

A Warning to the Church of England

With all respect to the responsibilities carried by the leadership of the Church of England, and in recognition of the history of this branch of the universal body, I make this heartfelt appeal.

Just as Elijah the prophet urged the people of Israel to stop wavering between two opinions, I urge you to stop wavering between the Word of God and the spirit of this age. As Elijah said, "If Yahweh is God, serve Him. If Baal is God, serve him." (1 Kings 18:21) It can only be one or the other.

Your current decision to "bless" same-sex unions while at the same time forbidding your churches from hosting same-sex weddings is not just a deep and fundamental departure from the biblical faith. It is also a hopeless compromise, seeking to play both ends against the middle in a way that can only frustrate, if not infuriate, the principal parties involved.

How can you bless something that you will not sanctify? How can you invoke God's favor on something at which you cannot officiate? How can you claim to uphold the church's historic definition of marriage if men or women involved in same-sex relationships can receive "prayers for God's blessing"? And how can you "apologize for the ways in which the Church of England has treated LGBTQ people—both those who worship in our churches and those who do not" while barring same-sex weddings from your churches?

How can you repent to the LGBTQ community "for the times we have rejected or excluded you, and those you love" and lament for "the occasions on which you have received a hostile and homophobic response in our churches are shameful and for this we repent," while allowing your clergy to refuse to bless same-sex unions, at their discretion?

This is as hypocritical as it is self-contradictory. Why not simply come out and say, "Our views are changing and we are well on our way to fully embracing practicing 'gay Christians'?" Why the wavering?

In 2017 Archbishop of Canterbury Justin Welby, said, "I am having to struggle to be faithful to the tradition, faithful to the Scripture, to understand what the call and will of God is in the 21st century and to respond appropriately with an answer for all people ... that covers both sides of the argument. And I haven't got a good answer, and I am not doing that bit of work as well as I would like."

All of us who love God and who love our LGBTQ neighbors understand this tension. We want to affirm the wisdom of Scripture while at the same time affirming our LGBTQ friends and family who want to be part of the church.

But there is no answer that "covers both sides of the argument," which is why Archbishop Welby doesn't have "a good answer."

You must either stand with God's definition of marriage and lovingly call your LGBTQ parishioners to new life in Jesus, or you must rewrite the Bible and redefine marriage. You cannot do both.

As Jacob (James) stated in another context, "From the same mouth come blessing and cursing. My brothers, these things ought not to be so. Does a spring pour forth from the same opening both fresh and salt water? Can a fig tree, my brothers, bear olives, or a grapevine produce figs? Neither can a salt pond yield fresh water" (James 3:10-12).

Do you believe that homosexual practice is sinful, even in the context of a committed, loving relationship? Then you cannot invoke divine blessings on such relationships. Surely God does not bless what He does not approve.

Do you believe homosexual practice is perfectly acceptable in the context of committed same-sex relationships? Then you should openly celebrate gay weddings, joyfully officiating at such events and hosting them in your churches. After all, you stated that, "We have not loved you as God loves you, and that is profoundly wrong. We affirm, publicly and unequivocally, that LGBTQ people are welcome and valued: we are all children of God." Then why the unequal treatment?

Your current decision simply anticipates the conclusion to which you will eventually come, namely, the full approval and sanctioning of "Christian" homosexuality. At that point, most all of the conservatives you have tried to retain will have left, your numbers will have dwindled even further and your most passionate, biblically-committed believers will have formed vibrant congregations of their own.

Barring a massive revival and awakening in the Church of England, this is where you will end up. The trajectory is clear for all to see, as further evidenced by your consideration of using gender-neutral language for God.

Why not hasten the process by putting all your cards on the table? Why not push through this intermediate, faux compromise stage with a definitive same-sex endorsement? Why play this game of theological semantics and engage in such a counsel of despair? To what purpose?

Your current strategy is not irenic, even if it intends to be. It is not bridge-building. It is not conciliatory. To the contrary, it is confused at best and cowardly at worst. It is anything but Christlike.

Jesus spoke and acted decisively, perfectly uniting grace and truth. As leaders in the church and shepherds of the flock, you must do the same.

In 1944, Rev. Peter Marshall declared, "Surely the time has come, because the hour is late, when we must decide. And the choice before us is plain—Yahweh or Baal. Christ or chaos. Conviction or compromise. Discipline or disintegration."

