

Alveda King: 'At the End of the Day, a Child Is a Child No Matter What'

There is yet again more controversy, this time about whether or not Mr. Trump should include children of homosexual parents, partners or adopters in the health care plan.

Even in a case like this, pro-life would dictate that an innocent child deserves protection and health care.

While both abortion and homosexual marriage are anti-Bible, all the children are alive and in need of God's grace, in and out of the womb, as well as do those who birth or adopt them.

At the end of the day, a child is a child no matter what.

This current argument about human sexuality and healthcare for children is yet another tactic designed to cause distraction, angst and confusion.

It's like putting the children in the middle of a child custody battle. The children are innocents, not to be used as pawns. Grace is needed on behalf of the children.

"I do not nullify the grace of God. For if righteousness comes by the law, then Christ died in vain" (Gal. 2:21, MEV).

My friend CC, a pro-life prayer warrior, writes:

"When a homosexual woman comes into our facility impregnated via in vitro or by having sexual intercourse with who she considers a sperm donor, we love her and the child in her womb by taking care of the mother and the child together. We've seen lives saved and hearts changed because of Jesus' love."

"We're known as a Christian ministry. We've had to address this in our hearts before the first person crossed the threshold. While we do not agree with homosexuality or abortion, we take to Jesus the human dignity of the mother, father and child. God is the One who gives life ... the creator and sustainer of all human life.

"Through us honoring and valuing each life and reflecting His love and truth ... His Word in our hearts ... hearts and lives change. We know this to be true. Love."

I agree! Human dignity and human frailty, that's what Jesus' love and blood cure. Oh God, save our sin sick souls. Friends, stay focused. America, pray!
