

Connecting With the God of Dreams

We love it when we hear from God. The Bible and nature speak of His glory.

This week I'm working at the University of Cambridge in England. It is a beautiful sunny day and the students relax by the river, their bicycles parked nearby. God is speaking to me about relaxation. Relax and look up. I love you. I love each and every one you see.

In The God of Dreams, I unveil the role dreams play throughout Scripture as God has prophesied, warned and guided.

I am convinced God uses dreams today for similar purposes and to bring about salvations, healings and revelation. Dreams can reveal God's purposes. They can also highlight where you are stuck, who you need to forgive, and how you need to change.

In The God of Dreams, I also describe the place dreams have had in the lives and ministries of Christian trailblazers—Derek Prince, Leanne Payne, Jackie Pullinger and other saints past and present.

I encountered Jesus Christ for myself in the late 1980s and from then on, He has dealt with me very graciously. He has used dreams to draw me closer. Dreams can play their part in healing and in revelation as to how your past affects you today.

Not all dreams are from God. The main test is whether they line up with Scripture and God's prior revelation of His character and His ways.

Here in Cambridge, the trees by the river sparkle in the sunshine. God loves us all. Connect with Him.
