

Joyce Meyer: 5 Ways to De-Stress Your Life

Our society tells us we have to be constantly working, striving and doing in order to find value. That can easily cause burnout and stress. But Joyce Meyer says, “No matter what’s going on in our circumstances, we can maintain a quiet heart.” Find out how.

Why Single Women Should Stop Saying They’re Dating Jesus

Many potential suitors have been rejected with the phrase, “Sorry, but I’m dating Jesus.” But John Crist points out why this phrase is hilariously off-base—and needs to go.

Kari Jobe’s Live ‘Forever’ Performance Inspires One Man to Share His Incredible

Testimony

Kari Jobe's live performance of "Forever" is incredible by itself. But at the six-minute mark, her worship inspires one man to come on-stage and share his testimony before thousands. Prepare for chills.

Millennial Pastor: 3 Ways Churches Can Promote Racial Unity in Their Communities

In this eye-opening sermon, pastor and rapper Trip Lee, also known as Trip Barefield, shares why churches must be leaders for racial justice in their communities. He says, "Our end goal is not just getting black people and white people in the same building. Jay-Z can do that. Our goal is to proclaim the peace and unity that Jesus has already accomplished at the cross and to proclaim that and to call all different kinds of people into that peace."

How Believers Brought Hope

and Healing to the Victims of the Manchester Bombing

On May 22, 2017, 22 people were killed by a suicide bomber in Manchester, England. More than 50 others were injured. But the Billy Graham Rapid Response Team Chaplains were there to provide help and hope to the hurting.

Hit Song Reminds Believers to Keep Eternal Perspective Through ‘Hills and Valleys’

You may have heard Tauren Wells’ “Hills and Valleys” on your local Christian radio station. But for the music video, Wells stripped the song down to just strings and a piano so that viewers can focus in on the lyrics: “No matter where I am, I’m standing in Your love.”

The Spirit Took Over This Spontaneous Worship

Session—and the Result Is Anointed

Housefires is the band that first wrote worship megahit “Good Good Father”—and now they’re at it again. The band was performing in concert when the Holy Spirit intervened and inspired a spontaneous song. Watch the video to see what happened next.

Is ‘Cars 3’ Safe for the Whole Family?

Cars 3 is now out in theaters—and if you’re a parent with small children, they’re probably already begging to go see it. But is Pixar’s latest film safe for the whole family? Movieguide explains.

This One Trait Proves Which Leaders Are Truly Spirit-Led

Effective leaders love the people they lead. The essence of leadership is spiritual leadership. Whether you’re leading your team to produce, your home to flourish or your relationships to improve, lead in the Spirit always. Lead with love. Download a free book sample at .

This 1986 Message by Billy Graham Is Just as Relevant for America Today

Times change. People change. But the gospel never changes. Watch this 1986 message by Billy Graham about the power of salvation. You'll get chills watching "America's Pastor" in his prime.