- ✘ That choice is just as clear today for the Church of England.

Will you uphold the plain teaching of Scripture and the historic doctrine of the Church, namely, that all same-sex relationships, no matter how loving, are sinful in God's eyes? Or will you fully embrace and endorse these relationships as holy, not only blessing them but performing same-sex wedding ceremonies in your church buildings? What will it be?

I appeal to you to choose this day whom you will serve. It is either the Lord or the spirit of the age. It cannot be both.

Super Bowl Winning Kicker: 'I Know I'm a Child of God'

Kansas City Chiefs kicker Harrison Butker is giving God all the glory after booting the winning field goal that secured his team's 38-35 win against the Philadelphia Eagles during Sunday's Super Bowl LVII.

Butker said during a postgame press conference it's essential for players to hit the field and focus on what they can control.

"I kind of had the easy job there," he said. "Offensive line did a great job blocking, great snap, great hold and thankfully the ball went through, and all glory to God."

Butker also spoke with Sports Spectrum's Jason Romano, sharing the importance of faith and prayer in his life. The star player said it was a "blessing" to be at the Super Bowl a third time in four years, and said he is resolute about putting first things first.

"It's the most important thing," he said of his Christian faith, adding he knows his identity can't be placed in football and must come from the Lord. "If I didn't have faith in God, I don't think I'd be the father I am, the husband I am, the kicker I am. That kind of sets a tone for everything gives me the strength to go do everything I need to."

 Butker added, "I know I'm a child of God."

Chiefs linebacker Nick Bolton also shared in a postgame presser a dream he had a few nights before the Super Bowl—a vision that came to full fruition during the game when he scooped up a fumble and made it 36 yards to score a touchdown.

Asbury Revival: Will Believers Recognize Its Legitimacy?

The Asbury University newspaper reads: "Very few seats remain empty, but people crowd the walls, the floor and the balcony. It's been almost 60 hours since a pure Holy Spirit revival broke out."

Others declare they have never seen the student chapel with so many people. It started in a normal chapel service where there was a confession of sin by a student and 30 people stayed behind to seek God.

As we browse social media and look up hashtags such as #asburyrevival, one cannot miss all the criticisms, judgments and doubts of what is happening. The critical voices seem to be very loud shouting over some of the rejoicing by others.

The services have not been four or five hours long, but virtually non-stop for the last 60-plus hours. Some are decrying "emotionalism." This sort of thing is not just breaking the mold, but making a lot of people feel uncomfortable or convicted!

If we consider revival history, there has always been the unusual. God has worked in ways that broke the molds of those days. Many times, the strange things God required of some of those used in revival turned away others because they appeared too extreme.

Often, the generation after a revival sought to "sanitize" revival and the radical things God did. Rather it is best to let God be God and to try not to explain away everything or discard what was seemingly extreme.

We doubt moves of God for many reasons:

1. We can doubt a move of God when it goes beyond our ability or experience. When God called Moses or any other person by faith, it went against natural reason and ability of the individual. If God's call can be accomplished in our own energy it's not a call from God. Revival always empowers believers to do what they cannot accomplish on their own.

God's work always requires God's strength to accomplish it. The Bible says whatever is not done in "faith" is actually sin. If we are not acting in ways beyond our strength and ability we are not acting in faith.

When God is doing a work by His Spirit, we need to tread carefully, examining the fruit by His Word. God will not act contrary to His written Word but neither will He act in-line with our preferences, to please our carnal minds or appetites. We pray like this: "God send revival but just do it when we want and how we want it!" Words like that don't fall from our lips, but that is what is in our hearts.

2. We can doubt a move of God when it goes against our rational mind. We can fall into the danger of making a concept of a move of God in our own imaginations and not according to what the Spirit of God desires.

One way we can position ourselves is by humbly praying: "God please send revival; do it how You want; when You want; in whatever way You want; with whomever You want." Or, at the very least, we can come to God asking Him to bend our wills to His own so we will think and pray according to His will.

Revival is considered too loud or emotional by some. Sometimes revival breaks a traditional mold that has been in place for many years. God starts to run the church in the way He desires, not in ways that we find acceptable or comfortable.

3. We can doubt a move of God when it is something new. Early in his ministry, John Wesley came to a place of “doubting” the work of God in their midst. He was later part of the great Methodist Revival in England.

