

Dr. Michael Brown: The Outrageous Transgender Laws in NYC

In the last few days and weeks, with relatively little public fanfare, radical legislation was enacted in New York City and Washington State to protect the rights of those who identify as transgender—at the cost of everyone else. And when I say “cost,” I’m not exaggerating.

In New York, violation of these new laws could cost you up to $250,000 for a single offense.

What exactly do these new laws do? Watch the video to see.
