

Bible Museum Unveils 'Foretaste of Heaven' in New Worship Display

There's something new at the Museum of the Bible in Washington, D.C., just in time for the busy summer season. It's a worship experience like you've never seen or heard before.

It's called "All Creation Sings" and is inspired by Psalm 148 which declares, "Let them praise the name of the Lord!" It's a 45-minute experience posing the question: What is worship?

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Garrett Hinton, Chief Revenue Officer at the Museum of the Bible, says, "When somebody says worship to me, my mind immediately goes to the thing that we do at church on Sundays before the pastor gets up and gives the sermon. That's worship and indeed, that is worship. But as the Bible talks about worship, it's so much more than that. So the story is the story of the Bible, and it's taking you from Creation or Genesis all the way to Revelation."

Using the latest light detection and 3D laser technology, you can literally interact with the walls.

"Suddenly I'm a little kid again and I could go and create and paint on the walls at the beginning and at the end of this story," Hinton explained.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

The Museum of the Bible teamed up with a group called CREATR to feature some of Christian music's biggest names for this project.

"So you think of people like Jackie Hill Perry, Tasha Cobbs, Brandon Lake, Kari Jobe, Cody Carnes, Phil Wickham, Brooke Ligertwood, Chris Tomlin. It is the who's who that have come together to create this organization called CREATR, lending their voices to this before you go into the experience, really setting up the experience so that your heart and your mind is prepared to talk about worship and what it is and who deems it worthy," Hinton said.

To read the full story, visit our content partners at CBN News.

Reprinted with permission from . Copyright © 2024 The Christian Broadcasting Network Inc. All rights reserved.

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!