She was “at the end” of herself and was questioning her purpose when something truly surprising happened.

White was at a stoplight on Sunset Boulevard when she cried out to God with a simple request: “God, if you’re real, I need you to show me who you are, because I don’t know why I’m here, and I don’t want to live anymore.”

It was at that moment that a man in the car next to her beeped his horn and pointed to his radio, which was tuned to a Christian station. Then, he waved and drove away; White noticed that he had a bumper sticker on his car that read “Jesus loves me.”

But that wasn’t the only notable moment. When White tuned into the station the man had pointed out she was shocked by what she heard.

“It was a pastor repeating the exact words that I had just cried out to God,” she said, noting that the stunning moment changed her perspective. “God knew that he had to give me a blatant miraculous sign to say, ‘Your time on this earth is not done yet.’”

And that sign resonated. White soon started attending church again and began to build a strong faith. Now, she’s inspiring the masses through shows like Malibu Dan.
