

Disney Cancels 'Lesbian Space Witch' Show, The Acolyte

Disney's left-wing Star Wars spin-off must not have been as pleasing as they hoped it would be.

After just one season of releasing their "gay" Star Wars series, "The Acolyte."

As Deadline reported, Lucasfilm has decided not to move forward with a second season. While it received a 78% score on Rotten Tomatoes, viewers didn't take the bait. ABC News reported that the viewer rating only gave the show an 18% approval.

Is the answer to the disapproval rating of "The Acolyte" perhaps in the morality behind the show?

As Charisma previously reported, the ideology behind the show was centered on radical LGBTQ, race and feminist themes that are far from what most parents desire to put in front of their children.

The Daily Wire also described how the goal of "The Acolyte" was to be "coded queer," which apparently is something Disney did with its hit film, "Frozen."

No longer are the creators of shows beating around the bush. This is an outright admittance of radical indoctrination. Writers have even confessed to putting real spells in shows like “The Originals.”

Now is the moment that we must stand guard in the face of darkness. We cannot continue forward without the full armor of Christ on us each and every day.
