

Does Hillary Clinton Have an Urgent Prayer Need?

Does Hillary Clinton need our urgent prayers for healing? Two recent incidents on the campaign trail have many in the media suggesting she may have an undisclosed health condition.

Friday, during an interview with the National Association of Black Journalists and the National Association of Hispanic Journalists, the Democratic Party presidential nominee nearly called her Republican counterpart, Donald Trump, her husband. The gaffe drew a number of laughs, but also brought attention back to a number of bizarre outbursts and physical reactions from Clinton over the past few weeks.

Then, Sunday, photos emerged of Clinton nearly slipping and falling while climbing a short staircase outside a home. Photos distributed by both Reuters and Getty Images show aides helping the candidate up the remaining steps.

Some in the mainstream media claim the photos are from “several years ago,” but they match the outfit and hairstyle she was wearing while campaigning in Colorado last Thursday. Clinton has reportedly suffered a number of falls in the past few years, including one that left a blood clot on her brain.

Both incidents now have members of the media questioning if Clinton is 100-percent healthy. Among the “symptoms” discussed regularly:

- Odd facial ticks and expressions
- Possible seizures
- Confusion (per long-time aide Huma Abedin)
- Coughing fits
- Low energy
- Oversleeping
- Outbursts of anger

There are a number of possible causes—ranging from Post-Concussion Disorder and Parkinson's Disease to stroke or adverse reactions to medication—none of which are good news for Clinton or her family. Paul Joseph Watson of InfoWars explored those possibilities in the disturbing video below.
