

Jaguar Wright's Claims Revive Interest in Kim Clement's 2014 Prophecy

Donné Clement Petruska, daughter of the late prophetic voice Kim Clement, has recently revealed a connection between singer-songwriter Jaguar Wright's explosive claims and her father's prophetic words from years ago.

In a video posted on her YouTube channel, Petruska delves into what she believes is growing evidence of occult practices infiltrating high levels of society, globalist organizations and politics, shining a light on the evil in the world today.

Wright, who has become known for her outspoken criticism of the music industry and its leading figures, including Sean "Diddy" Combs, Jay-Z and Beyoncé, made headlines recently by endorsing Donald Trump for the 2024 presidential election. In a surprising turn for someone not typically aligned with conservative politics, Wright declares, "It has to be Trump, because if we vote DNC, we're voting for liars. It's just that simple. The DNC is lying." Petruska admits she was shocked by Wright's comments, explaining, "This is not a person who is traditionally Republican or conservative at all."

However, it wasn't just Wright's political stance that caught Petruska's attention. She links Wright's public commentary to a prophecy her father gave on Feb. 22, 2014, in which he warned of efforts to place a "witch in the White House." Petruska recalls how, during the 2016 election, this prophecy was widely interpreted as referring to Hillary Clinton. But now, Petruska believes it holds new relevance, considering the current political landscape. "We know he prophesied that they will do everything in their power to put a witch in the White House," she says, suggesting that the prophecy might not be as time-bound as once thought.

Wright's recent remarks about Beyoncé have added another layer of complexity to Petruska's concerns. Wright accused the artist of promoting witchcraft, referencing a performance where Beyoncé's choice of song, "Freedom," and the associated symbolism struck her as deeply troubling. "She's recognizing and pointing out witchcraft," Petruska says, highlighting Wright's growing awareness of the occult themes present in modern entertainment.

In a recent episode of "Tipping Point," host Pastor Jimmy Evans delves into a thought-provoking discussion about U.S. foreign policy toward Israel and its prophetic link to natural disasters.

Evans raises serious concerns about the Biden administration's actions, particularly regarding the proposed two-state solution between the Palestinian Arabs and Israelis, and how these policies may be connected to recent catastrophic weather events.

"This book right here," Evans says, holding up a copy of William Koenig's "Eye to Eye: Facing the Consequences of Dividing Israel," "gives 126 examples of when American foreign policy was against Israel—especially when it involved dividing their land—and the natural disasters that followed in the United States."

Evans references the impact of recent hurricanes, including Hurricane Helene and Hurricane Milton, asking, "Could there be a connection between these massive hurricanes hitting America and what's happening in Israel at the same time?" He adds, "Some very troubling things are happening concerning the Biden administration's policies, and it makes you wonder if these events are more than just coincidence."

According to Evans, the stakes are high. “When we go against Israel, especially when we’re dividing their land, the consequences are severe. Could the hurricanes be part of those consequences?” He points to what he calls a “bizarre development” in the Middle East, where the U.S. is allegedly “trying to bribe Israel not to strike certain targets in Iran.”

Evans’ perspective on relations is a stark reminder of his view that biblical prophecy plays a critical role in modern geopolitics. “Right now, some very troubling things are happening concerning the Biden administration’s policies,” he warns, urging viewers to pay attention to the link between America’s treatment of Israel and the natural disasters the country faces.

If people truly want to put “America First,” then they must start putting God first.

Joining Pastor Evans on the podcast was Pastor Billy Crone, who discusses the deeper spiritual issues he believes are affecting America. Crone says that the leaders behind movements like the Great Reset, including figures like Klaus Schwab and Joe Biden, are part of a “Luciferian agenda” bent on global domination.

“They worship Lucifer,” Crone declares. “That’s not hyperbole; that’s literally the bottom line. These people are part of the World Economic Forum, purposely destroying our country to bring in the Antichrist kingdom.”

Crone traces this influence back to occult societies, linking their origins to Hitler's rise to power. "We've already demonstrated that Schwab has taken what Hitler did—the Third Reich—and changed it into the Fourth Industrial Revolution," he says. "The key phrase is 'secret doctrine,' which traces back to Madame Blavatsky, who started the Luciferian order."

