

Ex-Lesbian Warns of Transgender Mindset Takeover

“Transgender Male Breaks Female Records.” Really?

The headlines blasts what appears to be as an amazing success story of a transgender “man” who broke records in a women’s wrestling event. Really? A man who broke a women’s record is not amazing news of victory. It is an outright disgrace and extremely unfair to the women who work so hard in their fields to compete against each other. Their efforts are being annihilated by someone who was born with the capacity for greater physical strength and ability.

You don’t need a godly conviction to realize that men and women are not created equal in strength and ability. God designed men different than women. They were made to complement each other and procreate with one another. Their union should be revered as the divine order of a loving Creator. He designed a man with greater strength and ability and a woman to complement the man as they walk together as one.

Society has strayed so far from God’s divine order. This world seems to have blinders without the capacity to hear God’s heart that cries because we have corrupted His purpose and perverted His creation. The statement in Roman’s 1 is that we have changed the truth of God into a lie to fit our own lust and sensuality. The world does not honor God’s holiness any longer. We have brought our perception of God to the forefront rather than God’s declaration of Himself. We would rather give homage to the thoughts in our minds rather than stand on the reality of truth that a woman was created for the man and the man for the woman. This union, and only this union, is right in the sight of God. Everything else is the distortion of our mind to satisfy our lusts and bring to light the hidden darkness of our perversions.

The fact that a nation will stand behind this male wrestler to support his right to compete as a woman is proof of the demoralization of our society. We please man and this flesh rather than find out what pleases God. We boast to be one nation under God, but what God? The God of our forefathers had standards. They did not let their sin parade in front of everyone. They protected the minds of the children so that they at least had a fighting chance to think untainted thoughts. They would not openly and collectively force their sexual preferences to the forefront. There was a sense of shame and embarrassment for anyone to indulge in such ungodly practices. It stayed behind closed doors.

This present evil flaunts itself right in front of us and demands rights. The upcoming generation of children are desensitized to the degradation involved in this type of behavior. They are being raised to see this transgender man and all like him as victims. They are being taught that his rights are being stripped from him. Who then is fighting for the rights of these women? Do they have a right to compete in a sport that is just for women who were actually born women? Do we just throw Biology 101 out of the window? This man's confusion did not change his biological structure.

People of God, we cannot silently stand by and let this type of mindset dominate our society. We have rights that are slowly being taken away from us because we don't express our disdain. Do we value our God and the work of Christ in our lives enough to stand up and speak out? Why do we keep silent and let this evil infiltrate our lifestyle without opposition? Our silence is easily taken as our acceptance. Soon, men will dominate all sports arenas. Transgender women will start jumping into men's sporting events, working even harder to try to prove they are just as strong as men physically. They will overwork themselves because they just cannot accept that God made them female. When does it stop?

People of God, our voice is so necessary in this hour. We need to awaken out of our comfort zone and hold up the light of Christ. He can only be heard by our voices. Are you speaking up for your Savior? Where are those who cry loud and spare not? Speak up and speak out. This is not just human rights, but your right to practice what you believe is on the line. Stand with us as we stand against this evil.
