

FRC Event Will Explore How Liberalism Steals the Hearts and Minds of Our Children

Next Wednesday, the Family Research Council will host a discussion about the impact liberalism in our society is having on our children.

The event, titled “Abduction: How Liberalism Steals out Children’s Hearts and Minds,” will take place at noon EST. FRC released the following statement about the upcoming event, which centers around a new book by Dr. Carol M. Swain:

Every day, children are being inundated with messages that stand in opposition to traditional family values. Moral relativism and secular progressivism are waging an all-out war for the moral integrity of America’s children. Abduction: How Liberalism Steals out Children’s Hearts and Minds issues an Amber Alert for the souls and minds of America’s youth. The book exposes how the liberal left seeks to brainwash our children. It places a spotlight on the corruption that permeates the entertainment, educational, and judicial systems of our nation.

Join Dr. Carol M. Swain as she informs parents, teachers and policymakers on what is happening right under their noses and offers a practical guide for fighting back against those who would destroy the moral compasses of our children.
