

Trump Pledges to Combat 'Anti-Christian Bias' in Second Term

In a recent Charisma News interview with Bishop Alan DiDio, he shared his prophetic insights for the year 2024. Drawing from biblical passages and current events, he discussed several key themes that believers should be aware of as they prepare for the future.

Bishop DiDio began by emphasizing the importance of being spiritually prepared for the coming years, as he believes that 2024 will bring both war and turmoil. He urged Christians to become intentional in their preparations, not just relying on hearing a message or sermon but actively engaging in spiritual growth and stewardship.

"I'm talking about intentional preparedness," explains DiDio. "A lot of times, when Christians hear something, because they heard it they think they did it. Because we hear a sermon on evangelism, we felt like we did evangelism because we said 'amen' and we gave in the offering. But that is not sufficient. You must become an evangelist. You must minister the gospel."

One of the most significant issues Bishop DiDio highlighted is the "Cold Civil War" within the body of Christ. He sees a division between the "House of David" and the "House of Saul," which may become more apparent in 2024. He believes that this division is a spiritual parallel to the story of David and Saul in 1 Samuel 21. As believers, we must discern the times and make a conscious decision to stand on the side of David, walking in the new anointing of the Holy Spirit.

"I think people have sensed it, especially when we went into 2020,” DiDio says. “All of a sudden, people we thought were on the same side, they started to bifurcate and separate, and some bowed the knee in a sense to some of the political powers and suggestions that took place. As we go into 2024, it’s going to be on a wider scale.”

Bishop DiDio also discussed the changing of the guard within the church, as a new generation of voices rises to challenge the status quo. He pointed out that the political arena often mirrors these spiritual battles, and we should look to the natural world for signs of what is happening in the spiritual realm.

“There is coming in 2024, mega pastors, not all mega pastors [as] there are many wonderful mega pastors, but mega pastors who are more concerned about the crowd and appeasing the populace, than they are about speaking the prophetic Word of God,” DiDio says.

Another crucial aspect of Bishop DiDio’s message is the importance of Israel as God’s timepiece. He emphasized that we must pray for the peace of Jerusalem and the wholeness of Israel, not just for selfish reasons but as a way to align ourselves with God’s prophetic calendar. He also encouraged believers to share the gospel with the Jewish people, as the church must prioritize this mission once again.

“Israel is God’s timepiece. If we want to know what time it is on God’s prophetic calendar, we look to the nation of Israel, and what the attacks we see going against the nation of Israel, again, those outward natural attacks are [a] reflection of a spiritual battle that’s taking place,” DiDio shares.

Bishop DiDio also addressed the growing interest in eschatology among believers and warned against some of the strange end-time theories that have recently emerged. He stressed the importance of grounding ourselves in biblical prophecy and finding seasoned voices to guide us through these times.

“Now, I’ve never seen so many crazy end time theories, as I’m seeing right now, from the idea that Israel and the church have somehow merged, and that the Church has replaced Israel to the idea that there’s not going to be any actual literal reign of Christ, or a millennial reign of Christ, this this kind of foolishness that rises. I don’t blame the individuals, I often think they’re just simply repeating what they’ve learned or what they’ve been taught. And so it’s important that we find seasoned voices,” reveals DiDio.

Finally, Bishop DiDio shared his belief that we are currently in the Laodicean church, as described in Revelation chapter 3, the lukewarm church. He called for believers to repent and turn from their wicked ways, recognizing their need for God in preparation for the future.

“We’re on the verge of entering into Revelation chapter 4, but we’re in the midst of the Laodicean church, and God is calling us to repent, to turn from our wicked ways to recognize our need for Him. I think that’s where we are right now,” DiDio shares.

Bishop Alan DiDio’s prophetic insights for 2024 offer a unique perspective on the coming years, emphasizing the importance of spiritual preparation, discernment and a focus on Israel and the Jewish people. As believers, we must heed his call to remain grounded in biblical prophecy and to actively engage in our spiritual growth as we prepare for the challenges ahead.

American Icon Hulk Hogan Gets Baptized at 70

A post shared by Hulk Hogan (@hulkhogan)

Hogan expressed his joy and excitement on his social media, describing the day of his baptism as “the greatest day of my life.” He went on to say that his newfound dedication to Jesus has brought him a sense of peace and love, and that he no longer worries or holds any hate or judgment towards others.

The baptism was attended by his wife, Sky Daily Hogan, who was also baptized at the event. A video of the ceremony was shared by Hogan, giving his fans and followers a glimpse into the intimate moment.

Hogan’s journey to this point has been a long and winding one. In a previous post earlier this year, he shared that he had accepted Christ as his savior at age 14. However, it wasn’t until recently that he fully embraced his faith and allowed it to guide him in his daily life.