Evans echoes Crone's concerns, stating, "There is a spirit behind what's happening right now, and it's not of God. The Bible is the only book on earth that tells us in advance what's really going on."

The two men agree that this demonic influence has infiltrated even the highest levels of American leadership. "When Biden got into the White House, one of the first things they did was a 'smudging' ceremony," Crone explains. "That's witchcraft—cleansing the White House of Trump's influence. We're talking about people in high places, worshipping Satan."

As Christians navigate a world filled with increasing turmoil, we must stand firm in our faith in Jesus Christ. The Bible says we are the salt of the earth and the light unto the world, and we must live out this reality every single day. "Now is the time for us to humble ourselves, seek God's face and turn from our wicked ways. That's when true revival can begin," Evans says.

In a rapidly changing world, we as Christians must use biblical discernment, empowered by the Holy Spirit, and remain steadfast, shining as beacons of light amidst the growing darkness.

Gateway Church Faces Lawsuit Over Money-Back Guarantee on Tithes

Gateway Church, a prominent megachurch in Southlake, Texas, is facing a new legal challenge after four members filed a class action lawsuit alleging misuse of tithe money.

The lawsuit, filed by Katherine and Garry Leach, along with Mark and Terri Browder, claims that Gateway Church, under the leadership of disgraced founder Robert Morris and other top leaders, failed to honor promises of transparency and accountability regarding church funds. Specifically, the members allege the church did not allocate 15% of tithes to global missions and Jewish ministry partners, as previously stated.

The lawsuit accuses Gateway Church leaders, including Morris, former executive pastor Tom Lane, and current executive global pastor Kevin Grove, of fraud, misrepresentation and breach of contract. The plaintiffs argue that despite assurances from Morris that dissatisfied members could receive a refund of their tithes, these promises were not upheld. The legal filing states, "This lawsuit is about transparency, brought by members whose concern is not money in their pockets but rather biblical stewardship."

The case also highlights concerns about Gateway's Global Ministries fund, which the church claimed would receive 15% of tithe dollars. However, the plaintiffs allege that Gateway failed to prove these funds were distributed as promised, and attempts to seek transparency were “rebuffed by Gateway elders.”

In response to the allegations, Gateway Church spokesman Lawrence Swicegood declined to comment on the specifics of the lawsuit, citing the ongoing litigation. He emphasized the church’s commitment to ethical financial practices, saying, “Funds donated to our church are sacred, and it is important that we hold ourselves to the highest biblical standards of ethics and integrity.”

As reported by The Christian Post, “The church members contend that despite repeated promises from Morris and other leaders that congregants would get a refund of their tithes if they weren’t happy with the results of their donations, Gateway Church leaders refused to honor that promise.”

This lawsuit comes at a difficult time for Gateway Church, which already was dealing with the fallout from Morris’ resignation in June. Morris stepped down after it came to light he had been sexually abusing a child in the 1980s, Cindy Clemishire, who was 12 years old at the time the abuse began, adding to the church’s mounting challenges.

As the legal battle unfolds, lift up the community of Gateway Church in prayer. Pray for healing and clarity for the church as their community faces another painful situation, and that the Lord’s will be done in all things.

Protect Your Freedom: Why Voting Is Crucial Now

A recent report put out by the Cultural Research Center at Arizona Christian University headed by lead researcher Dr. George Barna spells a growing concern among the Christian community in America.

The problem: millions of self-described Christians are abandoning their civic responsibility of voting.

Just how many Christians are choosing not to participate in choosing the leadership of the country in the 2024 election? According to Barna's newest report, a staggering 41 million "born-again Christians" and 32 million people who say they regularly attend a church. The faiths involved in the research include Christianity, Judaism, Mormonism and Islam and account for 104 million people who are not expected to cast a vote this November.

That is such a large group of potential voters that it could swing the election one way or another.

"I see two huge take-aways from this blockbuster report," says Len Munsil, President of Arizona Christian University in a press release.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

"First, that Christians could be the deciding factor in a bunch of federal and state races—and are choosing not to be. And second, that they are longing for their local church to instruct them on how to think biblically about policy and politics.

