

Prepare for Simultaneous Revolutions in 2024

What does it say when the world's largest "conservative" news network openly practices the occult during its primetime television slot?

Well, it shows you the sad spiritual state that American conservatism is in.

In a recent Fox News primetime show, host Jesse Watters invited a medium to predict former President Donald Trump's chances for the presidency in 2024 using tarot cards. The segment drew criticism from Christian media for its promotion of occult practices and mediums, which the Bible warns against.

In Deuteronomy 18:10-12, it is stated, "There must not be found among you anyone who makes his son or his daughter pass through the fire, or who uses divination, or uses witchcraft, or an interpreter of omens, or a sorcerer, or one who casts spells, or a spiritualist, or an occultist, or a necromancer. For all that do these things are an abomination to the Lord, and because of these abominations the Lord your God will drive them out from before you."

The use of mediums, fortune-telling and mysticism is not only condemned in the Bible but also considered spiritually harmful to those who practice or engage with these occult practices.

During the segment, psychic Paula Roberts drew a tarot card for Trump that she interpreted as a sense of loss for the former president. However, the Bible warns that seeking guidance from mediums and fortune-tellers can lead to deception and spiritual harm.

In 1 Samuel 28, King Saul sought guidance from the medium of Endor, and the consequences were severe. The Lord's anger was kindled against him, and he was ultimately rejected as king. This story serves as a cautionary tale for those who seek guidance from occult practices.

Roberts continued with her tarot reading with cards for President Joe Biden, which showed him receiving a sum of money far more than he was used to. When Watters asked if the money was from China, alluding to Trump accusing Biden of receiving "a billion-five" from China without evidence, Roberts playfully responded, "You're cheeky. I didn't say from where." The medium also made a prediction for Watters, stating that he would have another child in 2024.

The Bible encourages believers to seek guidance from the Lord and to trust in His wisdom and guidance. Proverbs 3:5-6 states, "Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding; in all your ways submit to him, and he will make your paths straight."

The promotion of occult practices on mainstream media is a major cause for concern, as it can lead people astray and away from the truth of Jesus Christ. Christians are called to engage in spiritual warfare against such practices and to proclaim the truth of the gospel.

As America continues to be "drenched" in the occult and witchcraft, it is crucial for Christians to stand firm in their faith and to be a light in the darkness. By sharing the love of Jesus and the truth of the gospel, believers can counteract the influence of the occult and lead others to a relationship with Christ.

IHOPKC Sees More Leadership Stepping Down

In the past week, several major earthquakes have struck various parts of the world, leaving a trail of destruction and devastation in their wake.

From the powerful tremors in Japan that claimed numerous lives and destroyed homes, to the quakes felt in Los Angeles, New York and India, the Earth has shown its immense power and unpredictability. As these events continue to unfold, it is crucial for Christians to reflect on their faith and discern what these events might mean in regards to the end times.

A series of powerful earthquakes struck Japan's west coast on Jan. 1, 2024, causing widespread damage and loss of life. The largest of these was a magnitude 7.6 earthquake that hit near the city of Tokyo, killing at least 48 people and injuring hundreds more. The earthquake also triggered a tsunami warning and caused widespread power outages.

A magnitude 4.1 earthquake off the Los Angeles County coast caused weak shaking throughout Southern California on Monday, with residents in Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties reporting the tremors to the U.S. Geological Survey's Did You Feel It? website.

Despite being felt by several people during the Rose Parade in Pasadena, no injuries or damage were reported, and the Modified Mercalli Intensity Scale classified the shaking as noticeable indoors and causing slight rocking of standing motor vehicles.

A 1.7 magnitude earthquake struck near Astoria, Queens, on Tuesday morning, causing a series of small explosions that knocked out power and jolted residents awake in Roosevelt Island, Queens, and the Upper East Side.

The United States Geological Survey reported the earthquake at 5:45 a.m., which coincided with the time calls began to come in from the affected areas. Despite the loud noise and shaking felt by residents, no injuries or damage were reported in New York City.

Two earthquakes of magnitude 3.9 on the Richter scale have struck Jammu and Kashmir, a disputed region between Pakistan, India and China, with the latest on Jan. 4, as reported by the National Center for Seismology (NSC). The first earthquake occurred on Jan. 2, and the second on Dec. 30 in Kupwara, with both events having a depth of five kilometers below the surface. Despite the tremors, there have been no reports of damage, according to the National Centre of Seismology.