In his journal we read, “Sat. 16: We met at Fetter-lane, to humble ourselves before God, and own He had justly withdrawn His Spirit from us, for our manifold unfaithfulness. We acknowledged our having grieved Him by our divisions and above all, by blaspheming His work among us, imputing it either to nature, to the force of imagination and animal spirits or even to the delusion of the devil.”

The work of God was so powerful and “new” in a sense he doubted this could be God at work. In the end, they sought God and came into a renewed sense of His presence.

We read again in his journal, “In that hour, we found God with us as at the first. Some fell prostrate upon the ground. Others burst out, as with one consent, into loud praise and thanksgiving. And many openly testified, there had been no such day as this since January the first preceding.”

God had mercy on Wesley and the move of God continued. We can abort or lose revival and God’s call even on our lives as leaders.

- ☒ If the presence of God is not with us, are we grieving Him? May we humble ourselves in pursuing Him in first love again.

God can have mercy and help you not to miscarry revival or fall short of God’s purposes.

Is God sending revival to Asbury College in Wilmore, Kentucky? At the very least we know there are “mercy drops” where we not personally doubt, grieve or criticize Gods work. {eoa}

Are You Up Against a Generational Curse?

This article first appeared on Curt Landry Ministries.

**Note: This is the second of a two-part series.*

We all battle different things in the spiritual realm. But many of us battle things that have been passed down through our family lines—generational curses. So then, how do we know if we are up against a generational curse in the spirit?

Join Rabbi Curt Landry as he walks you through a series of questions to help you identify if you are up against a generational curse.

1. Get a pen and paper
2. Go through these 10 questions with Rabbi Curt Landry
3. Get the key to breaking free

God's Word says He has given you a purpose and calling. He has equipped you with the Holy Spirit's power to battle every spiritual battle. He gives you wisdom, discernment and vision.

Jesus came to reverse the curse. Start by identifying them and then give them to Jesus!

Identifying Generational Curses

6. Do you question a call or you're calling or your direction that once was discernible?

Yes or no?

When you first came to the Lord in the early years, you were focused on your first love for Him and your purpose and direction. Have you lost this focus? Just rate it 1 through 10.

7. Am I lured into areas of previous bondage?

Yes or no? So, are you battling things again and again? Let's say you may have had a struggle with some kind of addiction or something, and now you find yourself battling back into it. Yes or no? Rate it 1 through 10.

Often, when things from the past, things you've been delivered from, creep back in, it's because you haven't cut off the soul tie or generational curse completely. It's trying to reconnect (to grow back).

8. Am I tempted to quit personal assignments?

Yes or no? Then rate it 1 through 10. Are you at a place where you're weary, and you want to quit?

9. Do I battle mental, emotional or physical illness and fatigue?

Yes or no? Because emotional/physical fatigue (driven by hopelessness) is different than physical fatigue due to physical exertion. Let's say you're cutting wood. splitting logs, that's a different level of fatigue.

10. Do you feel guilty, shame, condemnation, loneliness, rejection or manifestation when emotional wounds are open?

So, how well are you responding when the enemy comes or situations come, and your buttons are pushed? Are you not responding? Do you have what I would call emotional intelligence, emotionally healed? You are healed or in the process of healing when buttons are pushed; though you don't like it, you are not emotionally moved. Are you at that place? Yes or no? One through 10.

Remember Your Identity in Yeshua

So, here's the key. You need to remember that God is giving you your identity in Yeshua, in Christ, in Jesus. That said, the enemy is always trying to lie to you and steal your identity. He wants you to think and obsesses about whatever you've been delivered from before you had the encounter with the Lord.

- Remembering His Word that says He has given you a purpose and a calling.
- Remember that the power within you equips you for every spiritual battle.
- Remember that the Holy Spirit will give you wisdom, discernment and vision and will battle for you.

Ask for What You Need! Claim God's Promises!

But you need to ask for what you need. That's what we're getting ready to do. You need to ask. The enemy wants you to doubt that you can't be freed, and he wants you to feel trapped, hopeless and aimless without purpose.

So, the key is to say, "Lord, I want the benefits." So, we're going to claim those benefits right now.

So, let's pray together.

“Father God, we come, and we lift up everyone reading these words this day. Lord, we have identified that we have symptoms of generational curses. That’s one of the first things. Lord, we admit we have symptoms of generational curses. None of us come from a perfect family, that’s for sure. Amen.”