“They don’t want to be told how to vote, but they do want to know why they should vote, and how to view political issues from a biblical framework,” he adds.

Conservative firebrand Charlie Kirk has been one of the many voices leading the way for increased voter registration this election season, and called out the church on the social media platform X to do more to get the faithful involved, or else face the consequences.

This is a five-alarm fire.

The local church must be activated to explain why voting is critical and national leaders must not take this group for granted in key issues.

We cannot expect President Trump to have a more Christian ethos if the church refuses to vote. We cannot expect President Trump to be more pro-life if our own people don’t back him up at the ballot box. The local church must be activated.

Christians, you are about to hand the White House to Kamala Harris.

Dr. Barna explains that this large number of Christian voters is substantially more than the differential of the 2020 in states with a narrow margin of victory for President Joe Biden.

“The 32 million Christians who regularly attend church services but are not likely to vote represent a far larger margin than the combined number of votes that decided the 2020 election in key battleground states,” Barna says. “If church leaders, family members, and close friends will use their influence to get reticent voters from their churches to cast a ballot on Nov. 5, the election outcome will be meaningfully affected.”

For Christians, participating in the election process is not only a civic duty but also a spiritual responsibility. The Word of God instructs believers to engage with the world around them and act in ways that reflect their faith, not hide in the shadows.

Proverbs 29:2 says, “When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice; but when the wicked rule, the people mourn.” Voting allows Christians to be stewards of their influence in society, ensuring that leaders who align with biblical principles are chosen. By voting, we actively shape our communities in a way that honors God’s justice, mercy and righteousness.

The New Testament also commands believers to “let your light shine before men,” (Matt. 5:16), and one way to do this is by participating in the electoral process and choosing candidates whose values align with biblical truth. Engaging in the election is a way to put faith into action, using our voice to promote godly leadership.

The Emerging End Times Alliance: Prophecy Coming to Life

Iran and Russia are strengthening their diplomatic and economic ties in a development that could shift the balance of power in the Middle East and beyond.

Ali Akbar Velayati, a top adviser to Iran's Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, confirmed the deepening relationship between the two nations following Russian President Vladimir Putin's recent visit to Tehran. Velayati's remarks came after a meeting with Alexander Lavrentiev, Putin's special envoy for Syria, where the two discussed regional developments, including conflicts in Gaza, Lebanon and Syria, according to Iran's state media IRNA.

The meeting reveals how Iran is seeking to leverage its relationship with Moscow to push for a more anti-Israel stance in the region. This relationship, built on mutual opposition to U.S. influence, appears to be evolving into a broader alliance with potentially region-destabilizing consequences.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Iran's state media reported that both leaders emphasized the need to counter what they described as the "genocide of Palestinians" and condemned Israeli actions in Lebanon and Syria, calling for a halt to what they termed "the killing machine of this usurping regime."

The recent talks between Russia and Iran, coming amid growing tensions with Israel, show the expanding cooperation between these two nations, particularly in military and geopolitical realms. Lavrentiev expressed his satisfaction with the meeting, praising the strengthening of ties between the two countries. This deepening alliance aims to challenge the existing world order, one that has been led by the U.S. since the end of World War II.

What are the Spiritual Implications of this Alliance?

The alliance between Iran and Russia holds significant end times importance. Many theologians interpret the prophecy in Ezekiel 38-39, which describes a coalition of nations led by Gog of Magog against Israel, as a reference to Russia and Iran. Ezekiel 38:5 mentions Persia (modern-day Iran) as one of the nations that will align against Israel.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

Looking at these events through a biblical lens, the current strengthening of ties between Russia and Iran is setting the stage for future prophetic events.

While there are many end times prophecies unfolding in the world today, it is important to note that this is not yet the final battle of Armageddon. Revelation 16 describes Armageddon as the ultimate war between good and evil, where all the nations gather for battle and the final bowl of God's wrath is poured out upon the earth. However, this current political alignment is a season of preparation before such events must happen.

As Ezekiel 38:8 says, these alliances will occur "in the latter years," and this season appears to be laying the groundwork for what is yet to happen. While this alliance is troubling, and is a reminder that we are in times of preparation and the final events are still to come, we have peace and joy unspeakable in the knowledge that Jesus Christ has overcome the world.

