

How Believers Should Respond to Rash of Church Shootings

White chairs with the name of the victims who died in the mass shooting in Texas were set up inside the church where it took place in November. This shooting, and others like it in recent memory, have given church members around the nation much to think and pray about.