

Are You a Feeler? Learn How to Navigate the Gift of Discernment

Are you always living under spiritual oppression and warfare?

Do you constantly come under what you discern?

A “feeler” is someone who has an intuitive spirit that has a sensitivity to things in the spirit realm. They tend to feel things and be more aware of the invisible world. The first gift I received from the Holy Spirit was the discerning of spirits at the age of 18. I began to feel everything in the spirit realm. To be honest, it was overwhelming at first. I began to experience a lot of spiritual warfare because of it and often felt “oppressed.” I didn’t know how not to feel all that I was experiencing.

God brought me through an amazing journey of maturing in this gift. One day, He said to me, “You can live in constant spiritual warfare, or you can live in My glory.” I didn’t know I had a choice! God began to teach me how to operate in discernment from the place of being insulated in His glory. It changed everything! I no longer felt like I lived in constant warfare and fighting off oppression. My quality of life was transformed.

For all the “feelers” out there, I want to mentor you in the gift of discerning of spirits. Discerning demons is only one-fourth the gift of discernment. There’s so much more! And you can live so filled and insulated in God’s glory that the demonic can’t touch you! When you walk into a room, rather than coming under the oppression in the room, the glory of God within you will dispel it. It’s way more fun!