The Bible speaks of earthquakes as signs of the end times, often associated with God's judgment or the return of Jesus Christ. In Matthew 24:7, Jesus says, "For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. There will be famines, epidemics and earthquakes in various places."

In light of the increase in this type of activity, Christians should be discerning about what is taking place on the Earth during the end times. While earthquakes and other natural disasters can be seen as signs of the end times, they can also be seen as natural events that occur as a result of the Earth's geological processes.

Christians are called to remain steadfast in their faith and mission, even as we witness the events of the end times unfolding around us. While it is important to be aware of the signs and prophecies, believers must not lose sight of the Great Commission, which is to make disciples of all nations (Matt. 28:19-20). Jesus Himself instructed His followers to focus on spreading the gospel and preparing for His return, rather than getting caught up in speculation and fear. In this way, we can continue to live out our faith with purpose and hope, even in the midst of uncertain times.

US-Israel Relations Suffering Under Unbiblical Leadership

American atheists are urging non-believers to vote against Christians in the coming election cycle, claiming that their survival is at stake.

Atheist Revolution, a prominent atheist organization, asserts that non-Christians should have the highest voter turnout as they have the most to lose when so-called "Christian extremists" gain power.

The organization argues that extremists who call themselves Christians, such as Nick Fuentes, want the death penalty for non-Christians, and that this is not a secret. They emphasize that ignoring the threat could be dangerous and that non-believers should keep this in mind.

“This isn’t a secret. We ignore the threat at our own peril,” the Atheist Revolution website says. “We should keep it in mind when we aren’t excited about any of our local, state and federal candidates.”

“If we need a reason to go to the polls, this could be it,” the site adds.

Atheists are encouraged to vote to prevent the world envisioned by Christian extremists and to ensure their survival. The organization stresses that this is not about upholding abstract principles but about self-preservation.

The call to action by Atheist Revolution highlights the perceived threat of Christian extremism to non-believers in America. However, it is essential to note that the large majority of those who say they are Christian do not hold extremist views, and instead promote peace, love and salvation in Jesus Christ.

This call to action by an atheist group demonstrates the growing divide between religious and non-religious communities.

The Bible teaches that Christians are called to live peacefully and respectfully with others, even in the face of persecution:

- 1 Peter 3:15-16: “But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts. Always be ready to give an answer to every man who asks you for a reason for the hope that is in you, with gentleness and fear. Have a good conscience so that evildoers who speak evil of you and falsely accuse your good conduct in Christ may be ashamed.”

- Romans 12:18: ” If it is possible, as much as it depends on you, live peaceably with all men.”
- Matthew 5:43-44: “You have heard that it was said, ‘You shall love your neighbor[a] and hate your enemy.’ But I say to you, love your enemies, bless those who curse you, do good to those who hate you, and pray for those who spitefully use you and persecute you.”

These verses emphasize the importance of responding to persecution with love, gentleness and respect. Christians should strive to live in peace with others and be prepared to give a reason for their faith with gentleness and kindness.

While the call to action by Atheist Revolution highlights the continued attack on and misrepresentation of Christianity in America, it is important for Christians to respond in a way that aligns with biblical teachings.

U.S. District Judge Orders Kim Davis to Pay $260,000 in Legal Fees

Reverend Dr. Donald Ellis Wildmon, the influential founder of the American Family Association, passed away on Thursday, Dec. 28, 2023, in Tupelo, Mississippi. He was 85. Wildmon battled Lewy Body Dementia courageously until the end, leaving behind a legacy of pro-family advocacy and Christian leadership.

Wildmon's journey into activism began in 1977 when he, a pastor and father of four, took a stand against unbiblical content on television. His call to his family and congregation in Southaven, Mississippi, to turn off their television sets for a week gained local attention and soon captured the nation's focus.

The American Family Association, birthed from Wildmon's vision, became a powerful force addressing issues such as life, marriage, family and religious freedom. Under Wildmon's guidance, AFA successfully spearheaded campaigns that influenced major corporate sponsors to distance themselves from explicit programming, prompting changes in their advertising policies.

