

Dr. Michael Brown: I Am Deeply Disappointed in the Cowardice of Georgia Gov. Nathan Deal

Dr. Michael Brown has some strong words for the cowardly act of Georgia Gov. Nathan Deal.

By rejecting a religious freedom bill that would have protected pastors who rejected performing same-sex ceremonies, Brown says Deal trashed the religious liberties of the people of Georgia in the name of political correctness.

READ: "It's Open Season on People of Faith in Georgia"

"Gov. Deal, with all respect to your role as an elected public official as the governor of Georgia, I have to say along with millions of other Americans, I am deeply disappointed with your act of cowardice today, with your attack on religious freedoms today in your vetoing a perfectly good bill."

Watch the video to see more.