

For a Nonelected Government Official, Fauci Has Taken on the Role of a Dictator

In accordance with the high-handed dictates of the oppressive COVID ordinances, Dr. Anthony Fauci proclaimed recently on MSNBC's Morning Joe: "I'm sorry. I know people must like to have their individual freedom ... but I think that we're in such a serious situation now that under certain circumstances, mandates should be done."

"Should" is used here as an imperative verb; it refers to an order, a command.

If it is up to nonelected government officials like Fauci to mandate masks, double masks, triple masks and treble vaccines, officialism will turn into despotism, and directorship into dictatorship, with Fauci sharing the ranks of Kim Jong-un, Joseph Stalin, Fidel Castro, Adolf Hitler, Benito Mussolini and numerous other modern totalitarian dictators of similar ilk.

In assessing the assault against liberty and free speech through censorship, invalidation, exclusion and coercion by Big Tech, Big Media and Big Government, we view it as a divine message to American Christendom regarding its complete isolation and disconnection from the public square. In contrast to Jesus' kingdom assignment from Matthew 16:18, the church in America has become irrelevant in the raging battle for ideological supremacy in the culture and public square. It is off-kilter, off-key, and has fallen by the wayside.

In Dr. Bruce K. Waltke's accurate appreciation of Genesis 3:14: "The serpent's final defeat under Messiah's heel [3:15] is delayed to effect God's program of redemption through the promised offspring. In the interim, God leaves Satan to test the fidelity of each succeeding generation of the covenant people [Judg. 2:22] and teach them to fight against untruth [Judg. 3:2].”

Reichsmarschall Hermann Göring (1893-1946) was without equal in his understanding of the profundities and obscurities of dictatorship. As one of the primary architects of the Nazi police state from 1933 to 1945, Göring supervised the formation of the Gestapo in 1933, helped establish the secret political police, and initiated concentration camps for the “corrective treatment” of opponents and resisters (in other words, those who wouldn’t follow his mandates).

Sentenced to death as a war criminal by the International Military Tribunal at Nuremberg in 1946, Göring committed suicide by taking cyanide the night before his execution. He saw dictatorship as not too difficult to achieve, since “All you have to do is tell them they are being attacked and denounce the pacifists for lack of patriotism and exposing the country to danger. It works the same way in any country.”

Deception and falsification are always involved in the process.

The German Reichstag Building, one of Berlin’s most famous landmarks, had opened in 1894 and housed the German parliament until it was severely damaged after being set on fire on Feb. 27, 1933. Hermann Göring was one of the first to arrive on the scene.

An unemployed Dutch construction worker named Marinus van der Lubbe (1909-1934) was tried, convicted and executed for setting fire to the Reichstag as a communist agitator. Claiming emergency powers, Hitler used the incident as a pretext to suspend civil liberties and basic rights, with the German Cabinet drawing up the “Decree of the Reich President for the Protection of the People and State,” which, among others, abolished freedom of speech, assembly, privacy and the free press.

The van der Lubbe case and conviction remain ongoing topics of debate and research in historical scholarship. In 2008, Germany posthumously pardoned van der Lubbe under a law introduced in 1998 to overturn certain cases of Nazi injustice.

Both the American journalist, historian and novelist William L. Shirer (1904-1993), best known for his classic The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich: A History of Nazi Germany (1960) and the British historian Alan Bullock (1914-2004), author of the 776-page biography Hitler: A Study in Tyranny (1952) believed the Nazi Party itself was responsible for starting the fire.

With that in mind, the “hysteria” and “pervasive incitement of panic” fomented by Big Tech, Big Media and Big Government—for a virus with a % survival rate—has set off alarm bells for lovers of freedom. The CDC acknowledges that “the statistics for children under the age of 18, that are healthy ... survival rate is % with no treatment. The influenza virus is more dangerous to children than COVID-19.” Regardless, Dr. Fauci continues to call for vaccinating the youth.
