reminder that spiritual battles are real, and victory is possible through Christ.

As Garcia's story shows, all who have accepted Jesus Christ have power over the devil and are called to engage in spiritual warfare. Scripture reminds us of this truth: "Look, I give you authority to trample on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy. And nothing shall by any means hurt you," (Luke 10:19). Through Christ, believers can stand firm against Satan's schemes and walk in complete freedom.

Vance Backs 'Jesus is King' Rally Chant, Harris Dismisses It

Senator J.D. Vance's recent rally in Wisconsin saw a marked contrast to Vice President Kamala Harris' handling of Christian attendees at a similar event just days before. During his speech, Vance was interrupted by a supporter who yelled, "Jesus is King!" Instead of ignoring the interruption, Vance echoed the sentiment, responding, "That's right. Jesus is King." The interaction was quite different than Harris' recent rally, where two Christian students were met with criticism after shouting "Jesus is Lord" and "Christ is King."

Dear Kamala, instead of denigrating Christians, THIS is how you respond when someone in the crowd praises Jesus:

Vance, a devout Christian baptized in 2019, shared his thoughts on the importance of faith in his life and the public sphere, addressing the growing tension between secular and Christian values in American politics.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

"I say this as a Christian, as a person who was baptized for the first time just a few years ago," Vance said. "There is something really bizarre with Kamala Harris' anti-Christian rhetoric and anti-Christian approach to public policy.”

This follows an incident where Harris told the two Christian students they were “at the wrong rally” and suggested they attend a smaller event down the street, presumably referring to a Trump gathering. The students, who were shouting pro-life and Christian messages, reported being physically pushed and ultimately dismissed by Harris. One of the students, Luke Polaske, described the moment, claiming Harris gave him an “evil smirk” as he held a cross in the air.

Order Troy Anderson's "The Trump Code" on Amazon.com!

While Harris dismissed the shouts of “Jesus is Lord” as out of place, Vance took a starkly different approach, welcoming the Christian expression. “Frankly, whether you’re a person of Christian faith or not, Donald Trump and I are going to fight for your right to live your values, because that’s what the First Amendment protects,” Vance told the crowd.

Vance also touched on a recent video of Michigan Gov. Gretchen Whitmer, which many critics, especially those of Catholic faith, found offensive. In the video, Whitmer, wearing a Harris-Walz campaign hat, is seen feeding Doritos to a kneeling podcast host in a manner that some said mocked the taking of communion. "Gretchen Whitmer does this really bizarre thing where she acts like she's giving somebody communion, but it's a Dorito," Vance said. "Think about how sacrilegious that is and how offensive that is to every person."

These differing reactions demonstrate a growing divide in how the Christian faith is treated in the American political arena. Vance, making it clear that Christian voters are central to his platform, emphasized that the Trump administration, unlike Harris and Biden, supports the right of Christians to live out their faith freely.

"We cannot have an American government that is persecuting Christians for living their faith," Vance said. "We should be rewarding people and encouraging people to live their faith."

Is This the Most Crucial Prophetic Event of Our Time?

In a recent interview with The Counter Culture Mom Show's Tina Griffin, Mondo Gonzales discusses what is potentially the most important prophetic event in modern history: Israel's reestablishment in 1948. For Gonzales, this historic moment, when Israel was officially declared a state, aligns directly with Scripture and is one of the clearest signs that humanity is living in the "end of the age."

"There's no doubt that if you asked anybody who studies prophecy what's the biggest sign of the modern times, it would be the reestablishment of the state of Israel," Gonzales says. "God predicted it throughout the Old Testament that they would depart out of the land for a long period of time... and at the end of the age, He would bring them back."

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Gonzales points to key biblical passages, including Ezekiel 36-38 and Deuteronomy 30, that prophesy Israel's return to the land. He emphasizes that this event sets the stage for what Christians believe to be the final chapter in human history—the return of Jesus Christ. "This is really what we're looking for, for the Lord Himself to come back," he adds, pointing to the culmination of God's plan for Israel and the

Order Jonathan Cahn's "The Dragon's Prophecy" on Amazon.com!

However, Gonzales is clear that there is still more to unfold. He discusses The Great Tribulation, a seven-year period of worldwide strife, which will focus heavily on Israel as God seeks to restore the nation. "They are not in a place of salvation today... but that is going to change," Gonzales says. "God's going to clean things up, He's going to save Israel, and then He's going to restore the world to the way it should be."

While many Christians are concerned about enduring the Tribulation, Gonzales firmly believes in a pre-Tribulation rapture. He assures fellow believers that while we may face challenges, we will not experience the final outpouring of God's wrath. "There's a lot of passages that teach us... even though we are exempted from this final wrath... I think things are going to get a little tougher for us before the rapture happens,” he shares. Gonzales acknowledges the suffering of Christians worldwide but maintains that the Tribulation period is specifically designated for God’s judgment, not for the church.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

As the conversation shifts to the timing of these prophetic events, Gonzales avoids making specific predictions. He reflects on the 70-80 year period often considered a generation in biblical terms but cautions against setting concrete dates for Christ’s return. “I don’t set dates... but we are in the end of the age,” he says, urging believers to pay attention to the signs of the times.

Despite the uncertainties and potential hardships ahead, the Word of God reassures Christians that we have nothing to fear about the end times. “...In the world, you will have tribulation. But be of good cheer. I [Jesus] have overcome the world,” the Bible says in John 16:33. Jesus’ victory over sin and death is the ultimate assurance for believers as we navigate the challenges of the current age.

Jailed Christian Issues

Warning: Beware the Jezebel Spirit

Bevelyn Beatty Williams, a pro-life activist sentenced to 41 months in federal prison for protesting at the entrance of a New York City abortion clinic, is using her platform to warn about what she calls the “Jezebel spirit” in American politics.

Williams was convicted under the Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances Act for her actions in 2020 and began her sentence this week after an unsuccessful appeal.

Despite her circumstances, Williams remains vocal about her faith, particularly her concerns regarding leadership in the U.S. government. Williams frequently refers to the influence of the “Jezebel spirit”—a demonic entity drawn from biblical accounts describing a rebellious, manipulative force often linked to ungodly authority figures. She attributes much of her legal persecution to this influence, especially from figures like Vice President Kamala Harris and the judge who presided over her case. Williams sees her conviction as part of a broader agenda by women in power, driven by the radical feminist and anti-Christian agenda.

Biblically, Jezebel is a corrupt and idolatrous queen who led Israel astray during the times of Elijah, and the book of Revelation warns of the same spirit influencing the church (Rev. 2:20). For Williams, this serves as a spiritual warning for Christians to resist such leadership and uphold God’s righteousness.

The Bible teaches us that Christians are called to stand firm against evil forces, praying and trusting in God’s ultimate victory. “Put on the whole armor of God, that you may be able to stand against the schemes of the devil” (Eph. 6:11), is a verse that describes the reality of believers facing spiritual battles against the forces of Satan.

Despite her imprisonment, Williams has vowed to continue her ministry behind bars, confident that “Jail doesn’t stop Jesus.”
