Helpful or Heresy: New ‘AI Jesus’ Answers Life’s Great Problems

The spiritual drought affecting people’s lives has them looking for answers in all areas of life.

Now, an AI chatbot has been designed to study the teachings of Jesus and give advice to those who seek answers on the popular streaming platform Twitch.

The channel ask_jesus, is part of a group of AI streams put together by popular Belgian streamer Bachir “Athene” Boumaaza.

According to the description on the streams Twitch page, “The ask Jesus livestream is an experimental channel allowing viewers to ask questions to an AI trained after Jesus and the teachings of the Bible. Whether you’re seeking spiritual guidance, looking for a friend or simply want someone to talk to, you can join on the journey through life and discover the power of faith, hope and love.”

It specifically states that The Singularity Group, the organization responsible for the content based in Germany, is “not a Christian organization.”

“For a lot of people, the appeal of the Ask_Jesus stream is simply to see how far it can be pushed in terms of getting Jesus to answer the weirdest and silliest questions, because of course this can be hilarious,” The Singularity Group co-founder Reese Laysen told Fox News Digital via email.

So, this new tool now begs the question: Is this a legitimate tool of spreading the gospel using AI, or simply a farce that makes fun of the Christian religion under the guise of trying to help people?

“But we’ve also seen overwhelming response from people, Christian as well as non-Christian or non-religious, who genuinely find it inspiring and comforting,” Laysen continues. “It’s a very modern interpretation of Jesus that always provides wholesome and uplifting feedback, no matter the question.”

The new technology also highlights the absolute necessity for Christians to be firmly grounded and literate in the Bible.

In the case that the Singularity Group holds no ill intent on using a “Christ-like” AI chatbot to help people with questions in life, Satan will try and use this technology to deceive and lead people astray from the true Word of God.

Many faith leaders are weary of using AI due to the fact that man created it and it cannot replace a true, heartfelt relationship with Jesus, even if it is capable of teaching about Him.

Dr. James Spencer, president of D.L. Moody Center in Northfield, Massachusetts, said to Fox News Digital that “I have no doubt that artificial intelligence is (or will soon become) capable of conveying information about Jesus. Yet knowing Jesus isn’t simply a matter of knowing about Him—but of understanding how to relate to Him, privileging Him as the most prominent actor and factor in the situations we face, and possessing an experiential knowledge of Him cultivated through obedience.

“Jesus is alive. He doesn’t need AI to speak for Him,” Spencer adds.

“Christians are to demonstrate what it means to follow Jesus. We are His body in the world today. It is through the church—not some technology—that God’s manifold wisdom is demonstrated,” says Spencer. “There is no device that will make knowing Jesus simpler. We know Him as we walk with Him through the joys and challenges of life alongside others who have committed to follow Christ."

There is no closing the box on AI in the world. It is still in the early stages, and its capabilities are being experimented with in every facet of technology and society.

Christians must remain ahead of the progressing technology and how it is being utilized for both good and bad, not playing catchup as Christianity has been doing in the culture wars for decades now.

Knowing the Word of God and the teachings held within the pages of the Bible will help ensure any deception put forth by rising technologies is identified early. False teachings must be recognized and called out, preventing deceptions and the falling away of those who seek the answers which God provides in the Bible.

Billionaire CEO Declares Over America: 'We Are in a Spiritual War'

As cultural and societal shifts continue to occur at a rapid pace, many are calling out that the friction in American society is more than what it appears to the naked eye.

Fingers are constantly pointed at the surface level issues: economics, politics, education and many more, but there is a rising number of Americans saying the root of all of these issues lays in the spiritual realm.

Goya Foods CEO Bob Unanue believes that if America does not course correct and in fact elects Joe Biden to a second term as president, then the country will be lost.

“As a CEO, businessman, what’s happened in the last two years is a complete disaster,” Unanue told Fox’s “Mornings with Maria.”

“We’ve unraveled all the gains that were made. But I’m more here today as a Latino than as a business person. And when things get bad, we need an intervention. We need an intervention bad, or otherwise we’re going to lose this country, our morality,” Unanue says.

Unanue joins a growing list of Latino evangelicals such as Rev. Samuel Rodriguez and Evangelist Mario Murillo who believe God is going to use the community to bring about revival in a country that desperately needs it.

There is a growing clash among Hispanic communities of faith and the agenda being pushed by the Biden administration in regards to gender ideology and failed economic policies.