Tracing the Horror: The October 7th Massacre

On a recent episode of “The Curt Landry Podcast,” Rabbi Curt Landry dives deep into the prophetic significance of the Hebrew year 5785, marking it as a critical time for believers.

“This is the year of the king-priest anointing,” Landry says, pointing to the Old Testament model of King David, who embodied both spiritual and material leadership.

According to Landry, the upcoming year holds the keys to unlocking believers’ spiritual potential in a new way.

Landry explains that 5785 is not just another year on the Hebrew calendar but one that sets the foundation for the next decade.

“What happens this year is pivotal for the next 10 years,” he says, emphasizing the urgency of preparing now. He warns that the coming decade will demand a higher level of spiritual leadership from believers, who must step into their roles as both kings and priests.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Rabbi Landry also highlights the crucial role of the fall feasts in this prophetic season, explaining their importance for spiritual alignment and preparation. “The fall feasts—Rosh Hashanah, Yom Kippur and Sukkot—are God’s appointed times for us to reflect, repent and reset,” he explains. Landry urges believers to fully engage in these feasts as a way to step into the blessings and protection they offer. “These are not just Jewish traditions,” he says, “but divine appointments for everyone in God’s kingdom. By observing them, you position yourself to hear from the Lord more clearly and receive the provision He has stored up for you in this new year.”

Drawing from the Lord’s prophetic insights, Landry shares that this year is uniquely tied to grace, perfection and new beginnings. “5785 is a year where God’s people will be empowered with authority, just like King David,” he says. “We are being anointed to reign and to serve, to lead with wisdom and govern with grace.” Landry describes this king-priest anointing as a dual responsibility—one that requires both spiritual stewardship and practical leadership. He calls on believers to embrace their roles, not only in their personal lives but also in their communities and industries.

He also refers to a prophetic word he received for this year, highlighting that 5785 will be marked by anointing kings and priests for God’s kingdom. “The Lord is raising up those who will walk in power and authority like never before. They will be kings in their workplaces and priests in their homes, anointed to reclaim what the enemy has stolen.” Landry’s message resonates with urgency as he encourages his audience to recognize the season they are in. “We are in a time of grace and perfection, but it’s also a time of new beginnings.”

Looking to equip and empower the faithful, Landry shifts focus to the spiritual readiness required for this season. He emphasizes the need for believers to be prepared for the Bridegroom's return, aligning their lives with God's timing. "Sukkot is all about preparation," he says, referring to the Feast of Tabernacles. "It's a reminder that we must have our oil lamps full and be ready for the wedding feast." For Landry, this preparation goes beyond ritual and speaks to the heart of a believer's relationship with God.

Encouraging his audience with biblical truth and promises, Landry reminds listeners of their identity in Christ, stressing that they are not defined by their failures or worldly accomplishments. "Your identity is as a king and a priest in God's kingdom. That's who you are, and that's where your authority lies," he says. "This is your season to step into that role fully, knowing that God has already anointed you for what's ahead."

Perry Stone Warns: This Could Lead Christians to Hell

The prophetic insights Amanda Grace shares several months before the Hamas attack also focus on the spiritual and existential battle Israel faces. She emphasizes, "The Lord has brought Benjamin Netanyahu back for this time... because he is the ox that is going to be yoked by God to be used." Netanyahu's leadership is being tested as Israel prepares for what could be a prolonged conflict.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

Grace warns that Iran's ambitions, fueled by Chinese support, will lead to a larger conflict: "Watch for the largest attack in Iran to ever happen in this season. So I would watch for that, and what's going to happen with that." Her words resonate as Israel contemplates a potential preemptive strike against Iran's nuclear and missile facilities, which could trigger an even greater regional war.

As these events unfold, Amanda Grace calls for prayers for Israel, urging believers to "pray for the peace of Israel" and for wisdom for its leaders.

"Pray for wisdom for Netanyahu... he has been given something very heavy and very difficult in this time and season by the Lord," she says. With Israel encircled by enemies, Grace's prophetic warnings serve as both a call to action and a reminder of the spiritual battle Israel faces in these perilous times.
