

Even Donald Trump Can't Fool Mother Nature

Virginia Beach's event with presidential candidate Donald Trump will be rescheduled, according to Virginia House of Delegates Republican Rep. Scott Taylor from Virginia Beach.

Trump may have the last laugh, though. The 2,500 seats sold out almost immediately, and the interruption from Mother Nature may make room for a larger event.

"I'm hoping to bring more candidates. The event sold out much (more quickly) than anyone anticipated. The campaign, as it should, is running the event," Taylor said. "I am pushing for a larger venue. My goal is for as many people as desire, to be able to attend. You, your families and Virginia are very important."

What makes Trump so popular in Virginia Beach? Would you go to one of his rallies?
