

Election 2020: Pennsylvania's Vote Certification Blocked Today

Almost 157 years to the day of the famed Gettysburg's Address that made the town famous, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, made history again as the president of the United States spoke to a committee hearing of the Pennsylvania Senate regarding the 2020 election.

The statement, essentially summarized by former New York City mayor and personal legal counsel Rudy Giuliani, included how the president won the election by a landslide, so much so that the computer system put in place to steal the election was overwhelmed. Voting had to be stopped to catch up with preprinted ballots being fed into it, an approach the company Dominion had used in previous election disruptions worldwide.

Multiple testimonies were given from a wide variety of people ranging from system professionals to experienced poll workers, to people who had just voted and were denied a vote and others. Giuliani and counsel Jenna Ellis led the hearing, which clearly shocked the state senators and angered the audience, who repeatedly interrupted speakers with loud gasps and clapping.

Following all testimony, the president, who had planned to attend the hearing but could not, called into the hearing. He said, "We have to turn the election over. This election was rigged, and we can't let that happen. We can't let it happen for our country, and this election has to be turned around because we won Pennsylvania by a lot, and we won all these swing states by a lot."

Added to the litany of abuse, intimidation and harassment experienced at the counting centers, two simple figures stunned all those assembled—nearly 680,000 votes were included with no confirmation and another 700,000 were added to the total, again with no trail of evidence. These two facts alone caused anger and bolstered the president's claim that, in fact, he won the election by an overwhelming number of votes.

"Now, as we undergo another election cycle, it's comforting to hear people prophesy that God has a plan," says bestselling author of God, Trump and COVID-19, Stephen Strang, reflecting John 8:32, "And you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free."

In the final minutes, a judge ordered the cancellation of the certification of the Pennsylvania vote.

The hearing was adjourned by the committee chairman with the words of Galatians 6:9, "And let us not grow weary in doing good, for in due season we shall reap, if we do not give up."
