

Brandon Biggs' Warning to the Church and How You Can Pray

In a video update, Brandon Biggs said the Lord has placed it on his heart to pray against a coming darkness. He also says it is a Perry Stone video that helped him to know that what he was sensing in the spirit was accurate.

Recently, Perry Stone gave a warning about power outages, which is something that Biggs says God has been speaking to him about.

"When Perry Stone came out and said this and warned about the three weeks of power outage, it went alongside what the Holy Spirit warned me about to tell you," Biggs says.

"There's something going on with the power grid," he continues. "Gas stations would be closed, banks would be closed for this time, for power outages because it was a serious situation."

Biggs further says that one of the reasons why he shares the words he receives from the Lord is because they should act as a call to prayer for Christians to prayer against any darkness that wants to break through.

"I'm still praying over it, a major event going to take place in October, and so I'm praying over that," Biggs says. "If it comes and goes [and] nothing happens, it's because we're praying over it. That's what the Lord's called me to want to be able to use our authority and pray against things to stop them.”

Biggs also warned the church about a coming situation involving the shaking up of the economy. In this vision-like episode, Biggs saw the Hoover Dam with the words “the USA economy” written in black letters.

“The Lord showed me the dam and the dam had cracks all on the front of the dam. Some of them were big stress cracks, some of them were thin, real fine cracks...” he says.

Biggs perceives that this could be a sign of a potentially dreary 2025. He believes this is the time for Christians to make wise investments financially and spiritually through prayer. Even for those who believe Christians will be raptured before the worst of the worst days, Biggs still assures us that we must be strong as we will experience pressure and evil in this world regardless of the Rapture’s role in the future.
