

Donald Trump: 'The Only People Brave Enough to Vote Out This Corrupt Establishment is You, the American People'

Friday night, Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump's campaign rolled out its final TV ad ahead of Tuesday's general election, titled "Donald Trump's Argument for America."

The two-minute ad—four times longer than his typical ad—features the GOP nominee asking the American people for their vote by outlining his positive vision for America. His campaign said the ad, which has a $4 million buy and is running in the battleground states of Florida, Pennsylvania, Nevada, Ohio, Michigan, Colorado, Iowa, North Carolina, and New Mexico, is his "closing argument" to the American voter.

Trump says:

Our movement is about replacing a failed and corrupt political establishment with a new government controlled by you, the American people.

The establishment has trillions of dollars at stake in this election.

For those who control the levers of power in Washington and for the global special interests, they partner with these people that don't have your good in mind.

The political establishment that is trying to stop us is the same group responsible for our disastrous trade deals, massive illegal immigration and economic and foreign policies that have bled our country dry.

The political establishment has brought about the destruction of our factories and our jobs as they flee to Mexico, China and other countries all around the world.

It's a global power structure that is responsible for the economic decisions that have robbed our working class, stripped our country of its wealth and put that money into the pockets of a handful of large corporations and political entities.

The only thing that can stop this corrupt machine is you. The only force strong enough to save our country is us.

The only people brave enough to vote out this corrupt establishment is you, the American people.

I'm doing this for the people and the movement and we will take back this country for you and we will make America great again.

Campaign spokesman Jason Miller said the ad will run during national news and prime-time entertainment broadcasts, as well as during NFL and college football games, and this weekend's televised NASCAR events in Texas. His campaign logo is also appearing on the side of one of the cars racing in Sunday's Sprint Cup race.

"This is Mr. Trump's positive closing message to American voters, and it comes at a time when Secretary Clinton has abandoned any positive message of her own," Miller added. "We believe voters are looking to go in a new direction and Mr. Trump is ready to lead this change."
