

Charisma Online

A Community of Believers

One of the strengths of the early church was their unity. They supported one another socially, physically and spiritually. Although Americans are more isolated than ever before, Christians still need fellowship. To help meet this need Charisma has created an entire site dedicated to bringing believers of all walks of life together. In our safe, online environment, Christians can be encouraged and uplifted as they network with other believers. To be a part of this community of believers visit Charisma's Web site and click on the "community" icon.

Help Rebuild New Orleans

Go to to find ministries still helping to rebuild New Orleans after Hurricane Katrina devastated the Gulf city almost three years ago.

Befriending a Fallen Believer

Are you equipped to help restore fallen believers or do you shun them? Turning our backs on hurting Christians can only make matters worse for them. Go to to find positive solutions to help a fallen brother or sister.

Lou Engle Speaks Out

Visit our Web site to hear a teleconference call with Lou Engle, who will share his heart for TheCall event that will be held August 16 in Washington, D.C. Since the first TheCall event eight years ago, Engle has been mobilizing Americans to pray and fast for a radical change in our nation. Visit to hear him discuss this strategic moment in history and find out what he believes will happen if Christians unite in prayer.