This isn’t about being “good or bad.” We are simply rating these symptoms one through 10.

I’d say everybody at this stage of the game and these generations. We’re at level 10 of corruption with generational curses in our family. But we’re going to choose to collectively say today,

“Father God, in Yeshua’s name, I thank you, Lord, that Jesus came to reverse the curse in my life.”

Go ahead and just say that, “Jesus came to reverse the curse in my life, and because of that, I have the benefits of a peaceful mind. I have peace of mind.”

Go ahead and say, “I have peace of mind. Lord, I decree that I have the joy.”

You have to have it. You have to ask. I have not because I ask not.

“The joy of the Lord is my strength. I thank You, Lord, that I have spiritual strength because even as I listen and watch this podcast, I am feeding on the Word that shall not come back void. The Word became flesh and dwelt amongst us. Thank you, Lord, that prosperity and provision are mine. Even if I don’t have it today, I claim that I will have more than enough because I will be a tither. I will bring offerings to the Lord. Lord, Your Word says in Malachi 3 and 6, ‘I am the Lord. I do not change, and therefore, oh Jacob, you are not destroyed.’

“So, Lord, I decree and declare I am a tither, and I do bring offerings to the Lord, and because of that, You will provide, protect and give me favor. You'll rebuke the devourer for my sake, according to Your covenant promise in Malachi 3. Thank you, Lord, that I cut all soul ties with generational curses of financial attack and physical attack in my family line. I cancel and declare all relationship issues within my family of dysfunction are canceled. The soul tie is cut now. Lord, I thank You that all abuse and addiction to drugs, alcohol, sex, anger, violence and pride are cut off my family line in Yeshua's name. All spirits of divorce set in my family line, I cut that off. I cancel it in the Courts of Heaven this day, in Yeshua's name. All business bankruptcies, breakups, dysfunctions, robbing, cheating and stealing that come within my family line are canceled.

"I thank You, Lord, that we are a family, and in our family line, we will make our yes be yes, and our no's be no. Lord, all church issues of being, let's say, a church hopper or always having to constantly not be able to stay in fellowship is canceled, in Yeshua's name. Lord, I just thank You, for we identify this, and we pray Your Word, and we say, Lord God, You are the Lord of heaven and earth. You are the Alpha and the Omega. You are the great 'I Am.' You're the heavenly Father. The blood of Yeshua expunges my sin this day so that I can connect with You, my heavenly Father. You are complete and cannot lie to me. Thank you, Lord. You are faithful and trustworthy. Your Spirit strengthens and empowers me this day. Thank you, Lord. I have identified I have generational curses, and now, I have canceled them by the blood of Jesus. They are expunged, I silence their words in my mind and my heart, and I will walk forward in your righteousness. In Yeshua's name, amen."

God bless you. {eoa}

Charisma Highlights: The Night Satan Showed Up at the Grammys

Following are snippets of the top stories featured over the past week on . We encourage you to visit the links to read the stories in full.

The Night Satan Showed Up at the Grammys

I wasn't watching the Grammy Awards last Sunday night, but I couldn't help but hear all the fuss about the controversial performance by artists Sam Smith and Kim Petros. Some people seemed surprised that their song "Unholy"—which is about a husband who cheats on his wife—won a Grammy for Best Pop Duo/Group Performance.

It's no shock that a song about immoral sex won an award. (Anyone familiar with rock 'n' roll or hip hop knows this.) But Smith and Petros pushed the current limits of decency when they turned their song into what looked like a Satanic ritual. Bathed in red light, Smith wore a hat with goat horns while half-nude women writhed around him. The performance also featured women in cages with whips, while real flames made the stage look like hell itself.

It's almost as if someone thought it would be a good idea to spend millions of dollars to record a worship anthem to the devil.

4 Tips to Fix Your Christian Marriage Problems

Christian married couples, like everyone else in the world, can have their ups and downs. The pressures at work, home and family can mount a pile so high you barely see your spouse on the other side. God created marriage and He longs for you to have a healthy, thriving marriage that produces much fruit.

With that in mind, Charisma magazine sat down with marriage coaches Stephen and Jenny Weaver to hear some tips on keeping a marriage fun, fresh and filled with God.

For us there is no better way than to be living for Jesus," Stephen says.