The impact of Wildmon's efforts extended beyond campaigns, as AFA became a prominent pro-family resource, including the establishment of the American Family Radio network in 1991, growing rapidly to encompass 200 stations. Today, AFA continues its mission under the leadership of President Tim Wildmon, the son of the late founder.

AFA President Tim Wildmon reflected on his father's legacy, stating, "My father was a man with great conviction and vision. He knew how important it was for Christians to remain firmly entrenched in their faith in the face of an openly immoral society, and he lived his life for the gospel every single day."

Governor Tate Reeves of Mississippi acknowledged Wildmon's impact, praising his "impressive legacy of Christian ministry," predicting it would endure for years to come.

Tony Perkins, President of the Family Research Council, paid tribute to Wildmon in a post on X, noting his remarkable impact on cultural forces. Perkins stated, “Don was a remarkable man who I had the privilege of working very closely with during my first decade at FRC. Don had the true heart of a servant.”

My thoughts and prayers are with Don Wildmon's family as he went to be with the Lord this morning. Don was a remarkable man who I had the privilege of working very closely with during my first decade at FRC. Don had the true heart of a servant. He wasn't fazed by criticism...

– Tony Perkins (@tperkins) December 28, 2023

Wildmon is survived by his wife, Lynda, four children, six grandchildren, 11 great-grandchildren, one sister, one sister-in-law and one brother-in-law. His commitment to Christian values and pro-family advocacy leaves an indelible mark on American society, and his memory will be cherished by those who knew him.

Pastor Accused of Trying to Push McDonald's Cook Into

Deep Fryer

As we enter the new year, renowned evangelist Mario Murillo has shared a powerful prophetic word for 2024, emphasizing the need for Christians to be discerning in the face of false prophets and to strengthen themselves in the Lord.

Drawing from his extensive experience in ministry holding massive tent crusades and his unwavering dedication to the gospel, Murillo's message is both timely and essential for believers navigating the spiritual landscape of the coming year.

In a recent interview with Charisma News, Murillo expressed his concern for the growing presence of false prophets in the Christian community, stating, "There are many voices out there right now that are not trustworthy.

"People feel that. They feel a distinct sense that, 'Why is this person saying this about the future?' Is it for money? Is it to titillate the audience? Is it to join the long train of fascination now with the prophetic or why is he speaking this?"

Murillo has been declaring for some time now that Christians need to be able to discern false prophets and prophecy from what the Lord is speaking through people. This discernment will only come through biblical literacy and a deeper relationship with Jesus Christ.

Looking toward the upcoming year, Murillo warns that there is one particular group in society that Christians need to be aware of.

"There is one thing to bear in mind: the left is going to behave like a wounded animal," Murillo says.

"You have to see that they've been cornered. Their escapades, their extremes, they're overreaches in government are all coming back to haunt them now. And the American voter sees blood in the water, and they're going to make them pay."

The last few years have seen an aggressive and radical left push anti-God policies and people into authority in America, and more than a few Christian leaders, politicians and business owners have caved to the pressure.

In 2024 however, Murillo believes it is going to take Christians of strength to stand against the wiles of the enemy.

"Recent events tell me that the strong Christian is the Christian of the future," Murillo reveals. "We have talked about the blessed Christian, the prospered Christian, the grace-forgiven Christian, and all of those things are valid and true. But we've entered a new season. And that is where the word 'strength' is going to matter.

"And the Bible says in Ephesians, be strong in the Lord. And in the power of His mind. In 2024, we got to dig in our roots, we have to reassess our priorities. We've got to sit down and let God have time to shape us into something," Murillo says.

The Bible offers a wealth of guidance for Christians seeking to strengthen themselves in the Lord. By following the teachings of Jesus and the apostles, believers can deepen their faith and develop a closer relationship with God. Through prayer, reading and meditating on the Scriptures, and fellowship with other believers, Christians can cultivate spiritual growth and become more resilient in the face of challenges.

As we look to the future, let us remember the words of the apostle Paul in Philippians 4:13, "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me." By continually seeking God's guidance and relying on His strength, we can face the trials of the world with courage and hope. May we all strive to strengthen ourselves in the Lord, and in so doing, become a light to others and bring glory to His name.
