

Franklin Graham Issues Stern Warning to Parents About LGBT Agenda in Schools

Evangelist Franklin Graham has issued a stern warning to parents of children in the wake of recent published events concerning the pushing of the LGBTQ agenda in our nation's schools: Wake up.

The recent resignation of a Virginia school teacher, and officials in the Atlanta public school system telling the parents of a kindergartner to leave its district if they didn't want their child to learn about the progressive LGBTQ ideologies in this country has Graham very concerned.

Graham says the nation's school boards are to blame.

"You'd better pay attention to what your children—and grandchildren—are being taught in school," Graham said on Facebook. "A public elementary school in Atlanta told a Catholic couple that their 5-year-old child would need to leave the district to avoid learning about LGBTQ+ issues in KINDERGARTEN! Unbelievable.

"I've been saying since 2016 that one of the most important ways we can make a difference is through our school boards. School boards across this country have been taken over by radical progressives who want to stuff the LGBTQ agenda and other ideologies down our throats.

"We need Christian men and women to run for school boards and bring their voice to the table. It can be done. Pray and get involved." {eo}