“Family is generally a priority among Hispanics,” says Dennis Rivera, director of the Office of Hispanic and Ethnic Relations for the Assemblies of God, “and relationships are far more important than schedules, which can then conflict somewhat with church activities as those activities need to be on some kind of a schedule.”

Meanwhile, California Democrats are seeking to push a bill that would allow the state to remove children from their homes if the parents do not “affirm” their gender, co-authored by California Sen. Scott Weiner, the same politician who attends heretical “hunky Jesus” performances and introduced SB 107 that made California a “refuge” for child sex changes.

“We are in a spiritual war,” Unanue says. “But this intervention is going to take place with the Holy Spirit.

Latinos, which will be the biggest group in this country by 2050 or by next week with this open border, hold the values of God, family, life, work. We are attacked."

"[Latinos] left countries with communism, with oppression where there's no freedom of speech, only to find that happening here," he continues. "We're in a country where we're attacking the children. Our children are under attack, and we need to heal."

Evangelist Mario Murillo is echoing these calls to repentance and allowing God to become center in American society once again, and that the Latino community is going to be used for God's glory.

"There is a major spiritual awakening going on," Murillo told Charisma News.

"There has become such a desperation now," Murillo continues. "In fact, I'm going to predict right here, right now, that the wave of revival in the Latin churches in America is going to end up being the most forceful spiritual awakening that we have. It will transcend anything else."

Murillo is one of many who believe that the abandonment of godly and biblical principles will bring about revival and repentance in America as people's eyes are opened to the spiritual battle taking place in the world.

"It's because there is a natural sense of family values in the Latin culture," Murillo says. "The fact that they are here … what the devil meant for evil, God is going to use to His advantage. Their Catholicism prewires them to believe in miracles.

"So, we do attend crusades in the Latin community. Wheelchairs are empty, blind eyes are opened; cancers vanish. People are healed because of their pre-wired faith in miracles."

At the rate America is descending into godless immorality at the hands of faithless leadership, God’s miracles of restoration cannot come soon enough.

SBC Votes to Uphold Removal of Saddleback Church

The Southern Baptist Convention voted to uphold the previous decision to remove Saddleback Church from the denomination at their annual meeting.

The California megachurch founded by Rick Warren was removed for the appointment of female pastors, a stance and practice the SBC rejects.

According to reports, the representatives attending the conference in New Orleans voted in overwhelming numbers to affirm the removal of Saddleback, 9,437 votes (%) to 1,212 votes (%), as well as Fern Creek Baptist Church of Louisville, Kentucky, (9,700 to 806) and Freedom Church of Vero Beach, Florida, (9,984 to 343).

The SBC is the largest Protestant denomination in the U.S., even after losing large swaths of congregants from its fold over the last few scandal-ridden years.

The decision to remove Saddleback came back in February and the megachurch has since doubled down on their stance on female pastors by appointing new Lead Pastor Andie Wood’s wife, Stacie, to role of “teaching pastor.”

According to the Baptist Press, “Saddleback Church was deemed not to be in friendly cooperation with the Southern Baptist Convention's statement of faith, the Baptist Faith and Message 2000, due to the church continuing to have a female teaching pastor functioning in the office of a pastor."

Yet it has been Warren and his immense influence and presence when it comes to the challenging of the SBC's executive committee's initial decision.

Appealing to the members at the Annual Meeting, Warren implored them not to go through with these expulsions and to follow in similar fashion when the SBC did not disassociate from the churches who held onto Calvinist doctrines.

"We should remove churches for all kinds of sexual sins, racial sin, financial sin, leadership sin, sins that harm the testimony of our convention," Warren said. "But the 1,129 churches with women on pastoral staff have not sinned."

Warren says studying the Great Commission was one of the driving factors for his change of heart when it came to ordaining women pastors.

"There are four verbs in the Great Commission: 'go,' 'make disciples,' 'baptize' and 'teach," Warren says. "Women are to go. Women are to make disciples. Women are to baptize and woman are to teach, not just men. This is one of the reasons why Saddleback Church has baptized more people than any church in American history—57,000 baptisms in 43 years. Anybody can baptize anybody that they led to Christ."

The SBC however has not had such a change of theological interpretation.

