

California Lawmaker Denounces 'Christian Prayer' at U.S. Capitol Event

California Rep. Jared Huffman (D) condemned the "Christian prayer" held at the U.S. Capitol for the National Prayer Breakfast.

In a video on X, Huffman said he was going to the event to "protest it."

He displayed two pins he wore to the event, one of which said "Build This Wall" for the separation of church and state. Huffman claimed the founders intended there to be such a "wall" for the "secular republic."

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Showing another pin, Huffman said, "This one says 'Entering Giliad,' of course a reference to a creepy dystopic theocracy, which is the slippery slope we're heading down with events like this.

"We should not be having a Christian prayer service in the sanctum of the United States Capitol in Statuary Hall," Huffman stated. "This is an actual violation of church-state separation like we've never seen. Second year in a row Speaker Johnson has done this, and now they're doing it in open collaboration with the Fellowship Foundation.

"Stuff like this, this complete breakdown of church-state separation," Huffman said, "is a big part of the dystopic authoritarian agenda at the heart of Donald Trump and his MAGA movement, and today, I'm going to try to do my part to just say enough."

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

Speaking at the National Prayer Breakfast, President Donald Trump declared that Americans should “bring God back into our lives.”

“From the earliest days of our republic, faith in God has always been the ultimate source of strength that beats in the heart of our nation. We have to bring religion back,” he said.

Democratic administrations have also held National Prayer Breakfasts.

This article originally appeared on American Faith, and is reposted with permission.

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!