In the past, Hogan has shared Bible verses on his social media accounts and has even been seen wearing a T-shirt with the popular John 3:16 verse on it, which states: “For God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life.”

I accepted Christ as my savior at 14yrs old, and the training, prayers and vitamins kept me in the game but now that I am one with God, the main event theme of surrender, service and love makes me the Real Main Event that can slam any giant of any size through the power of my Lord...

Hogan joins a host of other celebrities who have faithfully pursued Jesus in 2023.

Recently, Latin megastar Daddy Yankee, whose real name is Ramón Luis Ayala Rodríguez, told his fans that he was leaving the spotlight to be an evangelist for Jesus Christ.

“All the tools that I have in my possession, such as music, social networks, platforms, a microphone—everything that Jesus gave me—is now for His kingdom,” declared Rodríguez.

Additionally, famous tattoo artist and reality series star Katherine Von Drachenberg, or Kat Von D, abandoned the occult and witchcraft in her life and turned instead to a life with Jesus.

Like Hogan, she posted a video of her baptism on social media and has since given several interviews discussing the spiritual oppression she had been suffering under and how free she now feels in her new life with Christ.

As one of the most recognizable figures in the world of professional wrestling, Hulk Hogan’s public declaration of faith serves as an inspiration to many of his fans and followers. It’s a powerful reminder that no matter where we come from or what we’ve been through, there is always the opportunity for spiritual growth and renewal.

Tucker Carlson Calls for

Moral Strength in America's Spiritual Battle

In a bold demonstration of unity, two prominent Christian pastors, Greg Locke and Dean Odle, have come together to reconcile their differences following a contentious debate on the topic of the Earth's shape. The debate, which took place on Dec. 2, 2023, at Global Vision Bible Church in Mount Juliet, Tennessee, saw Pastor Locke and Pastor Odle passionately arguing for their respective views on the matter.

Pastor Locke, who believes in a spherical Earth, and Pastor Odle, a proponent of the flat-Earth theory, engaged in a heated discussion that ultimately ended with an abrupt halt, police intervention and a shattered sense of unity. However, both pastors have since recognized the importance of putting their differences aside. Speaking at his church on Sunday, Dec. 17, Pastor Locke explained that he had reached out to Odle to address the debate.

"We're as guilty as anyone else, we've fought stupid battles. We fought one a couple weeks ago," Locke shared referring to the Shape of the Earth debate that took place.

Locke shared that the two had been in communication and that forgiveness had been granted by both sides, with Locke revealing he had apologized for "getting a little hot under the collar."

Odle confirmed that the two had discussed the events on a recent podcast, but said he hasn't addressed it publicly at church yet due to illness.

It is of utmost importance for Christians to live peaceably with one another and with others, even when they disagree. This is a core principle taught in the Bible, as seen in Romans 12:18, which states, "If it is possible, as much as it depends on you, live peaceably with all men."

The Bible emphasizes unity and love, as seen in 1 Corinthians 1:10, where it says, "Now I ask you, brothers, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that you all speak in agreement and that there be no divisions among you. But be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment." This unity allows Christians to work together in harmony, despite their differences, and is something for which all who declare Jesus as Lord must strive.

Franklin Graham Slams Pope Francis' Endorsement of Same-Sex Unions

The Vatican's Dicastery for the Doctrine of Faith issued a declaration titled "Fiducia Supplicans," which expands the understanding of blessings and allows for the possibility of blessing couples in irregular situations, including same-sex couples. The document states that a thorough moral analysis should not be a precondition for receiving a blessing and that individuals need not claim moral perfection to receive one.

For same-sex couples, the declaration explains that a blessing can be given as a “help from God” rather than a “legitimation” of their relationship. However, it also warns against promoting or creating a specific ritual for the blessing of couples in irregular situations.

In 2021, the same Vatican body stated that churches have no power to bless same-sex marriage since God “cannot bless sin.” While the Catholic Church officially teaches that same-sex attraction is not sinful, it considers homosexual acts to be so.

Last month, the Dicastery for the Doctrine of Faith also issued a guidance allowing people who have undergone trans surgical procedures or taken cross-sex hormones to be baptized, provided that there is no risk of causing public scandal or disorientation among the faithful.

As Christians, we are called to stand firm in our faith and uphold God’s righteousness. The Bible teaches us that we should love our neighbors as ourselves (Mark 12:31) and that all have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God (Rom. 3:23). However, we are also called to turn away from sin and follow God’s commandments (1 John 3:4).

