Speaking in the hours before the 2024 presidential election, Graham, president of Samaritan's Purse and the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, told CBN News his biggest concern for America is our spiritual deficit. He expressed hope "somehow our nation would turn to God."

"God's the only one who can fix this country," he said. "Donald Trump's not going to be able to fix it. There's other problems he can address and I think fix, but what we've done is we've turned our back on God as a nation, and we have accepted things – moral issues that politicians have made political, like abortion, homosexuality, these types of things the church has kind of caved on."

Ultimately, Graham said Americans must turn their hearts back to the eternal to find spiritual healing.

"Our hearts have to be changed," he added. "And only God can change those hearts."

"Our country, I believe, is doomed unless we repent of our sins," Graham said. "And call upon the name of the Almighty God and His Son, Jesus Christ, and turn from those sins."
