

Declare Your Independence From Pro-Perversion Companies Like Target

As millions of Americans begin to shop for this coming July 4 weekend, AFA urges you to avoid Target stores when making purchases.

In April, Target publicized its corporate policy which allows men to frequent female restrooms and changing facilities. We view this policy as a danger to women and children because it provides a possible gateway for sexual predators to gain access to their victims.

Just last week, the Bedford, New Hampshire Police Department arrested a man inside a Target store for recording juvenile girls in a dressing room.

Since Target announced this dangerous policy in late April, over 1.3 million people have signed the boycott Target pledge. This doesn't include the millions of Americans who haven't signed the pledge but feel the same way about Target.

Target is hoping for a large sales weekend. By spending your money with their competitors, you are sending a strong message to Target that their policy is bad for business.

1. If you haven't already, sign the #BoycottTarget pledge. Invite your family and friends to sign the pledge too.
2. Share the Boycott Target information on social media and be sure to use #BoycottTarget.
3. Voice your concerns on Target's Facebook page.