As we navigate these complex issues, let us remember the words of the apostle Paul in Ephesians 4:15: “But speaking the truth in love, we are to grow up in all things into Him who is the head—Christ.” It is our duty to share God’s truth with love and compassion, while also standing firm in our convictions.

The recent developments in the Catholic Church regarding the blessing of same-sex couples have sparked a strong rebuke from Rev. Franklin Graham, and millions around the world, who warns of the potential consequences of these actions. As Christians, it is essential that we remain steadfast in our faith, love our neighbors and speak the truth in love, while also standing firm in our convictions and upholding God's righteousness.

New Legislation Targets Chick-fil-A Operations

The recent months have seen 2023 become a year of spiritual awakening for many well-known personalities in the entertainment industry. As the year began with a revival at Asbury University, the rest of the year saw an influx of celebrities from various fields leaving behind their fame and fortune to embrace a life devoted to Jesus Christ.

While some may argue that the personal lives of celebrities hold little importance, the impact of these influential individuals on the culture of America is undeniable. As Satan has long controlled the spiritual landscape of the country, the conversion of these celebrities to Christianity could potentially play a significant role in expanding the kingdom of God.

In sports, we have seen personalities like Jonathan Isaac and Christian McCaffrey openly speaking about their faith and being positive role models for the youth. McCaffrey's humility and dedication to giving honor and glory to God serve as a reminder to fans that success and fame are fleeting.

On the other hand, some celebrities use their influence to promote radical ideologies. Soccer star Megan Rapinoe, for example, declared her disbelief in God after suffering an injury during her final professional match. Her statement, however, only highlights the ignorance of her understanding of God's presence in the face of adversity.

One of the most prominent figures in the music industry, Taylor Swift, perhaps the largest name in the world outside of Donald Trump and Elon Musk, is known to incorporate occultic and New Age imagery in her music videos. This exposure to dangerous spiritual entities can have a profound impact on her millions of fans, desensitizing them to the spiritual effects of the occult and offending God in the process.

In contrast, we have seen celebrities like OnlyFans model Angela White (Blac Chyna), Daddy Yankee and Kat Von D turning away from their past lives and embracing Christianity. Daddy Yankee, a renowned Latin megastar, has acknowledged the importance of living a life with purpose rather than one of worldly success. Meanwhile, Kat Von D, a former occult practitioner, has shared her journey of being baptized and finding freedom from alcoholism and the negative effects of the occult in Jesus Christ.

These stories of transformation and redemption demonstrate the power of God's influence in the lives of people who once seemed lost to the world. As we move into 2024, it is our hope that more celebrities will turn to Christianity and use their influence to promote the principles and design of God in a society that is increasingly hostile to His ways.

The celebrity salvations of 2023 have shown that no one is beyond the reach of God's love and redemption. As Christians, it is our duty to pray that these individuals are discipled in their spiritual journey and to use their influence to further the kingdom of God.

The Prophetic Missing Link of the Sign of Christ's Return

In a remarkable story of survival and faith, a Tennessee family experienced a tornado that tore through their home, leaving them with only the clothes on their backs. However, their 4-month-old baby miraculously survived the ordeal after being swept away by the storm and was found in a nearby tree.

On Dec. 16, the EF-3 tornado struck Montgomery County, Tennessee, leaving six people dead and more than two dozen injured. Sydney Moore, her boyfriend and their two children were inside their home when the tornado hit. The tornado destroyed their mobile home and belongings, but the family's faith in God remained unshaken.

Recalling the terrifying event, Moore shared that something in her told her to protect her 1-year-old son by jumping on top of him. "The moment I jumped on him, the walls collapsed," she said. Her boyfriend could see the tornado engulf their home before it was ripped apart. The baby's bassinet was picked up by the tornado, and Moore's boyfriend lunged to rescue the baby, getting thrown out of the home along with the infant.

Despite the chaos, the family managed to escape from the debris and search for their baby, fearing the worst. After about 10 minutes of searching, they found the baby alive in a tree that had fallen in the rain. "I thought he was dead," Moore said. "I was pretty sure he was dead, and we weren't going to find him. But he's here, and that's by the grace of God."

Moore and her family were left with little to no personal belongings after the tragic incident, but the community has rallied to support the young couple and their children by providing them with formula, diapers and other necessities. The family is now searching for a new home, and a GoFundMe has been established by a family member to help them rebuild and buy necessary items for themselves and their children.

This incredible story of survival and community support reminds us of God's grace and the power of faith. As the Bible says in Psalm 46:1-2, "God is our refuge and strength, a well-proven help in trouble. Therefore we will not fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea" The Moore family's experience is a testament to the power of God's protection and the support of a loving community.
