

Demi Lovato Apologizes for Trip to Israel After Intense Backlash

Demi Lovato is the latest victim of our “woke” culture.

Lovato wrote in a since-deleted post she is “extremely frustrated” after seeing social media users criticize her for her recent trip to Israel, where she was baptized in the Jordan River.

The 27-year-old entertainer, who was hospitalized last summer after suffering a severe drug overdose, documented her journey to the Holy Land on Instagram, sharing photos of her baptism. Lovato said she has “never felt such a sense of spirituality or connection to God.”