Security Camera Catches Miraculous Moment on Video

An apartment security camera caught a miraculous moment on video when a maintenance man entered an apartment and fell to the ground giving God praise because of what he saw when he entered the door.

Yasmyn Crespo was sitting at work when a notification popped up on her phone alerting her that someone had entered her home. "I checked the living room camera and once I did what you see in the video was happening live. It blessed me, it blessed all of my coworkers. We were just in shock. Those who weren't believers felt the Spirit of God moving," she said in a Charisma magazine interview.

In the video which has since been posted to TikTok and has garnered over 2.6 million views, the man notices a Bible verse of the day written on the wall. Crespo says she normally changes the verse each morning for a new day, but on that particular morning, the Holy Spirit stopped her in her tracks.

Discerning False Prophets and Delusions With Mario Murillo

My longtime friend Mario Murillo is providing a critical role in the body of Christ in speaking up against the wolves in sheep clothing. Matthew Henry said, "A traitor inside the camp is more dangerous than 1,000 persecutors outside the camp."

Christians want to be nice. Christianity is all about love and the gifts of the Spirit, but there is a biblical reality in speaking the truth in love. There are clear warnings in the Bible that there will be wolves in sheep's clothing hiding among us.

Sometimes it's a false prophet leading multitudes astray, other times it's an honorable man or woman of God who just got a prophetic word wrong.

The Lord Says, 'Don't Speak Words of Self-Sabotage'

One of the most important things a Christian can learn is that our God is a God who speaks. He wants us to know we can hear His voice. Prophecy is the basis for an on-going relationship with God. It deepens our walk and releases God's power in the earth.

Here is a portion of the revelation that poured through this prophetic portal in yesterday's [Sunday, Jan. 29] Celebration service. My prayer is that as you meditate on these words, the Holy Spirit will unlock layers of meaning that reveal His plans for your new journey.

"This is the beginning of a new journey for you. You will start journeying, and you will meet Me in a new way. Even if you choose to go your way, you will be on this new journey."

NFL Revival? Jesus, Prayer Sweep League

Faith and football are perhaps more intertwined today than ever before, a fact that seems undeniable in the wake of Buffalo Bills safety Damar Hamlin's near-death cardiac arrest.

And as the nation prepares for the Kansas City Chiefs and Philadelphia Eagles to face off in Sunday's Super Bowl LVII, Jason Romano, director of media at Sports Spectrum, an outlet covering the intersection of faith and sports, has some thoughts about the intermingling of Christianity and sport.

"I don't know if there are more people of faith [in the NFL today], but I know there are more vocal people of faith than ever before," Romano told CBN's Faithwire. "I think with the Damar Hamlin incident, with platforms like ours at Sports Spectrum, with players like Brock Purdy coming on the scene ... a devout follower of Christ, the two quarterbacks here at the Super Bowl ... both sharing that they're Christians."

He said Chiefs quarterback Patrick Mahomes has been more vocal about his faith than in the past, sharing how Mahomes believes God healed him from a terrible ankle injury.

Romano, who is on-site at State Farm Stadium in Glendale, Arizona, leading up to the big game, said Eagles coach Nick Sirianni is also a believer, among many others in the league. He heralded the openness—and boldness—so many have to share their hope in the gospel.

✘ "It feels like there's a lot more people willing to speak up and share about their faith," he said. "We need people out there talking about what brings them hope, and that's Christ."

The NFL has been experiencing a revival of sorts recently after Hamlin's Jan. 2 cardiac arrest during a Monday night football game sparked a nationwide prayer wave. Players have come together from various teams to support Hamlin and appeal to the Lord.

Pfizer's Covert War on Women

Pfizer's job is supposed to prevent respiratory illness. So why was the multinational drug giant so interested in the reproductive organs of the people who took their shots?

The drug giant is conducting a covert war on women, according to one expert whose team has reviewed the documentation Pfizer supplied to the Food and Drug Administration for approval, which the drug company wanted to keep hidden from the public for 75 years.

Naomi Wolf says Pfizer is conducting a "war on women" and human reproduction. That sounds strange, until you see Pfizer's own data, some of which I will share with you today.

Dr. Wolf and her team thought it odd that so much of Pfizer's FDA documentation focused on human reproductive systems. She wondered, "Why are they looking at ovaries versus testes concentration for a drug that's supposed to be treating a respiratory illness?"

