

A True Servant

☒ Serving others is a key to finding fulfillment in your life. People today are experiencing great difficulties. Many are hurting, confused and struggling to find answers to their problems.

Go find these people. They may be in your neighborhood. They may be where you work. Some of these people may be your relatives, your hairdresser or your children's teachers. You have what they need. You may not be able to solve their problems but you can listen to them.

People today need someone who cares about them. They need someone who will reach out to them with concern and compassion. Albert Schweitzer was a man who committed his life to helping others. He has been called one of the greatest Christians of his time. Public acknowledgment of his selfless commitment to humanity was given to him in 1952 when he won the Nobel Peace Prize. Schweitzer once said, "The purpose of human life is to serve and to show compassion and the will to help others."

Who can you reach out to today? Who can you serve today? You will only know deep fulfillment in life when you choose to serve others!
