

Fired Curt Schilling Predicts Something Will Go Down 'in a Big Way'

Curt Schilling, who was fired from ESPN for his stance on transgender bathroom usages, predicts the legislation will lead to horrifying consequences.

"Everybody's talking, '... People are going to get raped in a women's bathrooms.' The issue is not this," Schilling said. "What's going to happen—it's already happened—but it's going to happen one time in a big way, somebody is going to get molested in a women's room, and it's going to be a child, and some scum-bag, pervert child molester is going to go to jail and the transgender community is going to be in a place they never, ever wanted to be, because they're going to have to be defending their right to use a bathroom, which opens up the door."

Watch the video for more of his interview.