

6 Ways God Is Moving Supernaturally Right Now

There are moments in history when faith seems to move in extraordinary ways, bridging gaps between nations, religions and even long-standing divisions.

Pastor Larry Huch recently shared a powerful message highlighting a supernatural shift of God happening across the world. His words emphasized unity, miracles and the growing recognition of Jesus' Jewish identity. Here are some of his main takeaways:

1. The Power of Small Groups and Community Support

Huch attributes his own salvation and transformation to life groups—small gatherings where believers encourage each other and grow in faith. He urges others to join these groups to strengthen their spiritual walk.

“If it wasn't for them being those small groups, I don't know if I'd make it. They literally are life-giving groups.”

2. The Global Movement for Jesus

Huch highlights an upcoming mission trip to Brazil, where millions will march for Jesus in São Paulo, waving both Christian and Israeli flags. He describes it as a breathtaking movement unlike anything else. “There are five and a half million people on the street in São Paulo, as far as the eye can see, marching for Jesus.”

3. Jewish and Muslim Recognition of Jesus as the Messiah

Huch recounts an interaction with a Muslim leader who revealed a deep respect for Jesus. While they do not display images of Him due to religious tradition, they acknowledge His significance.

“We know Jesus is the Messiah, and we know He’s coming back real soon.”

4. The Role of Women in Faith and Leadership

Huch argues passionately that women are just as anointed as men in ministry, referencing biblical examples where God honors the prayers and voices of women.

“When women pray—when mothers pray—there is an anointing that comes that is not like anything else.”

5. Breaking Down Divisions in the Church

He warns against racial, economic and denominational divisions in Christianity, emphasizing that the church should be unified under Christ.

“There ought never be a white church, a black church, a brown church—just church.”

6. The Supernatural Move of the Holy Spirit

Huch believes that a new wave of miracles, signs and wonders is on the horizon, and Christians should expect the Holy Spirit to move in powerful ways.

“This is a time that God wants you to expect miracles—expect miracles in your life!”

Faith is never stagnant. According to Huch, the world is witnessing a divine convergence—Jews, Muslims and Christians recognizing Jesus, nations standing with Israel and believers experiencing supernatural breakthroughs. If what he says is true, then amazing days for the church are just beginning.