Speaking in favor of upholding the expulsion, president of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary Albert Mohler says he believes that Saddleback's actions represented a threat to the unity of the entire SBC:

“It’s not just a matter of church polity; it’s not just a matter of hermeneutics,” Mohler argued. “It’s a matter of biblical commitment, a commitment to the Scripture that unequivocally we believe limits the office of pastor to men.

“Here we face the unusual situation in which Dr. Warren himself has made repeated statements, and the church has taken repeated actions that make very clear it rejects the confessional understanding of the Southern Baptist Convention on this issue,” Mohler adds.

Section six of the SBC’s Baptism and Faith Message discusses the role of the church, which reads: “While both men and women are gifted for service in the church, the office of pastor is limited to men as qualified by Scripture.”

Judging by the great disparity in the votes to uphold Saddleback’s, Fern Creek Baptist’s and Freedom Church’s expulsions, they do not plan on changing that interpretation anytime soon.

The White House Ushered in the Age of Apostasy to America

God never abandoned Israel while her people were choosing to worship the Baal’s and the Ashtoreth’s instead of He who brought them out of Egypt.

The Lord sent prophet after prophet to warn them of their sin and to repent of the path they had chosen, instead of staying true to His will and commandments.

America is walking an identical path of ancient Israel, without the covering of being God's chosen people.

While the United States was founded upon the Judeo-Christian values found in the Bible, she has since been led astray from those beliefs and commandments, and at no time was that as evident as this past weekend.

On Saturday, June 10, 2023, the Biden administration held a "Pride" event in honor of the LGBTQ community and the radical gender ideologies that have swept across the nation.

Front and center of the event was the "Pride" flag, hanging on display from the White House itself. Flanked on either side of the standard was the U.S. flag.

While this action in and of itself is an actual violation of the flag code on the week of Flag Day 2023 (June 14th), and which many across the nation have decried because the U.S. flag does not get placed in a subservient position to any flag, it also ushered in a spiritual welcoming to the demonic forces plaguing American society today.

Actions have consequences, and as the leadership of the United States, the Biden administration has given place to the spiritual entities and principalities that led Israel down the road to ruin.

These spirits now have a spiritual right to the heart of America. They were invited in, and have taken up residence within the halls of the U.S. government.

This is not hyperbole or dramatization, but a real-life scenario that is taking place which the Bible warns about often. Things have become so bad in American society that non-Christians are seeing and calling out the evil taking place within the country’s borders.

Children are being mutilated in the name of compassion; God is being removed from every corner of the public square to usher in a secular state where government is the new god; and rebellion against God’s design and will for humanity is running rampant.

Do Christians not expect God’s judgement to eventually fall upon this nation?

Enormous blessings were heaped upon America for being a beacon of freedom and godly principles over the course of her existence. These blessings led to the U.S. eventually becoming the most powerful nation the world has ever seen. But when much is given by the Lord, much is also expected.

Paul lived an exemplary life as someone who found salvation in Jesus Christ after living in sin and repenting. Much was expected of Paul, and while he was by no means perfect, he never stopped seeking first the kingdom of God and His righteousness.

Likewise, Christians in America are not to simply roll over and allow Satan to take over the country. They must engage in spiritual warfare against the true enemies of God: the principalities, powers and rulers of darkness (Eph. 6:12).

The people living under the LGBTQ lifestyle are not the enemy. They are who Jesus wants the truth of His sacrifice and Resurrection to be told to. He died for them, just as He died for every human in existence to have the opportunity to repent of their sin and realize their one, true identity in Him.

This submission to demonic spirits by the U.S. government must be a call to action for Christians in America. Believes across the land must take up the call within the Word of God and be empowered by the same Holy Spirit who fell upon the believers of the early church and who went on to fundamentally alter the course of human history.

If not, the governments of the world will only become more corrupt and hostile toward the Word of God, and His faithful.

There will come a day of choosing for humanity, either God or the world. As Paul wrote in 1 Corinthians 10:21, “You cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of demons. You cannot be partakers of the Lord’s table and of the table of demons.” A side must be chosen.

Choosing to submit to the Lord and His ways is the only way toward everlasting life. In doing so, make sure to take up the full armor of God (Eph. 6:10-18) because as Americans are witnessing on a daily basis across their country, the enemy is going to throw everything he has to get Christians to back down and become a non-threat in the spiritual battle for the heart and soul of their country.

WEF Official Calls for AI to Re-Write the Bible ‘Correctly’
