

Dr. James Dobson: Trump's Victory Couldn't Have Come at a More Important Hour

Following President-Elect Donald Trump's victory in Tuesday's general election, Dr. James Dobson has issued the following statement:

Shirley and I would like to congratulate President-Elect Donald Trump and Vice President-Elect Mike Pence on their hard fought victory. We believe this outcome is good for America, and it could not come at a more critically important hour.

Trump's victory is a reaffirmation of the importance the American people place on religious liberty, the sanctity of human life, and a conservative judiciary.

The American people have spoken clearly, and in so doing they have affirmed yet again our founding fathers' vision for America. It remains as true today as it has ever been, "In God We Trust."
