

How God Can Use Creativity to Overcome Your Obstacles

Recently on Live Your Best Life with Liz Wright, Gracie Wright shares her incredible testimony of being healed of a childhood brain injury and going on to become an award-winning author. Her severe injury left her without any memories before the age of 11. She went on a journey of rediscovering her identity and relationship with Jesus. Gracie speaks on overcoming adversity through creativity and how the Lord healed her of the trauma and restored what was taken from her.

Father God encountered Gracie when she was on the path back to Jesus, and in an encounter He told her she would become an award-winning children's author and stand next to royalty. She laughed it off, but then the Lord told her to start writing that afternoon. She followed His voice, and creativity poured out of her, as well as immense healing of her own childhood. There are times we come to a crossroads moment with Jesus, and just like Gracie, we can either follow our own path or follow Him even when we don't understand.

In 2016 she saw His words to her that day come to pass, as she was handed an award for her children's books by Prince Charles. The heart behind much of her creativity is that God loves us just the way we are; we have His complete delight, affirmation and approval. We are each created uniquely by Him; there is no competition!

Gracie's story of rediscovering life reveals the heart of Jesus to restore and heal your life as well. He wants to deeply heal you from your past and bring restoration in the journey ahead. The Father knows exactly how to reach you in your circumstances, no matter where you are. Invite Him to come and restore your childlikeness today, and watch Him open doors for you that no man can shut. {eoa}
