

Election 2024: We Must Make a Stand on Our Knees and at the Ballot Box

If another generation is to enjoy America's constitutional freedoms, we must make a stand on both our knees and at the ballot box. We must make a stand on our knees because the root cause of the moral confusion and societal chaos that surrounds us is that our culture has forgotten God. There must be a national return to the God of the Bible.

We must also make a stand at the ballot box because one political party has rejected the one true God and is not committed to America's constitutional freedoms. We cannot allow such a party to gain power.

Why Harris and Walz Are Bad for America

When she served as a senator, Kamala Harris was ranked as the most liberal person in that body, even to the left of Bernie Sanders and Elizabeth Warren. Her oft-quoted phrase, "unburdened by what has been," has its roots in Marxist ideology. This should not be surprising since her father was a Marxist professor of economics at Stanford University.

The phrase means that nothing of the past should hinder the pursuit of a new Marxist, socialist utopia. For Harris and her running mate, Tim Walz, who has expressed great admiration for the Chinese communist system, this means nothing in America's history is sacred.

In their thinking, there is nothing sacred about the Declaration of Independence and the U.S. Constitution, and they should not be burdened by them as they forge a new future for America, nor should they be burdened by the Bill of Rights.
