

Dare to Dream Again

by Barbara Wentroble

Thomas Edward Lawrence of Arabia is quoted as saying something very powerful about dreamers.

All men dream: but not equally. Those who dream by night in the dusty recesses of their minds, wake in the day to find that it was vanity:

but the dreamers of the day are dangerous men, for they may act on their dreams with open eyes, to make them possible.

As

you enter this new season, dare to dream again! Your dreams may have died in the past season. You may have experienced the loss of an investment, the loss of a relationship or the loss of a plan for success. The death of a dream can be devastating.

However, it is time to dream again. Turn loose of the pain of loss.

Receive

courage to rise up out of the death of the past season and to embrace newness of life. Don't merely dream the dream of the past. Let your dream now rise to a new level and begin to act on your dream.

You were born to be a dangerous dreamer who causes dreams to come true!
