

5 Reasons We Are in the End Times

It may come as a surprise to some, but many contemporary theologians and pastors believe that they are observing numerous signs in our culture that mirror the prophetic contents of the Bible.

People actually believe the end of the world is happening now? It's true. Christians everywhere are starting to agree, citing sweeping moral decay, biblical disconnectedness and ongoing violence in the Middle East as just a few of the markers. These prophecies were written thousands of years ago in the Old and New Testaments, so how can we be sure the end times are approaching?

Jesus told of his future Second Coming, but also stated that no one would know the day of His return. While Christians don't know when, Jesus did reveal to the disciples some of the signs of the second coming. As tensions around the world have increased, the belief that the prophecies in the Bible are talking about modern times is increasingly common. Here's why.
