

Ex-Lesbian: Have We Been Censored?

The television is and always has been a major time waster and attention grabber. In this present day, we can carry every television show wherever we go. Our mobile devices have replaced the television in manipulating our time and diverting our concentration. The entertainment industry is mostly dominated by spiritual wickedness in high places. The promoters of the industry strategically design programming that subtly gain our approval of lust, sin and greed. We absorb their dirty jokes and their parade of illicit sexual acts without the slightest conviction. Our children not only watch this flamboyant display of immorality but join their parents in welcoming almost pornographic acts right into the center of our living room every night.

Almost every show, as well as commercials, have taken on the acceptance of the transgender lifestyle along with same sex relationships. It is as if every producer and sponsor has an unspoken obligation to promote the LGBTQ agenda. They portray the gay and lesbian lifestyle in the most normal setting, without any hint of disapproval. If there is a hint of disapproval depicted, it is immediately shown as discrimination. In almost every movie, sitcom and commercial, no one can verbalize any sort of disapproval of this evil lifestyle without condemnation. The strategy is to make anyone who disagrees with homosexuality feel abnormal and to decrease their influence of any contrary belief against this sin.

The media has promoted the LGBTQ agenda to be favorable, glamorous and funny. The entertainment industry portrays the homosexual as someone who needs our sympathy and affirmation. They look for acceptance and will not tolerate anything contrary.

What does this now mean? This means if you want to watch television with your children, you must get used to gay characters who will not hide their sexuality. The networks and production companies that release many of our children's animation movies are looking for ways to develop characters who are openly gay. Why do our children need that in a cartoon? Why are we allowing the media and entertainment industry to dictate their ideologies and devilishly sensuous ways to our families? Can the open barrage of homosexuality in the media be blamed for so many children being so confused about their sexuality, as in the case of these three young friends who decided together their gender needed to be changed. There appears to be no avenue that is safe. Social media is immersed in immoral acts and the promotion of gender dysphoria. Almost every genre is determined to thrust their bedroom secrets and sexual sins right into our living rooms and the palms of our hands.

Can we continue to accept this and uphold the kingdom agenda? If we are to walk in agreement with God, how can we agree with this atrocity that has been strong-armed into every home? Where are those that have a heart for God and stand for holiness? Do we just sit in silence because this is what the world is coming to? Why are we allowing our lives to be immersed in this evil? How can we even blame anyone else when we stand by and do nothing to prevent the homosexual agenda from infiltrating the lives of our family?

We believe in the freedom of speech and everyone's right to express themselves freely. That same inalienable right is afforded to every Christian. We should not stand in silence just because someone says our beliefs offend them. The LGBTQ have been allowed to parade their lifestyle in front of our children and push their way into our homes. They hold us hostage to their agenda. However, we possess a God-given right to refuse them. We do not have to accept their programming or support those entities that continue to promote this ungodliness. Our voice counts but will never amount to anything if we don't speak up against this.

We have a powerful voice because we have a powerful God. Remember who you are and stand on the promises of God. The apostles of old stood up for what they believed. They were not always popular for doing it. They were not liked, because their words cut deep. Regardless of what the outcome was, they still spoke up and made it their business to stand against sin. It may seem as though the media has gained ground, but if we unite and pray against the present darkness, the light of Christ can pierce even the hardest places and tear down the strongest mountains. Stand on God and in faith. Our voice counts and can make the difference. {eoa}

Janet Boynes founded Janet Boynes Ministries in Maple Grove, Minnesota, in 2006. She has authored three books and challenges individuals and the church to reach out with a message of hope and restoration to the homosexual community. Her articles have been featured on the front cover of Charisma magazine, Called magazine, Power for Living, Bound magazine and many more. Called out of the lesbian lifestyle, her life is proof that the love of God has the power to heal and restore the brokenness in our lives. Janet travels the U.S. and overseas and shares her story of redemption. Her desire is to bring hope through the power of Jesus Christ.
