

Does Trans Influencer Dylan Mulvaney Truly Want a Relationship with God?

God and everything associated with Him, His creation and His design for humanity are under attack in America.

The LGBTQ and gender ideologists have targeted God and His teachings to justify their unnatural dogmas that God made them in a way that directly contradicts His Word.

Recently, trans TikTok megastar Dylan Mulvaney, who was born a man but has shot to stardom for saying he identifies as a woman on the social media platform, recently said he is "Trying really hard to maintain a relationship with God."

Mulvaney made the announcement at his "365 Days of Girlhood" live performance, celebrating... Dylan.

"I'm going to say something that might make people feel a little bit uncomfortable," Mulvaney told the crowd in the Rainbow Room of the Rockefeller Center. "I'm trying really hard to maintain a relationship with God."

"I don't think He made a mistake with me and that maybe one day I'll actually be thankful that being trans isn't a curse, it's just another path to the same goal," says Mulvaney.

Except that it would benefit Mulvaney greatly to know there is only one path to the goal of eternity in heaven, and that is through Jesus Christ (John 14:6).

Mulvaney appears to have accepted the most prevalent lie that Satan has spread across America to divert people away from realizing their God-ordained purpose in life: That they are just born this way.

The entire premise that a person is born any way other than how God created humanity, male and female, with the purpose to fill the earth and live for His glory, is a lie. #

Scientists and proponents of the “just born this way” train of thought have tried for decades to discover a biological component to this gender phenomenon that has shaped GenZ in a way no other generation before it has experienced.

“It’s effectively impossible to predict an individual’s sexual behavior from their genome,” said Benjamin Neale, the director of genetics in the Stanley Center for Psychiatric Research at the Broad Institute and an associate professor in medicine at Harvard Medical School (HMS) in the 2019 breakout study conducted by Broad Institute of Harvard and MIT, published in the journal Science.

Yet there is one crucial area that many in the science community have abandoned that offers insight into the transformation of human sexuality that the world sees today: the spiritual perspective.

To say God made someone a certain way, but the lifestyle (homosexuality/transgenderism) is an affront to God because it goes against His design, purpose and righteousness, nullifies the Word of God by claiming God is in fact not omniscient, omnipresent and omnipotent. In doing so, a person invalidates the holiness and inerrancy of the Bible due to the contradictions of believing God created someone in a way that He abhors and finds sinful.

It is the world people are born into that is cursed with sin, and humanity is tarnished by this curse. The truth of redemption and salvation can be found within the Bible, which is being attacked by having its words twisted to suit various lifestyles it condemns.

Satan wants to invalidate the Word of God, to make it an ancient relic that people no longer turn to. Within its pages are the truth that would guide humanity to salvation in Jesus Christ.

The Bible also offers the absolute truth in the modern-day gender ideologies that have mutilated children and sparked social uproar across the world:

- Genesis 1:27: "So God created man in His own image; in the image of God He created him; male and female He created them."
- Psalm 139:13: "You brought my inner parts into being; You wove me in my mother's womb."
- Ephesians 2:10: "For we are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand, so that we should walk in them."

When God was finished creating the universe and humanity, He saw that it was good.

What Satan is doing to corrupt that creation and mankind's identity in God is evil. This does not mean Dylan Mulvaney is evil, but that he is being deceived by one who is.

If Mulvaney truly wishes to form a relationship with God, something all Christians should pray and intercede for on his behalf, then the first step in that relationship is the repentance for his sins.

It would take a divine appointment for this to occur, for who is bearing witness of Jesus in these elite circles around the world? Who is sharing the gospel with politicians, influencers, athletes and corporate leaders?

God is more than capable of arranging such an appointment, but who in the body of Christ is lifting up before the Lord those with such influence and power that they may be convicted of their sin by the Holy Spirit and repent?

Until that life-changing encounter occurs, misled people will continue putting forth false messages and leading astray those who do not know the truth behind the ideology they promote.

{eoa}

 Bring Charisma magazine home with a subscription today!

James Lasher is Staff Writer for Charisma Media.