Further research into Pfizer's FDA documentation showed that the drug giant's preclinical study (animal trials), performed on Wistar Han Rats, caused an abundant accumulation of lipid nanoparticles in the ovaries of the rats. This should have been a red flag.

But Pfizer proceeded to human clinical trials, regardless of the dangers their testing revealed.

Appendix 2.1 of the Pfizer documentation shows the devastation. In just the first three months of human testing, the drug giant documented more than 1.3 million adverse reactions before their shot was even unleashed on the wider public. More than 77% of those shot injuries occurred in women.

"What's so weird, creepy, and disgusting about the Pfizer documents is that their trials were about sex," Dr. Wolf says. "Their trials were about sex and reproduction: testes, ovaries, placenta, menstruation, lactation, spontaneous abortion—they knew. They were utterly focused on reproduction and knew they were damaging it."

"This is an intervention that leads women to have every kind of horrible thing happen to their uteruses, their menstrual cycles, their fallopian tubes, their ovaries, their babies, their babies' hearts ... it is a chamber of horrors," Dr. Wolf says. "They [Pfizer] knew it, and they kept going."

Not only did Pfizer "keep going" with its trials, but it also began pushing the drug on women even after becoming aware of the damage to human reproductive systems. "They told women to 'get injected; get injected,'" Dr. Wolf says. "Get injected while you're pregnant. Get your children injected."

"This is a war against women," Dr. Wolf continues. "It's a war against women's fertility, women's ability to nurse, women's ability to carry and deliver live babies. And they knew it! They ruined women."

And they continue to lie about it. Despite the 923,194 adverse reactions in women found in Appendix 2.1 of their clinical trials alone, Pfizer CEO Albert Bourla continues to fallaciously claim, “We’ve not seen a single [safety] signal, although we have distributed billions of doses.”

Pfizer and the FDA wanted to keep this information secret for 75 years. It took a federal court to order the FDA to turn over those documents to the public in exactly 108 days from his ruling—the same number of days it took the FDA to approve Pfizer’s COVID shot.

Speaking of crazy, the Pfizer insanity gets even crazier. A satanic ritual was performed as part of the music industry’s televised Grammy Awards on Sunday evening. The performance featured the “nonbinary” artist Sam Smith dressed as Satan singing about cheating on his wife.

Meanwhile, his paramour—a male transvestite surgically altered to appear as a woman—swung from a cage suspended over a satanic ritual. Dancers dressed as fawning demons undulated in a blood-red-lit satanic circle below, as the singers performed to the aptly titled tune “Unholy.”

The song and performance celebrated men having extramarital affairs with transvestite “women” and openly celebrating Satan and his war on women and the natural family.

Immediately after the performance, a slide appeared on every TV screen announcing, “This performance was brought to you by Pfizer.”

Yes, that’s right. The same pharmaceutical company that is destroying women’s ability to procreate sponsored a performance purposefully created to denigrate women and destroy the family. A war on women, indeed.

Satan’s goal has been, and always will be, to destroy humanity. “Trans culture” does this by sterilizing children and adults. Pfizer is doing it with a shot that destroys human fertility, while sponsoring an act that seeks to sterilize our children and destroy our families.

✘ Perhaps Pfizer is not simply conducting a war on women but is a participant in Satan's war on God Himself, taking casualties from His most precious creation—humankind.

Help us fight this evil. Liberty Counsel continues to defend Americans from Pfizer's dangerous drugs through our multiple class-action lawsuits against the shot mandates, even as we protect people desperately trying to escape the LGBTQ mafia's sterile "transgendered" design for their lives via our Christian counseling cases. Every day, we are fighting for life, religious liberty and the natural family in courtrooms across America. {eoa}

Larry Tomczak's Week in Review: Prayer and Repentance in Washington, DC

It's been said, "The darkest hour precedes the greatest revival!"

America has hit a tipping point. That is why over 1,000 national faith leaders, U.S. Senators, House members, plus global representatives came to the National Museum of the Bible to humbly repent and do what God calls for to turn our nation back to God.

Individuals publicly confessed their involvement in abortion; corruption; idolatry; homosexuality; lesbianism; gay "marriage"; bisexuality; transgender mutilation; abandonment of men, women and children in Afghanistan; open borders and drug trafficking that has killed hundreds of thousands.

Take 10 to learn of the humbling and spirit of repentance so critical in this hour and how you can witness the entire event at {eoa}
